Neutrality Battle Opens in Senate Today

REVISION MEANS A COSTLY WAR, LEADERS WARN

Vandenberg to Talk Against Change.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The most momentous debate in congress in a quarter of a century is scheduled to begin in the senate tomorrow. It will determine whether the United States is to become a full fledged belligerent in the war raging overseas.

The question at issue is whether three sections of the neutrality act shall be repealed—section 2 forbidding American ships to carry cargoes to belligerent countries, section 3 forbidding Americans and American ships to enter combat zones proclaimed by the President, and section 6 prohibiting the arming of American merchant ships.

Ranged upon one side will be senators who contend it is necessary to repeal these provisions in order to insure delivery to Great Britain and Russia of military equipment essential to the defeat of Adolf Hitler and thereby remove a menace to the safety of the United States without involving the country in actual shooting war.

Report by Committee.

That is the contention made in the report of the senate foreign relations committee on the pending legislation which was made public today by the committee chairman, Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.].

"It does not seem reasonable," said the report, "to exert the utmost national effort to produce and acquire defense articles and materials and not take steps necessary to insure their full utilization. Every cargo sent to the bottom of the Atlantic diminishes our preparations for the national defense."

Lined up on the other side will be those senators who argue that the repeal of these neutrality act provisions would be tantamount to a declaration of war. The anti-interventionist minority of the committee will make no formal report to the senate against repeal of the three sections but will present its opposition in a series of speeches, the first of which is to be made by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] tomorrow or Tuesday.

Warning from La Follette.

Another anti-interventionist member of the committee, Sen. Robert M. La Follette [P., Wis.], said today that the repeal of the neutrality act would project the country into a war costing at least 250 billion dollars and requiring an army of from 8 to 10 million men.

"The action of the foreign relations committee," said Sen. La Follette, "proposes to remove the last barrier to an all-out shooting, naval and merchant marine war. It is my firm conviction that if congress repeals the vital remaining provisions of the neutrality act the action will ultimately mean the projection of our country into an all-out war in which not only our sea forces but a vast United States army will be engaged.

"The American people should realize that it is not only the question of protecting American merchant ships that is involved in the step proposed by the committee but the question of the dispatch of a national expeditionary force to the old world.

Argument for an AEF.

"I do not need to be a military expert, which I am not, to arrive at that conclusion, which is buttressed by the judgment of the highest officers of the British army who have given it as their considered professional opinion that Hitler can be defeated only by the invasion of the European continent by an army sufficiently large and sufficiently well equipped to conquer the German army. And they have given it as their opinion that Britain cannot do this job and that it will be necessary for America to send an army overseas if the Nazis are to be subdued.

"This professional military view of the problem of beating Hitler has been impressively substantiated by the inability of Great Britain to take advantage of the involvement of vast

GERMANS CLAIM NEW BREAKTHRU IN MOSCOW LINE

Say Armored Units Rip Wide Front.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP).—German armored and infantry divisions have broken Russian resistance "on a broad front" on the sector before Moscow after fierce fighting which included a number of surprise Nazi attacks, DNB, the official news agency, stated tonight.

The agency did not state exactly where the action took place, describing the location simply as being in the middle sector of the eastern front. Surprise attacks enabled the Germans to seize a number of fortifications, DNB said, while others were taken only after heavy fighting.

The Russians, in an attempt to check the advancing Germans, were supported by strong artillery fire. In a battle on this sector on Friday the Germans took 4,000 prisoners, 10 tanks and 18 guns, and then destroyed another 13 Russian tanks on Saturday.

Reds Make Counterattacks.

Late dispatches from other points on the eastern front reported a number of stubborn soviet counterattacks which led to bloody fighting and finally resulted in Red army forces being driven back.

Bomb destruction of parts of Russia's Murmansk railroad, claimed by the German high command, indicated the Germans were taking precautions against British and American aid slipping into Russia by way of the Arctic sea route.

[This, did not take into consideration the possibility that icebreakers might keep open a White sea channel to Archangel, 200 miles east of the main line and another possible port of entry for American and British aid.]

The impression prevailed in many quarters that the United States preferred the arctic route to the longer haul to Vladivostok in order to avoid irritating Japan.

Must Keep on Striking.

The high command reported an effective job was done on the Murmansk railway. Thru traffic apparently was interrupted but German sources said the air force must keep striking repeatedly to keep any Russian rail line out of service.

The Murmansk raids were a part of a farflung German aerial offensive in which the high command said heavy blows were directed against troop concentrations, fortifications, and Russian columns between the Donetz basin and the Don river, east of the Volkhov river, which flows into Lake Ladoga behind Leningrad, and the Moscow area, where the Kremlin itself was said to have been hit in a night attack.

[Kuibyshev dispatches have said Premier Stalin was still in Moscow with the military heads defending the Russian capital.]

Continue Sweep of Donetz.

Of more immediate significance in the view of military observers was the high command's statement that occupation of the highly industrialized Donetz area continued. The whole front was described as being in a "fluid condition" everywhere except immediately around Leningrad.

In the Leningrad area pounding of heavy artillery continued and German dispatches said the south end of Kronstadt, which guards Leningrad's sea approach, and the airport in the metropolitan region of the city were undergoing prolonged bombardment.

In the far south a Russian war vessel escorting several transports was reported to have been driven off by German artillery when it approached the shore of the Sea of Azov.

German sources claimed aerial destruction of about a dozen Russian trains and said more were damaged as Nazi flyers swept up and down behind the Red army lines. Heavy hits were reported east of the captured industrial center, Kharkov, and in the vicinity of the Black sea port of Rostov. Rostov is the gateway to the Caucasus oil fields and is threatened by a German spearhead which has advanced as far as Taganrog, 30 miles to the west.

Lewis Silent on F. D. R. Plea to Open Mines

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt appealed for a second time tonight to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers [CIO], to call off a strike in the vital captive coal mines that supply the sinews for steel, but Lewis made no move to reply.

The White House made public a letter in which the President told Lewis that Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, would meet Lewis Wednesday "to see if you and he in private and personal conference can work out a peaceful solution of the problem."

Refused to Halt Strike.

Mr. Roosevelt, in asking Lewis Friday to keep the 53,000 miners at work in the steel company owned pits, had suggested the Lewis-Taylor conference. Lewis replied yesterday that he was ready to meet with Taylor but that he did not feel warranted in calling off the strike which started last midnight.

Since the mines do not operate on Sundays, first effects of the walkout probably will be manifested tomorrow morning. Union spokesmen said the strike was effective in all captive mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Alabama. Mines in Illinois also are affected.

The miners are seeking a union shop, under which all workers would have to join the UMW. That is the only issue.

The President told Lewis he was asking that work continue in the interest of the safety and defense of the nation.

Plea for Four Freedoms.

"In this crisis of our national life, there must be uninterrupted production of coal for making steel, that basic material of our national defense," the President wrote. "That is essential to the preservation of our freedoms, yours and mine; those freedoms upon which the very existence of the United Mine Workers of America depends."

Lewis received the President's letter at 8:13 p. m., a member of his staff disclosed, adding that Lewis would have no comment on it tonight.

At Pittsburgh, P. T. Fagan, president of UMW district 5, said the strike would continue as ordered by the union.

Meanwhile demands had developed among some union members for a strike at all soft coal mines to support the walkout of miners of the captive pits.

The question of how long the companies could produce steel with coal already mined was a matter of disagreement. Officials of the UMW said only a week's supply was on hand. The companies estimated they had enough for two to four weeks.

A steel industry spokesman in Pittsburgh, Pa., estimated the coal supplies on hand as sufficient for 15 days of capacity operations and 25 days on a staggered basis. This source said some blast furnaces likely would be banked later in the week if the dispute is not settled by then.

THAT BLOOMIN' RAIN INVALIDS U. S. BOYS HOME FROM ENGLAND

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 26 (AP).—Invalided and "glad to be going back to the good old U. S. A.," scores of civilian technicians who went from the United States to England to construct bases have returned to Canada en route to their homes.

"It was the weather that got us," one said. "It rained the whole summer."

They said they were under strict orders not to talk of themselves or their work.

Ban Use of 4 Metals in Auto 'Brightwork'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—Armament officials told the automobile industry today that the use of scarce metals — such as chrome, nickel, and aluminum—for passenger car ornaments must be discontinued after Dec. 15. Effective immediately, under an order by Donald M. Nelson, OPM priorities director, production of such ornaments was prohibited except in amounts required to complete cars which will come off the assembly lines prior to Dec. 15.

The order specifically bars use of bright work, bright finish, metal finish, or body trim containing aluminum, copper, nickel, or chrome, but provides that special exemptions may be granted for plating bumpers and bumper guard assemblies.

Used for Many Purposes.

Manufacturers use the vital armament metals for a wide variety of items, such as windshield wipers, window molding, lamps, exterior and interior body trim, door and other types of handles, parts of instrument panels, steering wheels, radiator grilles, hub caps, license plate holders, mirrors, horns, heater units, radio equipment, and collapsible top assemblies.

However, the 1942 models have made increasing use of stainless steel for "bright work" and this metal does not come under today's ban.

Blow to Gadget Makers.

One important effect of the order may be substantial business losses and employment dislocation for suppliers of automotive gadgets. The OPM's labor division said it was looking into this question with a view to transferring workers to armament jobs as swiftly as possible. Such manufacturers, it said, will be given special consideration in the placing of contracts.

COUNTY DOMAIN YIELDS $139,000 NET IN A MONTH

Gross profits of $198,000 a month and net profits of $139,000!

That was the financial report in July, 1941, of the gambling houses in Cicero and some of the country towns of Cook county—gambling houses run by the Guzik-Nitti-Humphreys-Vogel syndicate. It is a report for directors of corporations to gloat over—70 per cent of the gross income velvet, and no minority stockholders to worry them.

Race Profits $19,513.

Let the hopeful horse bet player recall his contribution to the $19,513 profits on horse betting in this chain of gambling houses; let the chump who bucks these syndicate dice games ponder on his part of the $141,750 profit the syndicate took from these games; let roulette, blackjack, and poker players consider who wins in the syndicate games in the light of the gambling houses' profit from these games.

These figures, astounding as they may seem, are authentic. They are taken from an actual monthly balance sheet of the Guzik - Nitti - Humphreys - Vogel syndicate, made up by a master bookkeeper for the leaders of the gang. The sheet is in the possession of The Tribune.

Gambling House Report.

Altogether there are six of these ledger sheets giving the financial record of the illegal activities of the syndicate for the month of July this year. The records indicate a gross annual gambling take of $3,875,000, net profits of $2,660,000, and graft payments by the syndicate of more than $300,000.

Sheets No. 1 and No. 2 of the series already have been published. They dealt with the wholly owned slot machines of the syndicate and protection payments made by operators of subordinate gambling businesses in Cook county outside Chicago.

The secret ledger sheet reproduced on the back page of this issue of The Tribune is the report on gambling houses in the county. It is more revealing than a baseball box score. For each of July's 31 days it shows the gross profits or, rarely, the losses of the houses as a whole on each of six categories of gambling.

Convincing Evidence.

An examination of the sheets is convincing evidence that a number of gambling establishments and not just one large one were covered in the figures.

No one gambling house would have an average daily expense of more than $1,800, nor space enough to accommodate suckers in sufficient droves to lose an average of nearly $7,000 a day to the syndicate.

Then there is the disclosure that there were very few days in which losses were sustained on any particular game. Gambling-wise folk know that altho the laws of percentage work inevitably in the long run and in the aggregate in favor of the gambling operators, the average number of losing days for one game in one place would have been larger than is shown on the sheet.

These experts know, also, that if six, eight, or more games (blackjack, for instance) in dif-

Previous Revelations!

Sheet No. 1 of the gambling gang's financial records reproduced in last Saturday's Tribune, showed that the Guzik-Nitti-Humphreys-Vogel syndicate had an annual gross income of $3,875,000 and paid $300,000 a year in graft.

Sheet No. 2, reproduced in yesterday's Tribune, showed that the smaller gangs paid tribute of 25 per cent of their profits to the Guzik gang.

Today's article is based on sheet No. 3, a reproduction of which appears on the back page.

Still to be printed are balance sheets showing the equipment purchases and division of profit of the syndicate and the all-important list of names and nicknames of bribe takers and the places where the bribes were passed.

Slot Machines Emerge---Just to Be Emptied!

Slot machines that went into hiding last Thursday night after the Guzik syndicate agents learned that THE TRIBUNE had their bookkeeping records for July emerged from basements and storm cellars last night in some sections of the county. But only for the purpose of getting money out of them, several tavern owners reported. Slot machine racketeers were reported to be singing the blues.

"Looks like we are out of business," a slot machine agent said to one of his clients, a roadhouse owner who removed his machine from hiding so the coins could be counted. "We're taking out our operating currency. If we don't get back in business you may keep the machine."

Visitors to some roadhouses and cafés in the outlying districts, however, reported dice games and roulette still were to be found, especially west of Evanston.

Those operators who remained open for business were believed to be doing so to test their immunity against raids—or the lack of it. And, in reference to raids, there weren't any.

14 Die in Fire When Bus Hits Bridge; 8 Hurt

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 26 (AP).—At least 14 persons were burned to death tonight in a flame enveloped Montgomery-to-Birmingham bus which struck a concrete bridge railing and caught fire four miles south of here. It was reported that 29 persons were aboard.

Fourteen bodies, all charred beyond recognition, were brought to undertaking establishments here. State Highway Patrolman E. D. Propst said the toll might be higher. Seven other passengers and the bus driver were in a hospital here, two in critical condition.

Fire Runs All Over Bus.

Propst said the gasoline tank apparently exploded at the time of the crash throwing the flaming fluid over the passengers. One man knocked out a window, Propst said, climbed out and beat out the fire on his clothes. He was not seriously burned.

George Easterly, passenger in a car which was following the bus, said it struck a concrete railing on the bridge and "fire ran all over it in a few seconds."

"We could see the passengers running and screaming as the fire spread. It was all over in a few minutes."

Tucker said most of the bodies were taken from the extreme rear end of the bus, which was the third section of the Montgomery-to-Birmingham local. It left Montgomery at 8:30 p. m. and had gone 40 miles.

Gasoline Tank Explodes.

The Clanton editor said officers believed the rear end of the bus struck the railing, exploding the gasoline tank and throwing the flaming liquid over the passengers.

Only the steel walls and charred bodies were left when the first rescue group arrived from Clanton.

J. Mell Martin, Clanton undertaker, said the bus driver threw open the front door as soon as the crash occurred and jumped out.

ferent houses lump their net losings and net winners, the probability that the aggregate will show wins is much greater.

On just one of 27 days did the horse players as a group [they had to take Sundays off] win. Their winnings of $143 are in contrast to the monthly house winnings of $19,656.

Lose on Only Five Days.

Figures on the syndicate's winnings in dice games probably will astonish the sucker gamblers. On five days only did the gambling houses bow to the superior luck of the optimistic dice throwers. The players' winnings on those few days when luck went against the gamblers totaled $5,416; this deducted from the syndicate's proceeds on 26 winning days still left the $141,750 gross profit for Guzik, Nitti and Humphreys.

The bookkeeper's figures show that on one day alone the syndicate dice amassed a profit of more than $16,000; on another day the ivory cubes brought in more than $13,000.

The blackjack players, taken as a group, had two winning days for a total of $366; the houses had 29 win days for $12,688. The houses' margin over the players was $12,322.

Roulette Games' Profits.

In the composite report on the roulette games the players are shown as winning once with a total take of $190. The syndicate deducted this one day loss and profited $8,915 for the month.

Poker players, who let the house cut a chip from each pot, had no winning days. Gross poker profits were $14,768. Slot machines located in the string of gambling houses covered in the balance sheet returned a total gross profit of $753.

In a separate column the expenses of the houses are listed. The total was $58,717. Most of the daily expense records varied little. On July 3 and 12, however, much larger sums appeared; it is assumed that rent bills or other such expenses necessitated these increases.

The bookkeeper's figures on the split indicate that only three of the syndicate's big four have an interest in the gambling houses. These three are believed to be Jack Guzik, Frank Nitti, and Murray Humphreys. Edward Vogel, the fourth man, cuts in only on slot machine and handbook receipts, according to well authenticated reports.

Split Profits Three Ways.

The balance sheet published today indicates that one partner draws an exact one-third of the net profits, or $46,434. Before the other two partners divide the remaining $92,870, certain extra moneys are added and subtractions for unknown purposes are made. The extra receipts in July were $4,500. Deductions totaled $2,200. Of this, $1,000 was designated as a "kick" or protection payment, and the additional $1,200 as payments to individuals, leaving the sum of $95,170 available to the syndicate chieftains.

The memorandum concerning the additional receipts and outgo is at the lower right hand corner of the ledger sheet and is in a handwriting different from that of the master bookkeeper.

Gambling has flourished in Cicero since the days of Capone's greatest notoriety. His example has been followed by his successors. Their earnings, great as they are, hardly touch his, but money and deceit do what he accomplished with the aid of guns.

WHERE THEY GAMBLED!

Crime commission officials yesterday said they had called Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien's attention several times last summer to wide open gambling in the county. They said that they had warned several times during June and July that gangsters were operating in flagrant disregard for the law.

THE RAINBOW LOUNGE, 5146 Cermak road; a tavern with entertainment that included keno, bingo, and other games.

THE PADDOCK CLUB, 4832 Cermak road; a large tavern with circular bar, entertainment, and hostesses. Horse betting, bingo, and dice games were in full blast, the investigator declared.

THE 4811 CLUB, 4811 Cermak road; 26 games, card games, and bingo were in operation.

THE TOWN CLUB at 2131 Cicero avenue; an elaborate resort that was the successor to the Ship of Capone days; it had an orchestra, dance floor, a bingo game, and even a fortune-teller. Upstairs was the Rock Garden club, most expensive of all the resorts. The investigator said it had all forms of gambling, and that at least a hundred well dressed and prosperous persons were patrons.

New Entrance for Panama Canal

Visitors inspect excavation work for new locks into Gatun lake, Gatun, Panama Canal Zone. The ditch, when completed, will be nearly 300 feet deep and run from the Atlantic ocean into the lake to provide an alternative entrance into the canal at the Atlantic ocean end.

Work Is Pushed

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Oct. 26.—Contractors for new Gatun locks must remove more than a million cubic yards of dirt and rock a month during the coming dry season to meet contract specifications, according to the present rate of progress. A 24 hour schedule is to be inaugurated as soon as weather permits and a force can be recruited in the United States.

6 IN KILLER GANG SEIZED BY JOLIET POLICE; CONFESS

All Carried Guns in Holdup Slaying.

Six hoodlums who shot and killed a Lockport tavern keeper and wounded a patron during a robbery on Oct. 19 were rounded up by Joliet authorities yesterday. All confessed, police said.

They are Thomas Shroba, 20 years old, 1107 Woodruff road, a munitions worker; Walter Ferguson, 18, 1021 Arthur avenue, a laborer; Paul Kocielko, 22, 1316 Luther avenue, a taxicab driver; Steve Kubas, 25, who lives with Kocielko and also drives a cab; Steve Ruzon, 24, 1416 Ada avenue, who drove the gang's car, and Robert Pedersen, 18, 304 Jackson street, all of Joliet.

Ex-Inmate of Training School.

Kubas twice was an inmate of the Illinois State Training School for Boys; Kocielko served a sentence in Wyoming for robbery; Ruzon was sent to Vandalia for robbery; and Pedersen recently was put on probation by the Will county court for stealing a car.

Pedersen admitted he fired the shot that killed Iver Olson, 32, owner of the tavern. All of the robbers carried guns. Stillman Mitchell of Lockport, the patron, was shot in both legs when he threw a stool at the robbers. The guests present were celebrating Olson's first wedding anniversary.

Two Flee Training School.

Two more inmates escaped last night from the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles. The fugitives, who are the 10th and 11th in 15 days, are Edward Brooks, 16 years old, 6206 South Claremont avenue, Chicago, and Richard Wallace, 17, of Aurora. Wallace was committed last June 14 for school burglary and truancy. Brooks was sent to the school for automobile theft.

The two lived in Van Buren cottage for better type boys. They slipped out of the employés dining room after the dinner hour and scaled the so-called escape proof fence.

Also at large is Carl C. Priestly, colored, 16, of Evanston, who escaped on Oct. 21. Eight young Negro hoodlums who made a mass escape on Oct. 11 all have been retaken.

WATCH GAMING? SHERIFF SHOULD, OFFICIALS CLAIM

Town Executives Say It's Not Their Job.

The suppression of gambling is the sheriff's job. Such was the tenor of some of the comments made yesterday by officials of country towns where, according to revelations now being published in THE TRIBUNE, the Guzik-Nitti-Humphreys-Vogel gambling syndicate operates.

Following are the statements from officials in some of the towns:

Mayor Andy Frenzel, Melrose Park—I can say for myself and Police Chief Wigglesworth that neither of us ever got a penny from any slot machine syndicate. We don't pay attention to the machines because we have other duties we think more important. Now and then, when the sheriff's office or some one else issues orders banning slot machines, our tavern owners complain. They say the machines are up elsewhere, and why aren't they treated as well as tavern keepers in other towns.

Police Chief C. L. Cites, Franklin Park—We leave the matter of slot machine suppression to the sheriff and the state's attorney. I am sure there are no slot machines in this vicinity now, but it is true, possibly, that there were some in operation a few days ago.

Village President John Cullerton, Elmwood Park—Our tavern owners have some understanding with each other in reference to slot machines, but it is not with either the knowledge or consent of the village officials or police. One thing is certain, and that is that we don't take any money from any slot machine ring.

Police Chief Frank Rice, Elmwood Park—Slot machines are a pain in the neck. Our policemen never go into taverns except in answer to calls, have nothing to do with slot machines, and receive no money from any one connected with the slot machine racket.

Mayor Joseph Gannon, Chicago Heights—Last July, at my request, the sheriff made several arrests and seized some slot machines. I don't know who operated them. I never go into taverns, and I never saw any slot machines here. My request to the sheriff was made after I read a newspaper story saying there were such machines around.

Mayor John M. Hart, Blue Island—There have been no slot machines operating in Blue Island to my knowledge. I certainly don't know how the gangsters could report getting $2,095 in revenue from this city during July, as reported in the paper.

Mayor Frank Bruggeman, Harvey—To my knowledge there were no slot machines here during the summer. I don't intend to let them even get started.

Police Chief Harvey A. Kenney, Glenview—We haven't had any gambling here for several years. We didn't have any slot machines in Glenview last July, and we don't have any now. The taverns try to cheat once in a while and then we make a raid.

Police Chief George Fredericks, Morton Grove—I ordered the slot machines down a long time ago. I don't know whether we had any here last July or not. I was on vacation. If we find 'em, we raid 'em.

KILLING OF TAVERN PATRON IN JUKE BOX ROW LEADS TO QUIZ

An inquest will be held this morning at 3357 Ridge road, Lansing, over Bernard C. Sporman, 21 years old, who was shot to death early yesterday by Jacob Folta, 47, proprietor of a tavern at Ridge road and Elizabeth avenue, in Thornton township.

Folta and his wife, Stella, 34, were arrested by Homewood county highway police. Sporman, who was a carpenter and lived in Highland, Ind., was shot after a quarrel between the Foltas and eight youths.

In a statement to Sergt. Anthony Urban, Folta asserted that the youths—five of whom were found to be minors—had four or five drinks of whisky, then began tampering with a juke box.

The youths left, then began knocking on the front door, Folta said. "I fired my pistol in the air," he continued, "but the boy was so close I must have hit him."

8 AVIATORS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF 3 ARMY PLANES

Fresno, Cal., Oct. 26 (AP).—Army flyers in eight planes searching the Sierra and Tehachapi mountains for three missing pursuit ships returned to Fresno late today without finding any trace of the lost planes. The pilots said snow had begun to fall in the higher elevations. There were no new reports from ground parties working out of North Fork.

The wreckage of one of five planes which disappeared from a squadron of 19 P-40 pursuit planes on a flight from March field to McClellan field, was found yesterday and the body of its pilot, identified as that of Lieut. W. H. Birrell, was recovered.

Lieut. J. H. Pease, pilot of the fifth ship first reported missing, parachuted from his plane and landed about 100 miles north of Los Angeles. Pilots of the three planes still unreported were Lieut. L. C. Lydon, J. C. West, and R. N. Long.

Panama's Former Police Chiefs Quit the Country

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Oct. 26.—The head of the secret police in the government of former President Arnulfo Arias, a Cuban named Juan Ramon Ramirez, sailed for Havana today at the behest of the present government. Lieut. Col. Fernando Gomez Ayau, a Guatemalan who was chief of the national police, has returned to Guatemala.

87% OF PRIESTS IN CHICAGO AREA VOTE NO ON WAR

85% Against U. S. Aiding Red Russia.

New York, Oct. 26 [Special].—Final figures in the poll of Roman Catholic clergymen thruout the United States were released today, bulwarking the earlier findings that the overwhelming majority are opposed to the United States becoming involved in a "shooting war" outside the western hemisphere or of aiding the communistic Russian government.

The poll emphasized the strong noninterventionist sentiment existing among the clergy thruout the country. In neither a single state nor in an important city did clergymen vote in favor of either proposition.

Of the 477 Chicago priests who returned cards, 416, or 87.2 per cent, voted "no" on the war question and 85.7 per cent voted against aiding the communists.

Two Questions Asked.

The poll was sponsored by the Catholic laymen's committee for peace. Two questions were asked, as follows:

1. Do you favor the United States engaging in a shooting war outside the western hemisphere?

2. Are you in favor of the United States aiding the communistic Russian government?

On question No. 1, 12,744 priests, or 91.5 per cent, voted no, and only 939, or 6.7 per cent, voted in the affirmative. This was the same percentage as announced in the earlier finding.

On the second question, 12,568 priests, or 90.2 per cent, voted against aid to communistic Russia, while those in favor of it constituted 7.3 per cent, or 1,018. The final percentage was a slight increase over the preliminary figures.

Nonvoting or voided cards on both questions totaled 589.

13,929 Return Cards.

Excluding the hierarchy—cardinals, archbishops, and bishops—and chaplains of the army and navy, all Catholic clergymen in the United States were polled. Of the 34,616 clergymen polled, 13,929 returned cards.

In New York City, habitat of many strident voiced war birds, of the 624 clergymen who voted, 581 priests or 93.1 per cent voted no on question No. 1, and 579 voted negatively on the Red aid query. Other cities on the propaganda smitten eastern seaboard displayed similar sentiments among the clergy.

Opposed in All Areas.

Sentiment in the southwest and far west was overwhelmingly against both propositions, as was revealed in the returns of clergymen in San Francisco, San Antonio, Dallas, Seattle, and Spokane.

In Washington, D. C., headquarters of the war party, the breakdown showed over 86 per cent of the clergymen voting against a "shooting war" and over 83 per cent against aiding the communists.

To insure an accurate impartial poll, the cards were sent out thru the office of the official Catholic Directory, published annually under episcopalian authority. The cards were returned to James W. Walsh, certified public accountant, who counted, tabulated, and certified the votes.

Clocks Are Reset

Chicago turned back to standard time yesterday after an extra month of daylight saving time—an experiment which won the general approval of medical authorities, school and park officials, leaders in sports, and promoters of safety.

The official time change was at 2 a. m. yesterday, but most Chicagoans, as well as residents of Chicago area communities, which also enjoyed the extra month of daylight time, turned back the clock hands before retiring Saturday night.

In the past daylight time ended the last Sunday in September, but the city council extended the deadline at the request of many representative groups which held that the extra hour of evening light provided health and safety benefits.

WAR VETERAN 100 —NO NEED FOR AN AEF, HE WARNS

A Civil war veteran who fought in 26 battles declared yesterday, on the occasion of his 100th birthday, that the United States has no business getting mixed up in European wars.

He is Daniel A. Wedge of 544 Pennsylvania avenue, Aurora. Wedge, who was born in Marietta, O., served from 1861 to 1866 in the 8th Illinois infantry.

"We ought to keep out of war," said the grizzled veteran to callers. "All we have to do is to be strong at home. There's no need to send any of our boys across the ocean."

Among his callers were Mayor Andrew J. Carter, and J. C. James and Harry C. Murphy, vice presidents of the Burlington railroad. Wedge is the Burlington's oldest retired employé

4 STATES' LEGION CHIEFS JOIN IN ANTI-WAR DRIVE

Plans for the strengthening of the rank and file movement among members of the American Legion opposed to the organization's warlike stand were discussed yesterday in the Morrison hotel by representative leaders from Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Wisconsin. Incorporation papers recently were filed in Indianapolis, Ind., for "The Legion Rank and File, Inc."

Attorney Clarence E. Benadum of Muncie, Ind., national adjutant of the organization, emphasized that yesterday's meeting was not convened against the American Legion.

"We do not want to antagonize nor disturb Legionnaires in an honest endeavor to correct, within and without their ranks, the great injustice done by the Milwaukee convention," he said. "We prefer to assist in removing that political stain from American Legion history and pledge ourselves to that end."

Tod Whipple of Portland, Ind., secretary of the organization, said the next meeting is planned for Dec. 7.

Attorney Newell Mecartney of Chicago was named chairman of the executive committee.

10,000 DEMAND BRITISH INVASION TO HELP RUSSIA

Shout Down Government Aids at London Rally.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Ten thousand voices roared out a demand today that Britain launch an offensive on the western front to help the embattled Reds. The crowd, which shouted down speakers who attempted to defend the government's war policy, had assembled in historic Trafalgar square for a Labor sponsored "All Aid to Russia" rally.

This renewed clamor for armed action, which comes at a time when British public opinion appears to be accepting gradually but reluctantly the idea that an invasion of the continent is not feasible, was attributed to unruly communists by one government speaker. As the audience shouted "Take her away," the speaker, Miss Ellen Wilkinson, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of home security, a Laborite and a noted social worker, warned against intemperate demands.

Problem: Find Best Method!

"Whether you like it or not our problems on how to help Russia are really problems of finding the best methods," she said. "I don't think that will be achieved by communists coming here and trying to break up this meeting."

Coincident with the London workers' rally and another at Coventry representatives of British and Russian labor unions, meeting in Russia, pledged mutual support in the fight against Hitler.

Demands for a greater war effort reached a swelling crescendo in the press today. On the one hand, authorities urged the people to make greater sacrifices and work longer hours. On the other side, the press expressed resentment of the government's disregard of criticism and apparent inability to demonstrate that it is really doing all it can. Many editorials and newspaper features assailed the complacency of both government and public.

Scoff at Britain's Total War.

Most caustic of all was a double page spread in today's Sunday Pictorial. Sarcastically entitled, "Total War," its pictures contrasted life in England with that in Russia. Well dressed crowds of Britons were shown watching greyhound races and there was a photograph of thousands of automobiles parked outside the Newmarket race track. To offset these were pictures of Russian tanks being captured by the Nazis, of grim-faced women in Russian guerrilla armies, and of a sole survivor of a torpedoed tanker adrift on a raft at sea.

The Express carries an article in which it seeks to make indifferent British women ashamed of their hesitancy in signing up for war work with the Auxiliary Territorial Service.

"Many girls, wives, and mothers of the dominions have come 3,000 miles to join the ATS," it says. "They have given up the joys of home, children, career, and all the comforts of life in a country where there is no rationing and no raids. This is a challenge which the women of the empire are giving to thousands of girls in Britain who won't even walk down the street to their recruiting office to join up."

Says One in Four Blocks Rest.

Also in the Express, War Correspondent John Gordon assails government methods of production. "So far as our production is concerned," he says, "we seem to be employing about a quarter of the nation to impede the war effort of the other three quarters. One man told me the other day that his moderate sized business now is under 40 controls. He is deluged with so many paper forms and so much pointed instruction that he has long ceased trying to cope with it."

Cassandra of the Daily Mirror joins the growing tirade against Viscount Halifax, ambassador to the United States, and the old guard conservatives with the inference that their only war aim is to preserve the status quo—"the British empire essentially the same as it was in the summer of 1939."

"They can conceive of no better world," he points out, "than one in which a hundred thousand factories from the Pennines to the Urals are slaving on the ceaseless manufacture of apparatus designed to shatter the same goods the chattels previously made under the very same roofs."

Demands Sweeping Changes.

After asking, "Do the Halifaxes, the Simons, the Margessons, and the Montagu Normans appreciate this? Do they understand that the society of which they were the absolute pinnacle before the war is being torn up from its foundations?" Cassandra recommends a change in the governmental structure beginning at the top. "For," he explains, "if it begins at the bottom the whole structure will collapse."

The Times is almost the lone defender of the government against what it calls the "carpers." "These are dangerous days," says an article by Scrutator. "The whole tribe of carpers is in action. They organize public meetings up and down the country and it is strange that journalists responsible for the policy of a newspaper which happens to belong to a member of the government take part in some of these demonstrations. In whatever guise they appear, the carpers are wholly mischievous. They would have short shrift in either Germany or Russia."

BOMBER TESTS FIRST PORTABLE AIR FIELD IN U. S.

Camden, S. C., Oct. 26 [Special].—The 1st army reported today that the first portable landing field on this continent, set up recently near Hoffman, N. C., had been used successfully in an initial test by American planes.

A B-18 bomber, with a crew of four officers, made three separate landings and takeoffs from the huge metal runway which had been set down in an open field. Col. Junius Houghton was the pilot.

Col. Junius Houghton.

The landing field consists of a series of thin steel mesh carpets which are interlocked. The metal used on the field, 3,000 feet long and 300 feet wide, weighs 2,250,000 pounds. The steel mesh is so constructed that grass will grow thru the interstices, and after a few months the metal will be completely concealed under a cover of sod.

POINT BLANK FIRE OF RED BIG GUNS BARS NAZI TANKS

Check New Penetration of Moscow Defense.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Oct. 26 (AP).—Soviet big guns firing point blank at charging German tank columns have checked a new Nazi penetration of Red army defenses southwest of Moscow, front line dispatches reported tonight.

These artillery behemoths were declared literally blasting to a pulp the roads over which the Germans thrust their salient. After repeated assaults the Germans failed to achieve a break-thru, the dispatches said.

With this support, the soviet troops were said to have been able to establish a new defense line a short distance behind their previous positions in the Maloyaroslavets sector 65 miles southwest of Moscow.

On the other two main roads to Moscow—Kalinin 95 miles to the northwest and Mozhaisk 57 miles to the west—the Rusians said their soldiers were holding their own in street fighting and with a mobile defense in fields and forests.

Began on Friday Morning.

The penetration was accomplished in a new series of attacks which began on Friday morning in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets areas was reported.

Russian troops were pictured as withstanding the attacks with the aid of Red units which had been encircled for 12 days but fought their way out during Thursday and Friday.

[The British radio, quoting reports from Moscow, said the Germans were sending in new troops all along the Oka river southwest of Moscow in a strong effort to force the stream and declared the threat to Moscow was growing in seriousness. The Nazi air attack on Moscow was said to be growing stronger every day.]

Rain and Snow Falling.

Unending struggles were reported writhing back and forth over wooded terrain. Rain and snow falling alternately is making it difficult for both sides to bring up reserves and soviet war correspondents said this has helped slow the German advance.

[The early Monday morning Moscow communique said reinforced German attacks on the capital's defenses were hurled back with heavy Nazi losses on Sunday. The communique acknowledged the abandonment of Stalino, Donets basin industrial center. (The Germans announced the capture of Stalino on Oct 21.) The Germans at Stalino were declared to have lost 50,000 officers and men, 250 tanks and 100 guns in several days of violent fighting. The Russians told of continued violent fighting in the areas of Kharkov (which the Germans claim to hold), 140 miles north of Stalino, and Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov 30 miles west of Rostov].

Leningrad Army Counterattacks.

The soviet communique told of counterattacks by the besieged Leningrad army.

One soviet unit in the Leningrad area was said to have captured three German big guns and stores of shells and another was credited with routing a German battalion.

Aside from heavy fighting to deflect the spearheads of the main German thrusts there has been a lull along great stretches of the long front. The Russians say they believe the Germans in these areas are seeking out the best jumping off points for still fiercer attacks.

PERIL TO BAKU OIL FIELDS SEEN IF ROSTOV FALLS

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP).—The fall of Rostov, big Black sea shipping and manufacturing center on the Don river, probably would be the signal for a new German drive on Astrakhan, informed sources said today.

This would involve an advance of 400 miles from the Don river across the wide isthmus which separates the Black and Caspian seas and would take the Germans to their furthermost World war outpost. Astrakhan is near the mouth of the Volga river where it empties into the Caspian sea.

Altho the distance involved in such an advance is great, the Germans thereby would accomplish two objectives.

They would sever the bulk of the Russian armies and industries from their oil supplies in the Caucasus, and they would cut into separate fronts the forces defending the Caucasus and the rest of Russia. They would also imperil the British-American supply line coming up thru Iran to the soviet front.

Baku Supplies Most Oil.

Altho the soviet has made strenuous efforts in recent years to develop a "second Baku" in the Ural mountains to the east of the Volga, it is understood that about 75 per cent of the Russian supply of oil comes from Baku and the other fields in the Caucasus.

With the soviet information bureau reporting today that German pressure continued heavy to the east of Taganrog and about Makeevka, informed sources here said the menace to Rostov was most critical. Taganrog is 30 miles west of Rostov and Makeevka about 100 miles northwest.

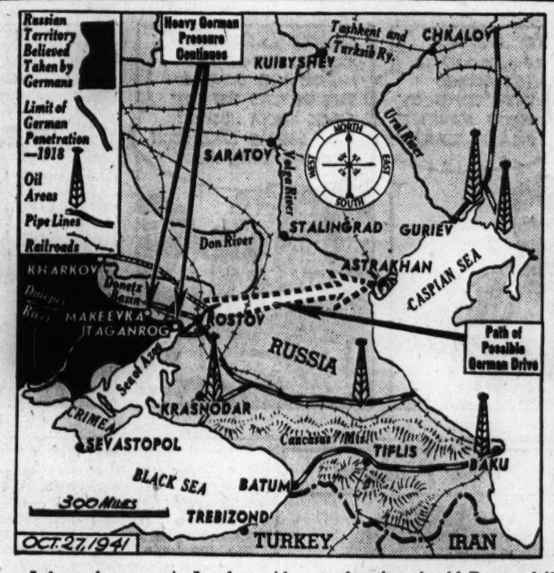
If the city falls Russia's most direct connection with Iran would be cut. A rail line runs directly from Moscow thru Rostov to Baku and other ports on the Caspian sea in the southeastern Caucasus. From there it is a shipping distance of only about 300 miles across the Caspian to Iranian ports fed by a rail line connecting with the Persian gulf.

Would Cut Supply Line.

A German advance to the Volga probably would make it impossible for the Russians to use that broad stream as an alternate shipping route from the Caspian. However, there is a roundabout rail route from the Lower Caspian which connects with Tashkent and the Turksib railway east of the Aral sea. The Turksib connects with Kuibyshev on the Volga where some soviet government departments have established themselves.

Rostov also is the terminus of canals joining the Don river and the Sea of Azov with the Caspian.

Nazi Thrust Perils Baku Oil Fields



Informed sources in London said yesterday that should Rostov fall to the Germans it would be the signal for a new Nazi drive on Astrakhan.

MOSCOW DEALS SEVERELY WITH WAR VIOLATIONS

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Oct. 26.—With Moscow under martial law, infringements against military discipline there are being summarily punished. It was reported here today that an effort by a "soviet group" to attack automobiles leaving the city had been "liquidated" with dispatch. [Liquidation is a popular soviet word meaning execution.]

Two administrators of a government food store were tried and shot for stealing food and quitting their posts. A strict checkup is being made of all persons remaining in Moscow who have no permits or no specific tasks.

A military régime is in the saddle but the regular life of the city continues. Altho the Germans have been raiding Moscow frequently and have wrecked some non-military objectives the press reports that morale remains high. The remaining clerks and servants of the American embassy are all right and the embassy has not been harmed.

3 SHIPS BOMBED IN CONVOY RAID, SAY CANADIANS

Tell of Damaging Attack Off Dutch Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP).—The Royal Canadian air force coastal command squadron, which in its first month of operations is said to have damaged at least 30,000 tons of German shipping, added three more Nazi vessels to its total in fierce early morning attacks off the Netherlands coast today, the air ministry announced.

Two direct hits were made on "a very large ship" in a heavily-escorted convoy off Terschelling, a medium sized ship in the same convoy was hit amidships and a ship in another convoy off Ijmuiden was left with its stern afire, the ministry said.

Toronto Pilot Tells of Hits.

A 21 year old Toronto pilot, Sergt. D. Moss, flew his Hudson bomber thru a storm of anti-aircraft fire to drop bombs on the larger vessel and reported seeing the flashes of two explosions on the vessel's stern.

Blenheims of the bomber command, with fighter escort, also struck at axis shipping off the Dutch coast in the afternoon.

British offensive patrol flights were made over north and northwest France, and objectives in the Dieppe, Cherbourg, and Brest areas were attacked, a communique said tonight. Two British fighters were reported missing.

RAF Bombs German Cities.

BERLIN, Oct. 27 [Monday], (AP).—Royal air force bombers attacked several cities in northern Germany during the night, DNB said today. Five of the raiders were shot down, it reported.

High explosive and incendiary bombs struck apartment houses but damage was insignificant, the news agency claimed. At the same time, DNB reported, German night bombers destroyed an 8,000 ton merchantman which was in a convoy off the English coast. Three other vessels totaling 8,500 tons were damaged severely, it said.

DEMANDS BRITISH PUNISH LEADERS FOR BATTLE LOSS

CAMBRIDGE, England, Oct. 26 (AP).—Clement Davies, Liberal member of parliament, demanded today that "ministers responsible for the inadequate equipment of British forces in France and Belgium be punished."

Quoting from the dispatches of Gen. Viscount Gort, commander of the British expeditionary force, Davies declared in an address to the Cambridge Liberal club that if those responsible had disappeared or were dead, "as were many of the soldiers and airmen concerned," the incident might be considered closed.

"But the men responsible still hold high office," he continued. "Sir Kingsley Wood, who had said [as air minister] that the number of planes accruing to the allies was equal to that of the axis, has been promoted to be chancellor of the exchequer and placed again in the war cabinet.

"Sir Samuel Hoare, who at one time was responsible for the air ministry, is ambassador in Spain; Lord Simon, also in the war cabinet, is lord high chancellor. The two in the war office have gone—Leslie Hore-Belisha and Oliver Stanley."

TELLS OF UNREST IN FINLAND OVER CONTINUING WAR

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 26.—That unrest prevails in Finnish circles on continuation of the war and Finnish war aims was indicated in an editorial printed today in the influential Finnish newspaper, Sosialidemokraatti. It told of difference between Finnish military and political war aims, and forecast the possibility of evacuating the conquered Russian areas after the peace. The newspaper said:

"Militarily the enemy's armies must be rendered harmless, and with this object in view we have overstepped our historical frontiers to occupy remote areas. But this does not mean that it is our intention to annex this area to Finland after the peace."

The newspaper said the workers have no enthusiasm for conquest beyond the frontiers, but that defense and safety of these frontiers was a different matter. The paper said "Nothing definite can be said about soviet Karelia before the military operations have been completed and the stage of peace negotiations reached."

HILLSBORO HAS $35,000 FIRE.

Hillsboro, Ill., Oct. 26 (AP).—Two business establishments a block from Hillsboro's main street were destroyed by fire tonight. The fire started in the Dorsey Lumber company yard and spread to the adjoining Midwest Cotton Products company building. The loss was estimated at $35,000.

STRIKE OF PRESS AND TRANSPORT IN BOLIVIA ENDS

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Oct. 26. — The strike that has kept this city without traffic or newspapers for a week was settled last night after a conference between President De Castilla and labor delegates.

The general strike had its inception in insistence of railway workers that the senate approve a bill to increase wages from 20 to 40 per cent. In view of the impending strike, the government ordered the army to run the railways. Workers in transport services and the graphic guild, which includes newspaper workers then declared a strike.

Last night's agreement included a 20 per cent increase in wages for railway workers. Parleys are proceeding among editors and workmen regarding an increase.

IF BETTER BOMBS ARE BUILT BRITAIN WILL BUILD THEM!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A new bomb, heavier and more destructive than the two ton missiles with which the RAF has been blitzing Naples, Italy, is now being turned out in this country, says the air correspondent of the Daily Mail.

Six large bombs can do more damage than two dozen small ones, he says, predicting that "with great improvement in night defenses on both sides—Italy excluded—raiding might well reach a deadlock because of heavy casualties before the war is over."

Big bombers, the correspondent says, toting one or two giant bombs that would take a whole squadron of smaller bombers to carry, might be one solution to the heavy losses. He says Britain now leads the world in "bigger and better" bombs.

RUMANIAN JEWS ARE BANISHED TO RUSSIAN UKRAINE

Antonescu Charges Sabotage.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 26 (AP).—Jews living in Bessarabia and Bukovina are being banished by Rumanian authorities into ghettos in the neighborhood of the Bug river in the Russian Ukraine, the official news agency Rador announced today.

Before Rumania was partitioned by Russia and Hungary it was estimated that at least 385,000 of its 850,000 Jews were living in Bessarabia and Bukovina, annexed by the soviet last year. There was no official estimate of the number living there now. Their new homes are a hundred or more miles eastward. A part of the lower Ukraine, with Odessa as a capital, recently was declared a Rumanian administrative district.

[A Berlin dispatch of Oct. 15 said 2,000 Jewish families in the German capital also had been told to be ready to evacuate and to list their minimum needs in clothing. The Jews, hearing that large numbers of their coreligionists in Prague and Vienna had been sent to Poland and Russia, feared a similar fate was in store for them.]

Antonescu Answers Protest.

The shipment of Jews into distant ghettoes was disclosed by publication of a letter from Marshal Ion Antonescu, Rumanian chief of state, answering a protest by the president of Rumania's Jewish communities.

"You speak of tragedy and make an appeal in favor of the Jews," the chief of state wrote. "I understand your grief. You should have promptly understood the grief of the entire Rumanian nation. Consider that we have paid with our blood for the hate of your fellow believers in Bessarabia, Odessa, Marasow."

Antonescu then listed his charges against Jews in the two provinces.

Before soviet troops occupied Bessarabia and Bukovina, he said, Jews "tore off our officers' shoulder straps, murdered our soldiers, received the soviet troops with flowers."

He accused the Jews of turning into informers against the Rumanians "during the communistic terror" that followed the soviet occupation, and of "inciting soviet troops in Odessa to useless murder merely to cause us losses" during the two month siege.

Czech Jews Face Ouster.

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP).—Belief that Jews would soon be removed from the cities and villages of the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia was expressed today by the usually well informed Cracow newspaper, Krakauer Zeitung.

The newspaper said the Czechs "never effectively met" the Jewish problem which, it said, was intensified especially at Prague by three distinct immigrations of Jews from Austria, Germany, and the Sudetenland.

It then observed that "the initiative is now in German hands, so the protectorate, too, will be cleansed of Jews."

New York, Oct. 26 [Special].—Jed Harris, Broadway theatrical producer, and Louise Platt, stage and screen actress, were secretly married last Monday in Juarez, Mexico. CHICAGO GREEKS AND JUGO-SLAVS SEE WAR FILM

More than 1,100 Chicago Greeks and Jugo-Slavs gathered yesterday in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, heard speakers praise the valor of Greek troops against invading Germans last spring, and saw a motion picture, "Greece Fights Back."

Among those who spoke were Paul Javaras, publisher of a Greek language newspaper; Betty Wason, foreign radio correspondent, and Herbert Agar, Louisville newspaper editor.

Agar demanded that the United States go to war to repay "our debt to the fallen Greek and Jugo-Slav heroes." Entertainment was supplied by costumed singers and dancers.

FRENCH TATTLE ON KILLERS; MAY SAVE 100 LIVES

Nazis Hunt Assassins; Kin of Informers Freed.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 26.—An end to the shooting of French hostages appeared to be imminent tonight after a period of tension between French and Germans as a result of last week's slayings of German occupation officials at Nantes and Bordeaux.

Information which "enabled the authorities to tighten the circle" around the assassins of the two Nazi officers has been furnished by several unidentified French persons, it was stated officially. Arrests are expected which will make it unnecessary to carry out German orders to shoot 100 more hostages this week. One hundred already have been executed for the murders—50 in each city.

Free War Prisoners in Trade.

War prisoners related to the French informers have been released by the Germans in consideration of the information that has been furnished, it was stated. Other prisoners of war also will be released because of information given by their French relatives at the inquests into the two shootings.

The informers, police said, refused to accept any monetary remuneration, altho a reward of 15 million francs [$300,000] had been offered by the Germans for information leading to the arrest of the assassins.

50 Face Death Tomorrow.

Unless the expected arrests are made the 50 hostages at Nantes face execution after midnight tomorrow and the 50 at Bordeaux are doomed to die after midnight Wednesday. Adolf Hitler himself granted them a brief reprieve from death Friday.

The French government was represented today at military funeral services for the Bordeaux assassination victim, Hans Ulrich Reiners, a German military lawyer. Mayor Adrien Marquet of Bordeaux, a member of the original Petain government formed in June, 1940, attended and the prefect of Gironde placed a wreath bearing the inscription: "The French state." The other assassination victim was. Lieut. Col. Paul Ffiedrich Hotz, Nazi commander at Nantes.

Act to Foil French "Strike."

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP).—City officials of Nancy in occupied France have been forbidden to engage in political activity, "either on or off duty," under threat of dismissal, DNB, official German news agency reported today in a dispatch from Paris.

The order, pronounced by the mayor, requires city officials and employés to sign a statement assuring that they "are neither communists nor De Gaulle [Free French] supporters" and that they will follow loyally Marshal Petain's directions.

The move was regarded in some Berlin quarters as intended to forestall compliance with the five minute standstill strike called for Friday by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the "Free French" leader, in protest against the German execution of French hostages.

German occupying authorities announced the execution last Thursday of Pierre Lerein, a Frenchman of Florac, in the unoccupied zone, for possession of weapons and explosives without a permit.

NO RETREAT FOR JAPAN, PREMIER SAYS; ASKS UNITY

TOKIO, Oct. 26 (AP).—Premier Tojo declared in an Osaka speech today Japan "must go on and develop in ever expanding progress—there is no retreat!"

"If Japan's hundred millions merge and go forward nothing can stop us. If this state of preparedness is completed diplomacy becomes an easy affair. Wars can be fought with ease," he added.

"Nothing can surprise me. No international pressure can disturb me. Unity! Unity!—That is what makes people one and a whole, solving all problems. The first requisite is to develop the total strength of our people."

APPROVE $16,966 FOR ARMORY.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each timely, interesting question submitted by a reader and used in this column.

The Question.

What is the most unusual thing that ever happened in your cab-driving experience?

Where Asked.

Fifty-Third street I. C. station.

The Answers.

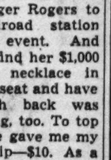
Frank Carter, 4852 Blackstone avenue—It's happened to plenty of other drivers I know, but this was the first time I ever raced with the stork. Everybody was cheering for me but it was a photo-finish at the hospital emergency entrance. The attendants and nurses rushed to my rescue—or maybe I should say the mother's. A boy!

Elmer Funk, 4228 Greenwood avenue—In 12 years of driving, the most unusual thing was to be handed a tip of three $1 bills for a 50 cent ride. I asked the passenger if she made a mistake but she said she didn't, that she just wanted to give it to me. She was sober, too!

Abe Sandusky, 5532 Cornell avenue—Once a well dressed young lady refused to pay her 70 cent fare, claiming it was twice what it should have been. I had her arrested but two days behind bars wouldn't melt her determination not to pay. Her husband finally paid and got her out.

Abraham M. Lebrow, 7947 Langley avenue—One night a young fellow gave me an address on a quiet street on the west side. Just before we got there, he told me to stop. All I could see when I turned was a gun. The ride cost me $10.

L. E. McDonald, 4145 Drexel boulevard—A woman gave me a north side address and when we got there she changed her mind and wanted to go south. She kept changing her mind all evening until the meter showed $19.70. I finally drove her home and she asked me to come back the next night. The thing looked phony so I didn't ever come back.



Harry Breen, 4432 Princeton avenue—Just to drive Ginger Rogers to the railroad station was an event. And then to find her $1,000 diamond necklace in the back seat and have her rush back was something, too. To top it off, she gave me my biggest tip—$10. As a climax, I got second prize from the company for courtesy to passengers.

'YES, DUCE,' 3,000 CRY AS MUSSOLINI SAYS THEY'LL WIN

Italian Plane Torpedoes British Cruiser.

ROME, Oct. 26 (AP).—Premier Mussolini reasserted today a determination to fight at Germany's side to final victory.

Standing on a balcony at Littoria in the reclaimed Pontine marsh region, his hand resting on a primitive plough handle, Il Duce told assembled peasants in a brief address:

"With the same inflexible will with which we gained this goal [reclaiming of the marshlands] we will also reach the supreme one for which we have fought, are fighting, and will fight until victory."

In the crowd were 3,000 war veterans who worked on reclamation projects and to whom farms were allotted in the Pontine region, now a well cultivated agricultural area.

It was the dictator's second appearance this month. The last one was at Bologna Oct. 7 when he gave Italians the slogan, "Hold Fast."

Plane Torpedoes Cruiser.

Shouts of "Yes, Duce," greeted Mussolini's remarks, principally dedicated to praise of the Pontine marsh reclamation as "indisputable proof of our high creative and organizing capacity."

Today's high command bulletin reported Italian torpedo-launching planes, which attacked British naval units in the Mediterranean Saturday, had hit a cruiser with a torpedo.

[In Berlin DNB reported German dive bombers sank a light British cruiser in the Mediterranean off Bardia, Libya, scoring two hits. The cruiser was said to be protecting British supply transports, presumably en route to Tobruk.]

Bombs Set Malta Fires.

The Italian command also reported Italian bombers defied violent anti-aircraft fire yesterday to make a daylight raid on Valletta, Malta. Large sized bombs caused fires there.

In Africa, the communique said, Italian flyers bombed the Cufra airfield, deep in the Libyan desert, and machine gunned armored cars inside that oasis.

The communique reported an exchange of raids between Germans who bombed Tobruk and British who bombed Tripoli and Bengazi, where there was "some damage and several wounded among the civilian population."

Four British planes were reported shot down.

Naples Bombarded Again.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 26 (AP).—Heavy RAF bombers delivered another smashing blow at Naples for the fourth night in succession Friday night, a communique said today. Low clouds and rain obscured observation of the results, the announcement said.

On the return journey the raiders dropped incendiaries at various points in Sicily, while other planes attacked Tripoli, Bengazi, Zurara, and Misurata in Libya.

ALLIED INVADERS OF SOMALILAND RETREAT: VICHY

VICHY, France, Oct. 26 (AP).—An official source said today that the British and De Gaullist troops which last week marched into French Somaliland were withdrawing northward toward Eritrea.

The combined force was said to have abandoned Dasenaito, only 18 miles north of Tajura, an important port across the Gulf of Tajura from Djbouti, but to still hold the town of Algori.

[Authoritative British sources never confirmed the French report of a British-"Free French" invasion of Somaliland and said they believed the report was put out "in an effort to distract attention from reprisal shootings in France."]

Three Mexicans were wounded, two of them seriously, in a brawl early yesterday, at 32d and Halsted streets. Those injured are Joseph Martinez, 22 years old, 5110 Wentworth avenue, Roy Vasquez of 1030 Taylor street, and Frank Almarez, 1251 South Kedzie avenue.

Priest Acclaims Finland as Defender of Liberty

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—Father Edmund A. Walsh, regent of Georgetown university's school of foreign service, accepting the decoration of the white rose of Finland, said today he cherished "unchanged memories of Finland's faithfulness to the ideals of democracy." He said the decoration "will be treasured by me in remembrance of the heroic defense of human liberty maintained against a brutal aggressor in that awful winter of 1939-'40."

SENATE ARRAYS FOR BIG BATTLE ON NEUTRALITY

Revision Feared by Foes as Equivalent to War.

German military resources in the war with Russia to land a British expeditionary force in western Europe. This failure of the British to open a western front against Germany means only one thing: That the British are waiting for the United States to furnish the expeditionary force.

Predicts Long Conflict.

"If we are to furnish that expeditionary force we shall be required to raise, train, and equip an army which with the forces sent abroad and those remaining at home will aggregate from 8 to 10 million men. Even with so colossal an army we could not expect to end the war at once. It would drag on for years and would cost the United States not less than 250 billion dollars.

"It already is clear that the after-war prospect is almost as menacing to the future of democracy in America as the war itself. To carry the four freedoms to the uttermost ends of the planet would involve a joint imperialistic control of the world by Great Britain and the United States. Aside from the cost in human life and in dollars and cents involved in a war to defeat Hitler the United States would be saddled for generations with the cost of the new powers that would be required to carry out this grandiose scheme."

Move to Scrap Restrictions.

The house has voted repeal of the sixth section of the neutrality act forbidding arming of merchantmen. In proposing to go farther and repeal sections two and three, the majority of the senate committee said in its report that these provisions were devised to restrict the movements of American vessels in order to avoid dangerous controversies with belligerents."

"Since then," says the report, "the situation has changed entirely. Continental Europe has been overrun by conquesting armies. Nation after nation has gone down under military aggression, and a large part of the population of Europe is enslaved. A movement of world conquest is under way, with resulting death, destruction, and terrorism. No nation is secure in the face of this threat. The aggressors are struggling to obtain control of the high seas as a part of their plan of conquest of continents. If they should gain control of the seas, the United States and the entire western hemisphere would be immediately and most seriously threatened.

Policy of Resistance.

"In view of this situation, the United States, as a part of its own plan of self-defense, has adopted the policy of extending aid to those nations resisting aggression. That policy was expressed in the lend-lease act of March 11, 1941, and has been indorsed by the overwhelming majority of the American people.

Under the lend-lease act, aid has been given, and is being given, in ever-increasing quantities to countries whose defense is considered vital to our defense. The purpose of this policy is to preserve the security of the United States; to keep war from the shores of the western world."

The report continued that the Germans have been sinking American merchant ships in violation of the treaty of 1930 in various parts of the seven seas. To pursue a policy of keeping our ships out of areas where they might be sunk, said the majority, would enable Japan to close parts of the Pacific and Germany parts of the Atlantic from which supplies essential to American defense are derived.

The majority denied that the repealer would change our status as a neutral.

Test Pilot Bill Ward shares the Navy man's preference for the cigarette of costlier tobaccos... Camel

SPEAKING of tests, Bill Ward adds: "Those recent laboratory tests showing less nicotine in the smoke of Camels only go to prove what I've always found in my smoking—Camels are milder in lots of ways. That's what counts with me."

YOUR SIZE, YOUR MODEL, YOUR PROPORTION ARE HERE

the Store for Men can fit you

Men are not all cast in the same mold. That's why we present one of the greatest model, proportion and size ranges in America. It involved the drafting and cutting of 658 sets of patterns—each one essential to the proper fitting of a particular size or figure type.

This was not all done in a single night. It's the result of many years of constant study and refinement. Every Store for Men model is not only a brilliant expression of current style—it is a reflection of our long experience in developing basic, balanced, scientific design.

During our years of model development and improvement there have been many achievements. There is one that is particularly newsworthy. The ready-to-wear drape suit, which has been such a potent influence in the design thinking of the entire clothing industry for many years, was originated by Marshall Field & Company's Store for Men.

You are cordially invited to discover what this experience—this vast selection of models can mean to you—in better fitting clothes—in more comfort and ease in your clothes—in the elimination of major alterations which might endanger the inherent smartness and balance of your suit. Why not come in and make that discovery today?

Marshall Field & Company stocks more of these suits than any store in America

Years ago a study of our alteration record showed us that most men have a low right shoulder. We were the first in the country to develop special patterns to meet the situation. It is costly for us to have a suit tailored this way, but we believe your greater satisfaction makes it decidedly worthwhile—for it assures a perfect fitting collar. Right Shoulder Low is a feature of most of our De-Luxe Suits at $65, $75 and $85.

LONDON'S LOVE LETTERS TURNED INTO BOMB CASES

Truck Roofs Made from Waste Paper.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook's appeal for 100,000 tons of waste paper to be used in the manufacture of munitions has had such a response in the last three days that several London boroughs have been forced to take on extra personnel to cope with the collections.

One modest woman brought her love letters bundled in brown paper and blushingly asked if they would be read. "There is no time to read it all," she was told.

The majority of newspapers have been giving wholehearted support to Lord Beaverbrook's appeal urging the people to dig into their attics, wardrobes, and cupboards, for every scrap of waste paper they can spare.

Old Files Are Ransacked.

Some of the headlines read: "Feeding the guns from waste paper baskets"; "Waste paper can beat Hitler"; "If it is waste that is wanted, this newspaper is a munition of war." As a result a fleet of trucks is making trips thruout the city to pick up thousands of sacks of old papers.

The biggest haul so far has been produced by London's financial district where office personnel cleaned shelves, desks, and files, gathering tons upon tons of bills, letters, and documents. One attorney from the Strand district turned over a 50 years' accumulation of old briefs and papers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express alone is said to have raked in 12 tons in two days.

Used For Shoes and Trucks.

This waste paper will be used in making, among other things, anti-aircraft shell carriers, bomb cases and cases for TNT.

The Daily Herald says "four million pairs of shoes just sent to Russia had stiffeners" made from waste paper saved in British homes. It adds that the roofs of trucks which British soldiers are driving over the Libyan desert are made of waste paper and that the doors of every staff car and much of the body work of every ambulance and truck have a large waste paper content.

Lord Beaverbrook revealed that heretofore most of this paper was imported from the United States, and that the accumulation of a hundred thousand tons of waste paper will free 25,000 tons of shipping space which can be used for taking arms to Russia.

FLYNN ASSAILS LA GUARDIA AS MACHINE BOSS

New York, Oct. 26 [Special].—New York City's mayoralty campaign moved into its final week tonight with Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national chairman and head of the Bronx machine, denouncing Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, seeking reëlection on a fusion ticket, as a "political mountebank and charlatan." The election will be held Nov. 4.

Flynn asserted that La Guardia was the political boss of the strongest municipal machine the country had ever known. "He parades around," Flynn said, "loudly denouncing political bosses with his mouth and with his pen in hand appoints men and women to public office for no other reason than the political strength they will draw to him."

La Guardia's candidacy has been indorsed by President Roosevelt, an action that has created resentment and indignation in Democratic ranks.

District Attorney William V. O'Dwyer, the Democratic candidate, rested at his home in Brooklyn before starting a busy week of campaigning during which Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, former Postmaster General James A. Farley, and other Democratic leaders will speak for him.

HUNTER DROWNS WHEN HIS BOAT IS UPSET; 2 RESCUED

A Chicagoan was drowned and two companions were rescued from the Illinois river yesterday when their boat upset near Chillicothe, Peoria county, where they were hunting ducks. Joseph Amico, 35 years old, 1531 Grenshaw street, sank immediately, weighted by a heavy hunting coat, the pockets of which were filled with shotgun shells. He also was wearing hip boots.

His companions are Charles Rayasky, 2626 Harvey avenue, Berwyn, and Frank A. Kreml, 201 Maplewood avenue, Riverside. They were pulled from the water by Frank Gillet and Pat and Zeral High, of Chillicothe.

Because of high winds and rough water, Amico's body had not been recovered late last night.

LAKE CAPTAIN, 93, CELEBRATES.

Grand Haven, Mich., Oct. 26 [Special].—Capt. John Snay, who believes he is the oldest living native of Grand Haven, county seat of Ottawa county, celebrated his 93d birthday today at the Grand Rapids home of Mrs. Edward J. Marks, his granddaughter. Capt. Snay operated the old ship May Graham from Grand Haven to Grand Rapids for many years. Later he was employed by the carferry lines and operated a fruit steamship.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreens, Stineway and drug stores everywhere.

W-G-N'S THEATER OF AIR ORGANIZES LISTENERS' CLUB

Launching of the Chicago Theater of the Air club, with chapters of music lovers all over the nation who listen to the Saturday night operettas on W-G-N and the Mutual network, was announced yesterday by W-G-N.

The second year of operettas began Oct. 4. They will be heard weekly until spring. Last Saturday's production was "Sweethearts," and next Saturday "Naughty Marietta," with the same singing stars—Marion Claire and John Carter—will be presented.

80TH BIRTHDAY TRIBUTES PAID SINAI TEMPLE

Green, Kelly and Church Leaders Speak.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Chicago Sinai congregation held its 80th birthday party last night in the Palmer House and received gifts of eloquent spoken tribute. Gov. Dwight H. Green called the country's pioneer Reform Jewish congregation "one of the mightiest forces in America for good will among all people."

Dr. Louis L. Mann, spiritual leader of Sinai for the last 18 years, presided at the burning of the last mortgage note of indebtedness of the congregation on Sinai temple, 4600 South Park way. Charles H. Louer announced the liquidation of the indebtedness and declared that as soon as war clouds pass the congregation will "move to new quarters in another part of the city."

Good Will Among Religions.

Both Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly pronounced the dinner an evidence of the American good will existing among races and religions in Chicago. Gov. Green praised the late Gov. Henry Horner as a distinguished son of Sinai congregation.

"I am here tonight because you of Sinai are organized for the good of man," Mayor Kelly said. "Sinai is one of the great builders of morale of our city. There is nothing to take us out of the present world chaos but prayer. We have a real job ahead of us and it must be based on religion. There is going to be religion regardless of any Nazi dictator."

Christian Clergymen Speak.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas V. Shannon, former editor of the New World, official publication of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, gave especial praise to the late Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, rabbi of Sinai from 1880 to 1923, and read an editorial eulogy of Dr. Hirsch which he wrote for the New World at the time of the rabbi's death. He declared Dr. Mann to be Dr. Hirsch's able successor. Dean Charles W. Gilkey of Rockefeller Memorial chapel of the University of Chicago paid the Protestant tribute to Sinai and its pulpit of the past and present.

Yesterday morning the anniversary service was held in Sinai temple, with Dr. James G. Heller, Cincinnati, O., president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the anniversary preacher.

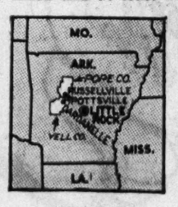
TORNADO SWEEPS ARKANSAS AREA; 5 KILLED, 15 HURT

Russellville, Ark., Oct. 26 (AP).—Five persons were killed and at least 15 other persons injured by a tornado that swept thru Dardanelle and rural sections of Yell and Pope counties south of Russellville late today.



Map indicates area hit by tornado.

The dead were Mrs. Bill Price of Bethel, Mrs. Otis Heathcoat of Bethel, a daughter of Mrs. Price; Mrs. Alfred McDonald of Oak-E-Doak community, Mrs. Arthur Bruton, Dardanelle, and her two months old child.

The twister cut a swath 100 yards wide as it struck first at Chicalah, damaging several houses. It then drove thru Dardanelle, smashing nine homes. Across the Arkansas river the storm hit Bethel and Oak-E-Doak. Telephonic communication with Yell county was cut off tonight.

EERIE PUMPKINS HERALD GHOSTS OF HALLOWEEN

Ten grimacing, gargoyle pumpkins heralded Halloween yesterday in the produce market place of Daniel Goodman, 46-48 South Water street. The pumpkins, boasting fantastic faces, were carved by Goodman as gifts for children in the neighborhood. For the past 10 years, he has carved more than a score of pumpkins each Halloween season and distributed them among his friends and young neighbors. To create the eerie souvenirs, Mr. Goodman selects large pumpkins of 40 to 55 pounds.

SABOTAGE HINTED IN $500,000 BLAZE AT MAINE PLANE PLANT

Portland, Me., Oct. 26 (AP).—A possibility of sabotage in the $500,000 early morning fire in the Southworth Machine company's main plant, which is engaged in making airplane parts, was being investigated tonight.

Pearce J. Francis, state insurance commissioner, said that 10 days ago one of the fire extinguishers at the plant was found to contain stone, sand, and "other foreign matter." Federal bureau of investigation agents were called in to investigate the fire.

The Southworth plant held 1 million dollars' worth of orders for small parts for the Curtiss-Wright airplane motors. During the fire precision tooling machinery, difficult to replace, plunged into the basement as the main floor collapsed. Tons of magnesium were consumed by the flames.

CHURCH CLOSES CONSECRATION SERVICES TODAY

Archbishop Alexander Vachon of Ottawa, Canada, pontificated at the first pontifical high mass in Our Lady of Grace Catholic church yesterday morning after Saturday's consecration of the church by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch. No church had been consecrated in the archdiocese of Chicago previously for 30 years.

Our Lady of Grace church was completed in 1935 by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Victor Primeau, the pastor, who has led the congregation since 1930. Archbishop Stritch was the preacher at yesterday's pontifical mass.

Earlier masses were offered for various parish groups, and the rites related to the consecration will be concluded today when Bishop William D. O'Brien, head of the Catholic Church Extension society, offers requiem mass for deceased members and benefactors of the church.

BRITISH WOMAN PASTOR IS FEARED LOST ON CONVOY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26 [Special].—Failure of Dr. A. Maude Royden, best known of Britain's women preachers, to appear in a church here today to make a scheduled address brought the disclosure that no word has been received from her since she sailed for this country in a convoy nearly a month ago. Her brother, Sir Thomas Royden, is head of the Cunard line.

Dr. Royden was the first woman in Great Britain to be awarded a degree of doctor of divinity and the first member of her sex to become pastor of a church in England. She was assistant pastor from 1917 to 1920 of London's City Temple.

She became embroiled in a heated controversy in this country in 1928 when the Methodist Women's Home Missionary society of Chicago declined to let her speak in that city because she smoked cigarets.

INNOCENT BLOOD.

Men and women outside Germany—and, we may hope, within Germany as well—have been reading with horror of the shooting of hostages by the German army in France. In batches of 50 Frenchmen have been lined against the prison walls and executed. The victims were proved guilty of no offense, civil or military. They seem to have been selected almost at random. They are being killed as a fearful revenge for the assassination of a few German officers in the occupied zone.

The excuse that this shedding of innocent blood is justified by military necessity is scarcely less revolting than the executions themselves. Humanity is never more degraded than when reason, man's noblest possession, is turned to the invention of justifications for cruelty and brutality.

There is other news from France which tells much the same hideous story. This news comes in the French medical journals. They tell of the devastation being worked by the blockade. Already the infant death rate has risen to 10 times the normal. Not by fifties only, but by thousands, the innocents in France are being murdered. It is doubtful if the slow death from starvation is greatly preferable to the quick death from a rifle bullet. It is doubtful if the anguish of a mother seeing her baby grow weaker from day to day for lack of food is less than that of the mother whose son has faced a firing squad.

Every one in America and England—and Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill in particular—bears a heavy responsibility for this slaughter of the babies in France and the other conquered countries. Mr. Churchill will permit no ships of mercy to pass thru his blockade. Mr. Hoover, who probably knows far more about it than Mr. Churchill does and certainly is less blinded by partisanship, has said that these shipments would not strengthen by a particle Germany's fighting power, but Mr. Churchill is unrelenting and in his stubborn inhumanity has the full support of our own Mr. Roosevelt. There is not the slightest doubt that if Mr. Roosevelt insisted, Mr. Churchill would have to yield, but, far from insisting, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull are acquiescing in a wholly unnecessary and senseless slaughter.

GEOGRAPHY LESSON.

The maritime commission has aroused the wrath of the White House by its disclosure that Boston is to be the chief port of embarkation for aid to Russia. The only Russian port that can now be reached from Boston is Archangel, up near the Arctic circle, and White House Secretary Early implies that in naming Boston as the sailing port the maritime commission "might as well send a telegram to Hitler."

Hitler might, however, be dissuaded from attempting to intercept shipments to Archangel for at least six months if, with the telegram, he received a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica. Secretary Early and the gentlemen of the maritime commission might even take a peek at it before they send it off. We quote:

"Archangel gulf freezes at the end of October on the average of 140 days and the port of Archangel is blocked for 190 days . . . from November to May."

In their management of the rearmament program the New Dealers have already demonstrated that they don't know anything about industry. It now appears that they don't know anything about geography.

FINE FIELD FOR FIXERS.

Washington is full of fixers. The fellows who did a land office business in NRA days are back on the job, and there are many newcomers. One man referred to as a fixer by the Wall Street Journal is said to be making a million dollars a year. Concerns seeking government orders or having difficulty with priorities have been solicited to employ representatives who will relieve them of their Washington worries.

It is up to the defense commission to keep its record both clean and, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. The commission cannot prevent a faker from representing that he has the run of Washington offices and claiming credit for landing a defense order, tho he had nothing whatever to do with it. But the commission can do more than it is doing to expose the fixers.

A method now employed by SPAB has resulted in creating in the minds of some the belief that materials designated as scarce are not being allocated impartially and free of political influence. The method consists in keeping the facts about allocations secret. In the beginning the sharing of scarce materials was out in the open. For instance, an order dated last March 28—I-M-4-A—allocated the supply of neoprene for the month of April. It listed 210 firms which were permitted to buy the output of neoprene for that month and how much each might buy. Every one knew what every one else got. If any firm was unfairly treated either thru error or because not enough facts were submitted, the allocation could be corrected. A manufacturer could then see whether he had as good a deal as his competitors. Now a concern is told only what it may have and nothing about its competitors' allocations.

This secrecy creates the opportunity for the fixer. Men who are or claim to be on friendly terms with important persons in the present régime are doing business in a volume never before approached. Whether they are actually getting things done for their clients may be seriously doubted. But the clients for the most part are convinced that they are getting their money's worth.

The publication of specific allocations, such as was done for neoprene last March, would not only expose the fixing but would be of the greatest aid to SPAB in the administration of priorities. The government does not know, independently of the statements submitted, the ordinary requirements of each concern. If there is full disclosure no small concern quickly improvised can get a quota that it is not entitled to. The enforcement of priorities is said to be a difficult problem for the government. Why does it therefore cut itself off from publicity, one of the most useful tools in the administration of any public agency?

The power to apportion raw materials among business firms is a life and death authority. No agency should have that power which works in the dark and which does not make public its findings and awards. The reputation of Mr. Donald Nelson, the priorities administrator, is such that we are confident that he will not tolerate a system of allocations which permits fixers to flourish, now that its evils have been called to his attention.

MR. KNOX SPIES A WAR.

Secretary Knox, who keeps his nautical spyglass for the sole purpose of searching out excuses for war, now feels that he has found what he is looking for in the far east. "The situation," Mr. Knox told a group of ordnance manufacturers, "is extremely strained. We are satisfied in our own minds that the Japanese have no intentions of giving up their plans for expansion. If they pursue that course a collision is inevitable. It can occur on 24 hours' notice." After the speech was delivered Mr. Knox withdrew the last sentence.

On the heels of this alarmist proclamation of an inevitable collision, Mr. Henning reports from Washington that the Japanese apparently offered very considerable concessions to Mr. Roosevelt in an effort to end misunderstandings with the United States. It appears that the negotiations only collapsed, causing the fall of the Japanese cabinet and the accession of a group of warlike extremists, when Mr. Roosevelt refused to make any concessions in return.

The Japanese are reported to have offered to withdraw from all of China except from two air bases to be retained on Chinese soil; to withdraw from the axis; to make no further moves toward the British and Dutch imperial possessions in the East Indies, and to pledge no interference with American shipments of aid to Russia via Vladivostok.

The Japanese wanted a mutual rescinding of credit freezing orders and restoration of normal trade between the United States and their country. In all probability, they asked a recognition of their conquest in Manchukuo, but the rock on which the negotiations are supposed to have been wrecked is reported to have been the demand for the Chinese air bases, and admittedly this would have been galling to the Chinese. But the Japanese concessions, on the whole, were sweeping. They were far greater than any one in this country might have expected them to make and they were in all probability all that the Japanese cabinet dared make in view of public opinion in its own country.

Admittedly, Mr. Roosevelt was on a spot. If he did not obtain a complete surrender from Japan, he faced the risk of placing himself in the position of Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier at Munich. He might have been called an appeaser. This is an unfashionable label but its present disrepute obscures the fact that every stable peace treaty or international agreement that has ever been made has involved appeasement on both sides. The Japanese cabinet was certainly running a greater risk than Mr. Roosevelt of incurring the epithet.

And so now Mr. Knox wants the country to believe that we may be at war with Japan at any moment.

War for what?

Nations, unless they are governed by fools, do not go to war, and particularly modern war, except for interests so vital that the life of the nation is threatened by their loss. They fight to defend those interests or to take them from their opponent. The objective must be worth the treasure and blood expended before the dreadful risk is considered. What vital interests of the United States can Japan threaten?

She cannot attack us. That is a military impossibility. Even our base at Hawaii is beyond the effective striking power of her fleet. She may threaten the Philippines but the Philippines are of so little vital interest to this country that we have already arranged to give them their independence within five years.

And what has Japan that we want? Nothing. Her attack on China has aroused the general reprobation of this country but that does not alter the fact that on a purely commercial basis continued peaceable relations with Japan are far more profitable to us than all of our trade with China, even if we should lose it. The great stake in the Japanese invasion of China is not American trade but British trade. The British have to live by foreign trade. We do not. Are we to fight for Britain's trade in China?

The Japanese seizure of Indo-China at the expense of a prostrate and helpless France was an offense against international morality, but no greater offense than the original French seizure of the same territory. The Japanese surely have as much right in Indo-China as the French. Are we to sink American battleships and to kill American boys to determine who shall be the overlords of the amiable and helpless Indo-Chinese?

Mr. Knox says a collision is inevitable. It is only inevitable if Mr. Knox and Mr. Roosevelt are intent upon embroiling us in a war in which we have no business, from which we are assured before we enter it we have not the slightest hope of profit, and which we know will cost us many thousands of American lives.

Editorial of the Day

CANDIDATE FOR THE STRADIVARIUS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Defense spending for the current fiscal year, which began last July 1 and ends June 30, 1942, will total about 18 billion dollars, Budget Director Harold D. Smith announced the other day. His latest estimate was 2½ billion dollars higher than a similar calculation several months ago.

Rising prices, it is explained, help account for the increase. Thus, in only a few months, the inflationary trend is materially increasing costs for the government and the taxpayers. Unless the trend is quickly checked billions may be added to the cost of our defense program.

Nevertheless, even the most elementary step necessary to enact inflation controls has not been taken. The house banking committee is still holding hearings on the administration's bill, altho weeks ago Chairman Stegall gave his assurance that the hearings would be ended by Oct. 3. He and his committee should be awarded the Stradivarius with which the Roman serenaded the three-alarm fire.

MR. DOOLEY COMES TO LIFE.

"Just out," as they say in the book trade, is "Mr. Dooley's America," a life of Finley Peter Dunne and a study of his time, by Elmer Ellis. It is Fanny Butcher's business to review this work on the literary page, but we have no compunction about getting the jump on her and discussing it, for we happen to know something of the way it was written and the pains the author took in reanimating the character of Peter Dunne in the years [1884-1900] when he walked the cobblestones of Chicago as a newspaper man and found the inspiration for Mr. Dooley in McGarry's saloon on Dearborn street.

Dunne was a unique figure in American letters whose biography needed to be written before his tradition grew dim. It was high time; the men who knew him in the lusty years of the Whitechapel club and the Cronin murder case were dropping off like autumn leaves. So young Mr. Ellis, a historian at the University of Missouri, asked for a sabbatical year and hit the Dooley trail.

His work in Chicago was exhaustive, and perhaps exhausting, since the memories of old gaffers, even if they are press veterans, about events of 40 and 50 years ago are none too reliable. We have never seen more enthusiasm on an assignment than Elmer Ellis' as he held to his dusty hunt. When we think of the newspaper files that he has wrestled with thru interminable hours, we groan in sympathy.

Then he went on to New York to follow Dunne's prosperous later years as author, editor, and clubman, and to the Congressional library for more digging among the archives, and to various small towns, east and west, where colleagues of Dunne's youth are living in retirement. Finally, his car overloaded with notebooks and documents, he proceeded to the Huntington library in San Marino, Cal.—as pleasant a place to write a book as there is on this hemisphere—and turned out the manuscript that Alfred A. Knopf now publishes.

"Mr. Dooley's America" is fascinating reading, we feel—a vivid restoration of the humorous philosopher of Archey road and his social and political backgrounds. There was a song about him that was a national hit in 1902. Its chorus ran:

'Twas Mister Dooley, 'twas Mister Dooley,
The greatest man the country ever knew;
Quite diplomatic and democratic
Is Mister Dooley-ooley-ooley-oo.

Of no small charm—
And she's after my husband for sure!
She may not

Any harm
Despite all her wiles
And allure.
But I've caught her at holding

And flirting the whole day long!
She thinks I will understand
That she doesn't mean

Just who Does she think

Doesn't she know that he's married
And she is our daughter Pam?

Boy's Memory of a Blacksmith Shop.

When I was a little boy we moved quite often, and once we moved to the most delightful place. The house was of no importance, but there was a blacksmith shop about 50 paces away, and in the shop there were the most amazing things. There were horseshoes, nails, hammers, an anvil, a bellows, and a forge with a metal apron and a chimney thru which one could look and see the sky. There was also a spinning wheel and a grand piano, every other key of which actually sometimes played. We did not miss the other keys.

We had a cousin who came out from Chicago, a statuesque, blue-eyed person with long blonde braids reaching below her waist, who had wealthy parents. They must have been wealthy. They owned a piano and she "took music lessons." We would all dash over to the smithy to hear her famous rendition of "The Burning of Rome," a gaudy number with a lurid cover of snorting horses drawing a chariot thru the flames. She played with a verve and abandon seldom heard now, and the piece was interminable in length, especially when she became lost in the flames in the middle of the composition and was obliged to play presto agitato, con furioso, for minutes to extricate herself and the piano from the roaring inferno.

Then we would sing, play other instruments, beat on the anvil, or hammer with the tongs on the metal apron until I wonder why the roof did not collapse.

We didn't have much money, but boy, did we have fun! Roy Engel.

OUR RED BLOOD CELL NEEDS.

SHOULD a radio quiz announcer ask, "Do the red blood cells constitute an important vital organ?" the correct answer would be "Yes." We speak frequently of the liver as the largest structure within the body, but this is not strictly true. It is not so bulky as all of the erythrocytes [red corpuscles] combined.

There is a marked difference, however. Each unit behaves as an individual and all are in motion constantly. Their work is to hang on to hemoglobin [red coloring matter], by means of which oxygen is carried from the lungs to every particle of living tissue. No cell can survive long unless it is generously supplied with this vital gas.

How many of these colored elements are there? According to the best estimates, there are approximately 25 trillion and each one is on the job all of the time. Like dump cars, they are loaded with oxygen from the air, which they release with facility wherever it is needed.

But these components are not everlasting. They are subject to a substantial amount of wear and tear. Within 30 days they become dilapidated and are ready for the scrap heap. Why? Because each one makes about 2,000 round trips per day. They travel from the lungs to the muscles and other parts and back to the starting point. Thus it is that every month a complete renewal must be accomplished. This is done gradually—that is, one-thirtieth of our cells die daily and a corresponding total must replace them.

Where are the worn out elements destroyed? Probably in the spleen. Here the figurative cars are broken up. The iron which they contain is set free and one of the constituents of bile [bilirubin] is a by-product.

All of this emphasizes the necessity for regular, nourishing, and digestible meals, because the system cannot build these wheel-like discs unless the proper proportion of minerals, proteins, fats, and carbohydrates is immediately at hand. The actual factory is within the bone marrow.

In addition to the raw materials listed, certain substances, secreted by the lining of the stomach, are required to refine, polish, and smooth the corpuscles so that they will be able to go to work. Unless these ingredients are available, immature and useless products will be formed. The hemoglobin likewise is prepared in the bone marrow and all will be well if there is sufficient iron to finish off this indispensable chemical.

It follows, then, that anemia may come because too little iron is available. When used up "rafts" are "junked" 15 per cent of their iron goes by the board. This explains the value of iron-rich foods or, on occasion, the ingestion of a tiny dose with meals.

We can understand what happens when bleeding occurs. Small but persistent hemorrhages from piles, sore gums, and nasal passages, etc., may indicate that far more iron must be imbibed. This is particularly true during the menstrual period, pregnancy, or nursing.

It can be stated frankly that the loss of this metal is our commonest cause of "poor" blood. No huge reserves can be stored. Nevertheless, we cannot manufacture hemoglobin without it. Even tho the red cells are normal in number, they may be low in color for just one reason—an iron deficiency.

In the case of corpuscles which will not mature, liver or hydrochloric acid or both are necessary. If the situation is discovered late, injections of liver extract may be called for. Only a few years ago pernicious anemia was a slowly progressive and fatal malady. Today we may look upon the ailment as one that has been brought under reasonably perfect control. The disorder now responds to administering the missing factors so essential to the formation of blood.

HEART MURMUR.

C. S. writes: Is a leaking valve the same as a murmur? Should a person afflicted with either avoid riding the roller coaster?

REPLY.

If a valve does not "seat" snugly, a small amount of blood will leak thru with every beat. As a rule, this gives rise to a murmur. This latter phenomenon may be functional. In other words, a murmur may not mean that the heart is diseased. If an organic weakness is present, however, all activities must be gauged by the power of the muscle of the pumping organ. Only your personal physician can advise you safely.

FRECKLES.

John writes: I am 13 years old and I have always had freckles. However, now I would like to get rid of them because my companions make fun of me. How can this be done?

REPLY.

The joke is on your playmates. They are envious. This pigmentation indicates that you are a real outdoor lad with a generous amount of good health. Were you a girl, I might suggest that you wear a veil, as keeping out of the sun will cause the spots to disappear. Take pride in your adornments and pity the pale-faced youngster who does not radiate vitality.

AFRAID OF DOGS.

Mrs. J. E. writes: My 6 year old daughter becomes panic stricken when she sees a dog on the street. My friends advised me to get her a pup, which I did, but she won't go near it, altho the two younger children romp and play with it. What can I do?

REPLY.

Your child's fear is no doubt based on an early terrorizing experience. Much patience will be required in training her to feel at home with the pup. Make certain that she is not sensitive to dog hair or dandruff.

GOOD-BY TO THE RAILROADS?

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 24.—Even as we write, the powerful railroad unions are calling on their more powerful friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to force the railroad managements to grant them a 30 per cent increase in pay. And this great increase in pay will be forced on the owners of the railroads because, you know, the railroad men all vote.

In 1917 when we entered the war the railroad unions threatened to stick a knife in Uncle Sam's back if they did not get their wages doubled. President Wilson forced the Adamson law thru congress, thus giving the increase in pay.

The result was disastrous to the railroads, owners and workers alike, for it made railroad transportation, both freight and passenger, so expensive that the American people could not use it. Thousands of trains were pulled off because they were not making enough to stand this increase in operating expenses.

Thus thousands of union men lost their jobs.

The people turned to the automobile for relief and found it the answer to their problem.

As soon as the railroad men get their increase in pay the increase will be added to the already too high freight and passenger rates, then railroad business will shrink to the vanishing point. That will be the death of our American railroad system which was so influential in building up this great country.

Under just management there is room enough for both railroads and trucks, but "When the government and the unions get together the people catch hell." We are going to lose our railroads. J. Albert Reeves

INSPIRED FROM RUSSIA.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Accepting Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that Americans might find it useful to read the soviet constitution on religious freedom, I visited the Workers' bookstore and there I also found a little magazine with a red cover entitled Soviet Russia Today, Sept., 1941.

Page 24 of this magazine carries an article titled "Heroes of the Soviet Republic."

This article, I think, may help to shed a little light on the source of the inspiration for the many high sounding phrases now being enunciated by the war party. Your readers are pretty familiar by now with those heroic words, "It is better to die standing than to go thru life on your knees."

Soviet Russia Today states that the author of these words is one Pasionaria, a woman of some prominence in Red circles. Plagiarism, or merely another example of minds running in similar channels? R. E. B.

HOLES IN STREETS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Chicago was to spend all of its $555,695 monthly share of state motor fuel tax for street repairing.

I am a car owner, home owner, and tax payer. I have been trying to get some holes in a street filled in, at least with cinders or gravel, for the last two years. The street is Kilpatrick avenue south of Armitage and Cortland, 4600 block. Both have a mass of deep holes in them, causing considerable damage to cars.

ON ENGINEERING DRAWING.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—The statement and claims that appear in your editorial columns the other day under the heading "Pictures Instead of Blue Prints" should very properly be classified under the more appropriate title of "Interesting If True."

Pictorial drawings which are used to amplify the orthographic working drawings, as they frequently are in engineering and industrial work, are most often isometric or some other form of axonometric projection and are hardly ever in perspective projection. The former may be drawn to scale and scale measurements may be taken from such drawings, but scale measurements cannot be readily taken from a perspective projection.

In more complex assemblies the true and correct relationship of parts cannot be clearly and adequately shown by any of the pictorial methods of representation. An orthographic projection is the only simple and direct method of representing most structures of such form with the high degree of accuracy which modern engineering science and industrial practices require.

I am not acquainted with the experiences which may have led the Douglas Aircraft corporation to increase their use of pictorial projection drawings to facilitate inexperienced workmen in the understanding of the blue prints. Other industries, however, have done the same thing to a certain extent for a long time, but never to the complete exclusion of the working drawing.

Should not his conclusions have been that the Douglas Aircraft experience indicates that more attention should be given to the teaching of orthographic projections [working drawings] in the high schools and colleges than has been done in the past rather than calling for the "simplification" of the graphical representation? A DOCTOR'S INDORSEMENT.

I believe it expresses the views and fears of the great majority of the medical profession. I am here attending the meeting of the Academy of Ophthalmology and Otoltaryngology. We are willing to give everything necessary for the defense of our country and our wonderful way of life, but we have little faith in our present leadership.

Keep on writing editorials. The country needs them.

TRIBUNE FOR BOYS IN CAMP.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—I, too, have a suggestion to make regarding what to send to the boy at camp. I am sending a friend of mine The Chicago Daily Tribune; it costs only one dollar a month and maybe less at close camps. To prove that it is appreciated, here is an excerpt from one of his letters: "I got the Oct. 8 paper today. Thanks so much—for I really enjoy it—as a matter of fact all my buddies do, too. We all read The Tribune." R. W.

THE MUCH TOUTED SEA OTTER.

Crown Point, Ind., Oct. 20.—Considerable publicity has been given recently to a new type of merchant vessel called the Sea Otter, which is supposed to solve some of the problems of expanding our cargo fleet. Such facts as have been released about the new ship leave laymen puzzled. Instead of having the propellers at the stern, they are placed amidship, apparently involving an intricate driving mechanism. It is said the new ships will be driven by gasoline engines, heretofore considered as impractical for ships of any size.

The history of freak designs in the marine field has been disappointing. The sea is a hard master and changes must come slowly. Is the Sea Otter just another New Deal project, or does it represent a soundly engineered advancement in marine architecture?

WRITE TO SEN. BYRD!

Chicago, Oct. 24.—To those who believe that nondefense, nonessential federal expenditures should be reduced I suggest that they write to Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Washington, D. C., and express their approval of his efforts to bring about this economy. The senator introduced a resolution, accepted by the committee on finance of the senate, to investigate federal expenditures and so to recommend to the President and congress the elimination of all nonessential expenditures. This appears to be a sensible approach to the problem, and, if successful, should help to check inflation at its source and help to reduce taxes.

Public sentiment may have much to do with the success of this undertaking. Write to the senator today.

A TATTERED FLAG.

Harvey, Ill., Oct. 23.—While home on furlough I have used the Illinois Central suburban trains into Chicago and have noticed something that should be brought to the attention of some patriotic minded order.

In an area close to 115th street and the suburban tracks there is a place known as the "Tin Can Gardens." In this "garden" is a flagpole with the remains of our flag on it. The flag is tattered, torn, and dirty—something our flag should never be.

I believe some readers of The Tribune will take care of this in the proper way.

A PIECE OF GOOD NEWS.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 24.—This morning's Tribune was a delight. On the front page appeared some good news, plenty of which is available in a naughty world, but which too seldom gets real space. The write-up, by Marcia Winn, telling of the constructive achievement—the new Wesley hospital—was gratifying to eyes, hungry for such news.

Necessarily war news holds first place these days, but why not give comparative space to "things of good report"?

LUXURY TAX.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I purchased a fur coat on the layaway plan in March, 1941. I have to pay the full amount before I take it out. I have received notice from the company that I will have to pay the 10% luxury tax on the balance that remains after the 1st of October. The balance would be $50. I thought that tax could only be put on new purchases made on or after Oct. 1 and not on unpaid balance on previously bought goods.

Please advise as I don't want to make complaint unadvised. K. H.

"If (1) any person has, prior to the effective date of Part V of Title V of the Revenue Act of 1941, made a bona fide contract for the sale on or after such date, of any article with respect to the sale of which a tax is imposed by that Act or an existing rate of tax is increased by that Act, and (2) such contract does not permit the adding to the amount to be paid, under such contract of the whole of such tax or increased rate of tax, then [unless the contract prohibits such addition] the vendee shall, in lieu of the vendor, pay so much of the tax as is not so permitted to be added to the contract price." M'GOORTY CITES GREEN'S PRAISE OF JUDGES IN '39

Jurist Calls Governor's Position 'Untenable.'

For the first time in the campaign a sitting judge yesterday criticized the attitude of Gov. Dwight H. Green toward the judicial election of Nov. 4.

Judge John P. McGoorty, nominee for reëlection to the Superior court, said in a radio speech that the governor's position is "untenable and unjustifiable."

"During the mayoralty primary campaign, in which he was a candidate," he said, "Gov. Green, when speaking over this same station on Feb. 17, 1939, in referring to the judges who had sat in recent years in the Criminal court of Cook county: 'They have always had and now enjoy the confidence and respect of this community.'

'Knew Judges to Be Fair.'

"Continuing, the governor further said: 'I would be proud to have the opportunity as an officer of this county or as a private attorney to try a case before any of these judges because I know they would give me fair treatment.'

"Gov. Green is now, at least by implication, asking that such judges whose terms are about to expire should not be reëlected. Such a position is untenable and cannot be justified upon any theory.

"A judicial campaign should not be used as a political expedient. If Gov. Green was right in 1939, how can he now consistently ask that all of the sitting judges of Cook county who are candidates for reëlection be defeated?

"Politics should not be considered in a judicial election—only the availability and fitness of the condidates. I have no doubt that in the coming election the people will again vote for the independence of the judiciary by registering their votes for the Democratic coalition ticket."

Calls Courts Political Toy.

A broadside at the present condition of local courts was delivered by radio by Ald. Roy E. Olin, a nominee on the Republican ticket.

"In Cook county the courts have been allowed to degenerate until they are the toy of the dominant political party," he said.

Another Sunday radio speaker was Edward B. Casey, former Municipal judge. He charged that of the 87 Circuit, Superior and Municipal judges in Cook only there is only one who was not elected on a Democratic ticket sponsored and indorsed by the Kelly-Nash machine.

ASK U. S. LOCATE BRITISH WOUNDED IN "SWAP" FLOP

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The United States has been asked to find out the whereabouts of the British wounded prisoners of war who were to have been repatriated recently, and how they withstood the journey to the French port from which they were to have sailed to Britain.

Plans for the repatriation of German and British wounded prisoners fell thru a few weeks ago after unsuccessful negotiations between Britain and Germany.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Christine Knowles, founder of the British prisoners of war books and games fund, to the wives and relatives of these men here today.

Judicial Candidates

DEMOCRATIC.

Judge Schwartz.

Judge Ulysses S. Schwartz, who as an alderman fought a former city hall machine relentlessly, was slated for reëlection to the Superior court by the Democrats and assigned 20th place on their ticket. Born in Milwaukee 54 years ago, the judge was named for Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, but his literary hobby is rather than the Civil war period.

Educated in the Norway, Mich., schools and the John Marshall law school, which awarded him a degree in 1910, Judge Schwartz was assistant city prosecutor from 1912 to 1916, when he was elected alderman of the 3d ward. In the council he led the fight against exorbitant fees paid real estate experts and attempted to solve local transportation problems and construct a subway.

The Chicago Bar association said in 1939 that as an alderman he had made "an enviable record as a public servant of great ability," and possessed "exceptional qualifications" for the bench.

Judge Schwartz was elected in 1939 and now is running for a full six year term.

Harry G. Hershenson.

Attorney Harry G. Hershenson, chairman of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association and commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court in disbarment cases, will be in 20th place on the Republican ticket for the Superior court. He was born in Chicago 42 years ago and now lives in Park Ridge.

Hershenson was graduated from Englewood High school, attended Northwestern university a few months, then entered the Chicago Kent College of Law, which gave him his degree in 1920. He was admitted to practice the same year and now is in partnership with his younger brother, Edward.

The candidate's practice many times has taken him before all the courts of Cook county, and in the federal, Appellate, and Supreme courts. He has been active in the bar association, and was chairman of the committee on Municipal courts when an attempt was made to increase court costs. This he opposed and the costs were kept at their present level.

ALDERMAN CUTS WARD LINES IN DRIVE FOR CASH

Hires Solicitors to Aid Own 'Charity.'

Political charities will boom if all of the other 49 aldermen adopt the fund collection scheme now being used by Ald. Earl B. Dickerson, colored, of the south side 2d ward, it was predicted yesterday.

Dickerson is the first alderman, a council colleague said, to cut across ward lines and blanket the city in his solicitation of money for strictly local charity. Also, it is an innovation for an alderman to hire solicitors on a long range commission basis to pull in reluctant dollars, he said.

For five or six weeks now, Dickerson has been receiving an average of $100 to $150 a week, he estimated. He intends to continue until he holds his "big midnight show" in a south side theater in December, he said.

"Alderman Dickerson Night."

Prospective contributors have complained that they didn't know who Ald. Dickerson was. A form letter on stationery headed "Alderman Earl B. Dickerson Night" and including a list of his council committee memberships read:

"I am writing to thank you for your generous contribution of $5. If at any time in the future I can be of service to you or your associates please command me."

Asked about the invitation to "command" him the alderman said it doesn't mean a thing.

"Surely you don't think there could be a relationship between $5 or $10 and my council services, do you?" he asked. "That's just a friendly means of thanking a person. Anyway, my secretary wrote the letter."

He said the money goes into the "Second Ward Community fund" and will be disbursed for various charitable purposes which he encounters in his aldermanic duties.

Shoe Fund Promised.

"For one thing, I'll contribute to establish a fund in our schools to provide shoes for children who can't get them from relief," Dickerson promised. "It may not be an appreciable amount but it will stimulate further giving by the community.

"Then I find people who need $1 or $2 to stave off starvation because they can't get on relief because they haven't been here long enough. Or maybe it will be an artificial limb or a wheel chair needed. Next Saturday I'm having a night of entertainment for our south side soldier boys."

Telephone solicitation is done by an "independent contractor," he said. He refused to say how much commission these booster boys receive.

"I can say, tho, that one weakness is that you have to pay them out of proportion to what you receive," he admitted.

Davies Is One of Targets of Truman Inquiry.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York News.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—Huge salaries that the government's "dollar-a-year" men are still drawing down from the private concerns they left behind them to give their all to Uncle Sam are about to receive attention from the Truman committee investigating national defense.

According to information reaching the senators, only a very few business recruits of the Office of Production Management followed the example of their chief, William S. Knudsen, and cut the pocketbook nerve connecting them with their old pay rolls when they took the President's dollar. Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] and his associates are inclined to uphold the Knudsen standard. Anyway, they have decided to investigate.

Among those whom the "dollar-a-year" situation has given a slight headache is that man of many oil and egg woes, Secretary Harold L. Ickes. Ickes suggested to the senators that they ought to cross-examine every dollar-a-year man in defense after they had uncovered the interesting story of Ickes' deputy oil coördinator, Ralph K. Davies.

'Only One Allegiance."

For a long time the impression here was that Davies had given up a handsome Standard Oil salary to help Ickes solve the oil crisis, not, it is true, for a dollar a year but for ten thousand per. Addressing representatives of the oil industry here, Davies proclaimed himself a "government employé, serving full time. . . . Having but one allegiance—an allegiance to the national government and to my superior, the petroleum coördinator for national defense."

"This is but a way of saying to you that I am properly free to serve from the impartial position of government, and to devote myself completely to the public interest in the present emergency," Davies concluded.

Inquiries at the interior department brought the reply that Davies had indeed severed his business ties, that such Standard Oil money as he was receiving must come from stock ownership.

Revealed in SEC Petition.

In September, however, Standard Oil of California petitioned the Securities and Exchange commission for the right to issue some stock. In this petition the auditor of the company included Davies among the principal officers of the company, saying in part:

"The company has granted Mr. Davies a leave of absence with pay, and relieved him of all duties and responsibilities of his official connection with the company so far as such relief may be necessary to permit him to perform his duties as deputy coördinator."

It took a long time for this obscure paragraph to percolate out of the SEC statement into government circles—but it did.

The salary mentioned was $57,000 a year. With the government's $10,000 added to it, Mr. Davies' stipend is almost in a class with the presidential pay of $75,000.

Ickes Admits It.

To tart questioning by Sen. Francis Maloney [D., Conn.], Ickes admitted it was true and gave the senators the idea that they should probe the whole field of when is a dollar not a dollar.

Ickes defended his aid, but the general impression at the interior department is that news of Davies' continued salary was not at first known to him.

Among others attracting senatorial interest is Arthur Bunker, in charge of the aluminum and magnesium section of OPM. The banking firm of Lehman Brothers is continuing Bunker's $60,000 a year salary.

Twenty-Six Persons Hurt When Bus Skids, Wrecks

Neosho, Mo., Oct. 26 (AP).—Twenty-six persons were injured, seven severely, in the wreck of a northbound Crown Coach company bus five miles north of Neosho today. The bus went off the wet pavement at a curve and rolled over into a muddy field. The passengers crawled out thru an emergency door and shattered windows. The injured were treated at Joplin and Neosho hospitals. The seven most severely hurt remained in Joplin hospitals tonight.

THRONG CHEERS MARCH OF 2,500 IN NAVY SALUTE

Admiral Stark to Speak at Banquet Tonight.

Sailors of the United States navy, 2,500 strong, marched down Michigan avenue yesterday as the Chicago area saluted the men of the nation's first line of defense.

Officially today, Oct. 27, is Navy day, but ceremonies honoring men of the fleet have been conducted thruout Chicagoland since Saturday. The observance will reach a climax tonight with an address by the navy's highest ranking officer, Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, at a dinner in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

A large crowd, braving chilly, rainy weather, lined Michigan avenue as the parade moved south from Ontario to 11th streets, past a reviewing stand in the Congress street plaza.

Reviewed by Officials.

In the reviewing stand were Mayor Kelly, Rear Adm. Edward A. Evers, Capt. B. B. Wygant, Capt. William U. McCall of the British navy, Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, and other navy, marine, and army officials.

Midshipmen from Abbott hall on the Northwestern university downtown campus, bluejackets from the navy training schools at Navy Pier and the Chicago Vocational school, marines, American Legionnaires, and Veterans of Foreign Wars, accompanied by their bands, marched in the long parade.

100 Sworn into Navy.

In a ceremony following the parade 100 young men, recruited by the American Legion, were sworn into the navy by Lieut. David N. Goldenson at the Congress street plaza.

Meanwhile, at the Glenview naval reserve aviation base two all-Chicago naval aviation squadrons, Chicago's Own and the Chicago Blackhawks, were honored by a Chicago World War Naval Aviators committee, headed by Warren V. Woody.

The occasion marked the completion of the basic training course by the Chicago's Own squadron, and the induction of the new class, the Blackhawks. Formation flying and aerial acrobatics by navy flyers headlined the program.

Guestz at Banquet.

Both naval aviation squadrons will be guests at the Navy day dinner tonight. Adm. Stark will be introduced by Commodore Sheldon Clark, president of the Navy league, which annually directs the observance of Navy day.

The Great Lakes Naval Training school will hold open house all day today in observance of Navy day. A sham battle, regimental review, bayonet drills, and band concerts will be staged for visitors.

1ST ARMY FACES LOSS OF 57,000 BY NEXT MARCH

Camden, S. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—The 1st army, in the midst of final maneuvers of its training year, will lose about 20 per cent of its personnel between December and March, it was learned today.

Included in the number are 56,618 privates and noncommissioned officers and almost 500 commissioned officers. Among the latter are two major generals commanding divisions.

First army records show there are 230 officers of the rank of major and upward affected by the war department ruling setting age limits for the various grades of officers with field troops. It was authoritatively estimated there are at least that many of company grade—captains and lieutenants—who will be allowed to resign or transferred to office jobs.

Enlisted men and draftees will be released for various reasons, because their term of service has ended, they have established that dependents need their support or they are more than 28 years old. Release for those in the last class is not automatic; they must request it.

4 DUCK HUNTERS PICKED UP AFTER GAS GIVES OUT

Four duck hunters were brought ashore in the Waukegan area yesterday after an outboard motor boat's gasoline supply had become exhausted.

Two of the men, Ralph Sheve, 1609 Sheridan road, Waukegan, and Al Cepon, 720 Grove avenue, Waukegan, both 22 years old, were picked up wet and cold after three hours of drifting by Harbormaster Adam Detloff in his boat, the Doughboy.

Two other members of the party were picked up by the Kenosha coast guard. Their names were not learned.

ROOSEVELT ASKS U. S. 'SACRIFICES' IN NAVY DAY NOTE

Ships Are Ready to Prove Fitness, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—A call for Americans to sacrifice their personal, sectional, and group interests "in order that we may remain united and unconquerable" was issued by President Roosevelt tonight in a letter ushering in the nation's celebration of Navy day tomorrow.

Addressed to Navy Secretary Knox, the letter was made public by the navy department, which, in coöperation with the Navy league, has arranged for scores of naval shore establishments to observe Navy day.

Significance Clear, He Says.

Mr. Roosevelt alluded to the navy's expanded sea operations by mentioning "our fleets far out in the Atlantic and Pacific" and the forces that support them "in our far flung bases."

The President's letter said that while the country had celebrated Oct. 27—Theodore Roosevelt's birthday—as Navy day for the last 19 years, "this year we go further and expand that observance to 'navy and total defense day,' a change whose significance will be clear to all right thinking Americans."

"You and I know that such modification implies no change in spirit from past anniversaries," Mr. Roosevelt wrote. "Rather it strengthens that spirit in identifying it with the responsibility of all of our people for national defense."

As commander in chief of the navy Mr. Roosevelt praised it for thoroness in bearing its share of national preparedness.

Ready to Prove Fitness.

"Ship for ship, man for man, I am proud and confident in knowing the navy is ready to prove to the nation and to the forces of evil its fitness to assume that responsibility," he said.

"As today I add my own salute to that of our fellow Americans I know I can count on our navy to recognize the necessity for its close coördination with the army and our millions of civilian defenders. In that spirit let the navy today return the nation's salute."

Mr. Roosevelt will speak tomorrow night at a Navy day dinner in Washington. The speech, which will be broadcast by all networks, will be heard at 9 p. m. Chicago time. [One of the Chicago outlets will be W-G-N.]

RELIEFERS FILL 875 JOBS, BUT 3,500 ARE OPEN

Urges Dole Agencies Push Re-employment Plan.

Chicago private employment agencies have found jobs for 875 reliefers sent them in the last five months by Gov. Green's special reëmployment committee, and they expect to place additional hundreds before winter, George J. Crawley, chairman of the Illinois Board of Private Employment Agencies, said yesterday.

"We could have filled positions for at least 3,500 more," Crawley said. "If relief officials send us properly qualified and physically fit men and women with a willingness to work, we can reduce relief rolls by 100 persons a day."

54,000 Able to Work.

Illinois Public Aid commission records for September revealed there are 113,468 home relief cases in Illinois, 54,002 of them with at least one employable person. In Chicago 26,980 of a total of 59,990 cases have persons certified as able to work.

"The demand for nonskilled workers 18 to 30 years old is far greater than we can fill," Crawley continued. "We don't have enough space or large enough staffs to interview reliefers, but we can find jobs for ambitious reliefers if the relief bodies themselves will analyze their possibilities and weed out the undesirables."

Private employment agencies receive $7.50 for each reliefer placed in a permanent job under the $150,000 appropriation approved by the state legislature last spring. Thus far, with 875 reliefers taken from the rolls, only $6,562 of the appropriation has been spent.

The average relief case receives about $30 a month in public funds, Crawley said, adding that the monthly saving to the state already totaled $26,250, or $315,000 a year.

All Hold Their Jobs.

The relief clients first are interviewed by the special reëmployment committee, headed by State Treasurer Warren Wright, and then are apportioned to 60 private agencies in Chicago cooperating with the governor's program.

"We haven't had a bit of trouble with the reliefers we've placed so far," Crawley said. "They get a feeling of independence after the first pay day and work hard to hold the job. Not one has been fired."

August figures, the latest compiled, show that the state's 375 private employment agencies had 20,667 unfilled jobs on their books, Frank J. Graves, state supervisor of the agencies, declared. This compared with 17,386 in July and 19,672 in June.

Five Negroes, brandishing knives, last night robbed Andrew Taurazas, 28 years old, 810 Hyde Park boulevard, of 11 cents as he was on his way to buy a pint of milk for his son, Ronald, 9 months old. It was the last of his money, he told Hyde Park police.

Detectives David Bohan and Harry Sullivan gave him $2 and took provisions furnished by sympathetic merchants to the family, which includes Taurazas' wife, Anne, 24, and Cecelia, 6. Last Friday he was robbed of $16 by another Negro gang.

Taurazas said he has not lived in Illinois long enough to be eligible for relief (three years required); a month ago he burned his foot and lost his job with a manufacturing company; Cecilia fractured both of her hands in a fall down the stairs in September; and their rent is unpaid.

The Waukegan chapter of the WCTU will petition the Waukegan city council at its meeting tonight to order the enforcement of an ancient curfew ordinance that is still on the books, Mrs. Henry Ekstrand, president of the chapter, said yesterday.

As provided in the ordinance, any one under 16 years of age is prohibited from being on the streets or outside their homes between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. Mrs. Ekstrand said her group's agitation for enforcement is the result of the large number of girls under 16 who are "running around with men, particularly soldiers and sailors, late at night."

Ald. Jacob Kyndberg attempted to have the ordinance revived a month ago on the grounds that youngsters were frequenting taverns. No action was taken at that time and it was brought out that Waukegan does not have a siren or town whistle that could sound the curfew.

"DAY by DAY on the FARM." by GAIL COMPTON

'That Man' Has Arrived.

October, 26, 1941.

A PERSISTENT rumor made the rounds of the farm the other day that caused a flurry of excitement in the Chew and Chatter Club for Young Shorthorn Girls. The announcement, whispered nervously over the bluegrass, was that "that man" has arrived.

Later in the day the girls had a glimpse of the yearling bull destined to take over the reins of Shorthorn Town and rule it with an iron hoof. He was selected by the farm manager as sire for the newly established Shorthorn herd.

He's a Well Built Bull.

He is a grand looking young bull with a deep chest, heavy fore quarters, and a broad back that caused even the Guernsey cows to roll their eyes. His deep red color, preferred by Shorthorn breeders, short legs, bulky outline, and perfect conformation make him an object of admiration. If he gives a calf as near perfect as himself he will have taken a long step toward giving the farm a top Shorthorn herd.

The young bull tips the scales at 1,300 pounds. The farm manager said he still has plenty of growth to attain before reaching a maximum weight of around 1,600 pounds.

The new sire is ready to start breeding the heifers at once. He is just at the right age to assume the responsibilities of heading the herd. If his calves prove to be good specimens, the manager plans to follow a program of line breeding to establish his blood and type in the herd.

One Calf Due in December.

The foundation animals of the herd now number 14, including the bull. Seven of the heifers will be bred as soon as possible. Four are too young to breed, being barely a year old. Two already are bred and one will drop her calf in December. The other bred heifer, mated to a $7,000 bull last month, should throw an exceptionally fine calf.

The heifers have been running on good pasture, and have been fed enough to keep them gaining in a thrifty fashion. They are in excellent condition now and should breed easily. They are on a ration consisting of corn, oats, wheat germ, oil meal, hay, and silage.

Costumes Go Sissy for Kids on Halloween

BY REA SEEGER.

Digging around in our unhallowed memories of historic childhood Halloweens, the costumes we wore were relatively unimportant to the devilment we could devise to bother our elders. No costume ever created could cause the shivers we shuddered thru, the time we watched a certain irate maiden lady [completely unsympathetic all the year 'round toward the small pests in the vicinity] slide the full length of her front porch, because of the contents of a can of oysters sadistically strewn for just that purpose.

Evidently, small fry these days are blissfully unaware of what made history, for children are no longer allowed to vent their barbarism in anything more disturbing to the peace than masquerade costumes, but somehow or other, at least to one grown-up, these creations of cheesecloth, cellophane and string are dull alternatives to the nondescript assortment of sweater skirts and sneakers of a past decade. Peace and contentment for the older generation has been wangled for a mess of froth and make-believe at the expense of the unsuspecting kids.

Some of the 1941 finds for this peace appeasement plan include such masquerade ideas as the black satin goblins, witches, and skeletons. Your tamed young savage will probably select the black and white jungle outfit, with a painted face horrible enough to satisfy any bloodthirsty hellion. There are Indian outfits, cowboy, soldier, sailor, marine and aviator outfits, tho what these last named outfits have to do with the skulduggery of a Halloween baffles a good detective!

Little girls out to scare the daylights out of the neighbors are supposed to select Bo-peep, little Red Riding Hoods, shepherdesses, colonial belles, and angels with wings . . . . name of a name, what a wild namby-pamby Halloween these youngsters have ahead!

Cancel Formal Holiday Parties; Debutantes Sad

BY JUDITH CASS.

NARY a ball is to enliven the Christmas season for the debutantes. Up until this fall eight were scheduled, some of them on dates selected as long as five years ago. But now all have been canceled, and in their stead there will be small dinner-dances or nothing at all.

The reasons that have led to this change of plans arouse a strong feeling of approval in some and quite the contrary reaction in others. Needless to say, dressmakers, hotels, social secretaries, florists, caterers, dance orchestras, stationers' shops, and other industries that thrive on entertaining on a lavish scale are sorry that the parents of this year's buds have felt it necessary to curtail the parties.

Length of Invitation List Makes Ball or a Dance.

"What is the difference between a ball and dance?" is an oft asked question. The length of the invitation list makes the difference. When one gives a dance she invites anywhere from 50 to 250 guests. When she gives a ball she invites between 500 and 1,000. The difference in expense is considerable.

There isn't even going to be a ball on the night of the Princeton Triangle club performance, Monday, Dec. 29. The parents of a bud had reserved that date for a ball at the Blackstone, but they canceled their plans. Then the John L. Cochrans and the Cyrus G. Hills decided to make their party that night a supper-dance instead of a dinner-dance. The Trianglers will be invited to a party after the show, but it will be at the Casino and consequently not as large an affair as is customarily given on the night of the Triangle performance. Miss Eleanor Cochran and Miss Diana Hill are certain to have THE party of the holiday season, however, for with so many extra stags the dance is certain to be a gay one.

Robert J. Dunham has reserved the Casino that afternoon for a tea-dance for his debutante granddaughter, Miss Caryl Casselberry. The Trianglers will be invited to that, too, and will feel well acquainted with the smart little club in East Delaware place before they leave Chicago.

Plan Dance at Casino for Miss Anne Boswell.

The Nicolas Starosselskys have decided definitely to give a dinner-dance at the Casino on Tuesday, Dec. 30, for their debutante, Anne Boswell. The Kent S. Clows are still trying to find a date during the holidays when they can give a dinner-dance for their daughter, Frances, but so far they have not been able to obtain a free night. The giving of dinner-dances instead of balls is a boon to private clubs, for there are no large ballrooms in the smart clubs, and debutante balls always are given at hotels. Mrs. John J. Mitchell reserved the Racquet club for a dinner-dance for Miss Peggy Nicholson as soon as the Clows gave up the ballroom at the Blackstone for that night.

The year that Mrs. Mitchell, then Lolita Armour, and Miss Nicholson's mother, the late Ermina Carry Nicholson, "came out," there was a ball every night during the holiday season and during that winter there were between 50 and 60 large evening parties for the debutantes. That was in the long ago, carefree days of 1916.

The committee in charge of the St. Luke's fashion show, given last Tuesday afternoon and evening in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel, has announced that the benefit brought in $30,000 for charity.

Perrys Sailing to Panama for Daughter's Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry and their younger daughter, Sally, will sail from New Orleans on Nov. 8 for Panama, where Miss Perry and Ensign Edward A. Limberg Jr. will be married on Nov. 18. He is on active land duty with the navy in Balboa, Canal Zone, and he and his bride will live in Ancon. Mrs. Foster Limberg of St. Louis will join the Perrys in New Orleans to attend her son's marriage.

The former Polly Perry and her husband, Harold Kneedler of Manila, who are spending the winter in Chicago, will go to New Haven to visit Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jr. while the senior Perrys are away.

Ensign Limberg writes that Panama is much like Manila, so that his bride-to-be is looking forward to residing there, for she knows Manila well and likes it. She will find several friends there, among them Corning Kenly and his bride and Philip L. Reed Jr. His engagement to Miss Marie Elizabeth Reece of Chestnut Hill, Boston, was announced yesterday. They are going to be married in Panama shortly before the Limberg-Perry wedding. The entire Reed family, who now live in Dedham, Mass., but who used to live here, and Miss Reece and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank-

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Concert Speeds Chamber Music Revival in City

Concert by the Philharmonic String quartet, assisted by Ernest Liegl, flutist. Presented in the Goodman theater, under the auspices of the Lake View Musical society, Sunday evening, Oct. 26, 1941. The program:
Quartet for Strings, G. minor...Sowerby
Serenade, Opus 77A, for Flute, Violin and Viola .....Reger
String Quartet, E flat major, Opus 127 .....Beethoven

BY CECIL SMITH.

The long awaited renaissance of chamber music in Chicago seems to be taking place. Instead of a handful of dogged enthusiasts, several hundred people came to the Goodman theater last night to hear the first in a series of three concerts by the Philharmonic String quartet. More important still, the audience listened with close attention and manifest enjoyment to a serious, and even rigorous program in which Max Reger's gracious and Mozartean Serenade, the only bright work of the evening, was placed between such long and demanding compositions as Leo Sowerby's G minor quartet and one of Beethoven's last quartets.

For the external success of the project, without precedent for several years except in the isolated case of the Ravinia festival's postseason chamber music concerts, the zestful promotion of the Lake View Musical society is no doubt largely responsible. It was their idea, and primarily the idea of their president, Mrs. H. H. Havner, to try to enhance Chicago's interest in chamber music. Happily the response to their endeavor indicates that the musical public now is becoming interested in a whole range of music which heretofore has been neglected.

The members of the Philharmonic String quartet—John Weicher, Robert Quick, Walter Hancock, and Dudley Powers—have been rehearsing long and profitably. The Sowerby quartet was presented with all the tonal beauty, balance, and eloquence its composer could hope for. The little Roger serenade, a trio for flute, violin and viola, was neatly performed, with Ernest Liegl, first flutist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, playing with enchanting rhythmic clarity and radiance of tone. Only in the great Beethoven quartet, opus 127, did the playing of the quartet seem variable and at times—as in the middle of the slow movement—even ungainly; but it can fairly be said that the amount of good playing outweighed the passages that were roughly executed.

Mr. Sowerby's quartet, which had not been heard downtown in seven years, is packed full of attractive melodic ideas, but the composer does not accept sufficiently the need for structural firmness. Except for the scherzo, the entire quartet is far too rhapsodic and formless, and especially in the first movement it is consequently too long.

Shop Talk.

The board of directors of the Chicago Business Men's orchestra meets once a week at the Cliff Dwellers' club for luncheon and a discussion of the orchestra's affairs. Near their table is that of Dr. Frederick Stock, who sometimes joins them at luncheon. The other day the group was in session when Dr. Stock entered. He was promptly invited to sit at their table.

"No," said Dr. Stock. "Not today. All you business men talk about is music."

Author's Predictions.

Pierre Van Paassen, blue eyed, mild mannered, looking incredibly youthful to have fought in the first World war, to which the Canadian service emblem in his lapel gave testimony, is in town lecturing and autographing copies of his new book That Day Alone. A man with a surprisingly sweet, swift smile that illumines his otherwise serious countenance, he answered questions of fellow luncheon guests who recalled the accuracy of his earlier predictions, his opinion of the shape of things to come.

Russia will hold out, he said, because it has eight independent economic centers, six of which are in Asia. The Germans have taken one of the two European ones, Kharkov, apparently, and the other one in Europe is a light industry center behind Leningrad. The big tractor and tank factories are across the Ural mountains. But it will be a long war. Germany will fight according to the seasons. He thinks England should send her Indian army into the Caucasus to stop the juncture of the Nazi and Japanese armies. Dakar should also be protected, he said.

"In the end, possibly in 1946, Germany will be defeated," he said. "But it will be only by an uninterrupted stream of bombers from America that will fly day and night over Germany, bombing constantly."

Fame.

Bellamy Partridge, author of Country Lawyer, who was in town Saturday autographing copies of his new book, Big Family, was asked about his birthplace which is the setting for the new book.

"It is Phelps, N. Y.," he said. "And the sign at the entrance of the town now says 'Home of the Country Lawyer'. But what do you think it used to say? 'Home of the largest sauerkraut factory in the world'."

Kitchen Range Is Wanted for Needy Couple

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Mrs. F., who lives in a suburb west of Chicago, explains her need, which we hope some reader can fill.

"Dear Miss Brown: Do you know of any one who has an old fashioned kitchen range, not a combination coal and gas—just a coal stove?

"This may seem a rather unusual request in this day and age, but last February we lost our home, after living in it for eighteen years. My husband could not find employment. He is now on WPA, and it is very difficult for us to get along on what he earns. We were fortunate in finding a little rear cottage at a low monthly rental. It has a furnace, but we are unable to buy enough coal for it.

"If I had a kitchen stove, I think it would heat the four rooms and I could also cook with it and save on gas.

"If you know of any one who owns but no longer needs such a stove, I would be ever so grateful to have it." —Mrs. D. F.

We know that there probably are not many such stoves available but hope some reader can locate one, since it will be a great help to this couple, who have met with many reverses.

Transportation can be arranged, and an offer from the west side of the city would be most convenient, altho help from any section will be most acceptable.

Drenched Field Splashes Thru Hunter Trials

"The horses need water wings," some one said at the Wayne-Du Page hunter trials yesterday in the mare barn pastures near Wayne. Promptly at 10 o'clock as the first entry in the working hunter open class rode out on the course, the rain started pouring down.

As the classes progressed, more and more jumps had to be taken out of the course because of slippery landings. No one was able to eat a picnic lunch on the grounds. Instead they nibbled at sandwiches in their cars or bought hamburgers and coffee.

The McKearnan family and Mrs. Montgomery M. Orr almost monopolized the prizes for the day. Thomas J. McKearnan won the coveted Wayne-Du Page hunt challenge trophy, a fourth place, and was a member of the second and third place hunter teams. Mr. McKearnan Jr. won a third place and was in the second place hunter team and Robert McKearnan took a fourth place and was in the third place team.

In the working hunter class, open to members of other hunts, Mrs. Orr of the Wayne-Du Page took firsts on Shamrock's Precaution. Mrs. Orr also was second in the challenge trophy class, and rode in the second place hunter team. Miss Betty Mead of the Mill Creek hunt was second on Sylvestre in the working hunter group. Mr. McKearnan Jr. and his father took third and fourth on Colonel and Margo.

Eight of the entries in the Wayne-Du Page hunt class were scratched before starting time because of the muddy course. A field of 14 entered, however, and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., wife of the master of fox hounds of the Wayne-Du Page hunt, presented the silver trophy to Mr. McKearnan. Mrs. Orr was second, Kenneth H. Hess, third, and Robert McKearnan, fourth.

Other entrants were Mrs. Corwith Hamill, Arthur Farwell, John M. Price Jr., Mr. Lindsay, Edgerton A. Throckmorton, McClure Kelley, Mr. McKearnon, Kenneth M. Hess, and John L. Dole.

The blue ribbon for hunter teams went to the Longmeadow Thrusters, Ross J. Beatty Jr., Henry W. Meers, and Freeman J. Wood. The Wayne-Du Page hunt team No. 1, Mr. McKearnan, Mr. McKearnan Jr., and Mrs. Orr, was second. Third place went to the Longmeadow team No. 1, Mr. McKearnan, Robert McKearnan, and Mr. Beatty Jr. Miss Mead, Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, and Hulburd Johnston, the Mill Creek entry, took fourth place.

Mrs. Orton L. Prime of Oconomowoc and Clark J. Lawrence, master of the Longmeadow hunt which will hold its trials on Nov. 9, were the judges. The Mill Creek trials will be held next Sunday.

Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee donned fur lined boots to watch the trials, and Miss Carol Fox, who came with Maxine Cooper, tied a bandana over her curls. Other spectators included Mrs. John I. Shaw in woolly ankle socks and saddle shoes, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moon, Mrs. Harold B. Smith, Mrs. Louis F. Swift, and Mrs. Clarence Boyd Jones. Mrs. Theodore A. Mohlman, in a leopard coat, watched her husband ride and Mrs. Farwell watched her husband from a station wagon.

Provide Recreation for Children, Priest Tells Homemakers

Parents have an obligation to society to create recreational opportunities in the home for their children, the Rev. Ralph A. Gallagher, a member of the recreation commission, told 100 women yesterday at the first annual Homemakers Conference and Exposition in the Sherman hotel.

"The modern family has more leisure today than it ever had before in history," Father Gallagher said. "Leisure can bring about dissention within the family unless it is put to wise use. Parents who play with their children have a normal, intergrated life.

"We are a nation of cliff dwellers. We should go back to the home. Children who are delinquents, whose recreation is frustrated play, have been frustrated first in their homes."

★ THRU THE ★ LOOKING GLASS

New nail polish shades come along so fast it's a little difficult to keep their color tones straight in our mind's eye and their names orderly in our poor addled head. But there are two exciting new arrivals that we won't be absent minded about.

One of them is probably one of the prettiest brown tinged shades we've ever seen. Most reds with brown undertones leave us cold; they seem so flat and dreary, somehow. This new baby, with the nice name of "tawny port" is amber-wine in somewhat ruby depths in its rich color, somehow lively because of brownness. It's a perfect color accent for the nails if you wear brown or some of those delectable greens we're seeing this year. And it's remarkably flattering to the skin of the hands.

The second of the new shades is deep claret, the color of sparkling wine, and is beautiful as an accent with plums and wines. Personally, we like it with black too, if the skin is fair. It's a rich color that grows more and more attractive to your own eye as you wear it.

Both of these are brand, spanking new, good tonics for your fall get-up. Their maker has another new product too; it's a topcoat for polish that cuts minutes off the time it usually takes to groom busy hands. It dries in a jiffy, doesn't affect the color of the polish at all, and gives a sparkling protective coat that guards against chipping.

"No Light Came On"

By Alice Ormond Campbell

(Copyright: 1941: By Alice Ormond Campbell)

INSTALMENT XLIII.

ESCAPE.

"Can you tell me," I asked the concierge, "if Monsieur Dorsey is in town?"

He was not, the old crow said inflexibly. She added that she could not hazard a guess as to where he had gone or for how long.

"C'est de la part de qui?" she demanded suspiciously; but I was quicker and had got away.

Concierges are all of one breed—petty martinets, chockful of importance, giving nothing away. The 50 franc tip I'd handed our concierge as I came out hadn't earned me any information as to Horace's goings and comings since he took up residence in her domain. It was immaterial, of course. Passports are proof, and the one I'd seen last night had told me what De Chabenil wanted to know. It hadn't been Horace who went snooping over to London last February to see what he could see.

There remained the other question: Had Horace talked with Alixe and perhaps learned something from her? This I knew wasn't so, tho I meant to ask Horace just to make sure. If the infamous Raoul was having jitters on Horace's account he could calm down. The actual relations between Cousin Lou and her scamp follower had burst on Horace at 10 o'clock last night—not any sooner. His quivering anguish of shock and embarrassment had satisfied me utterly on that point. Nor when I presently met him coming along the Avenue Malakoff did he once refer to the inspector's painful disclosure about the joint 'plane journey.

"By the way." He avoided my eye. "Have you heard anything just lately from Macadam's partner?"

"No. He seems to be out of Paris."

It couldn't be that Horace had viewed that final name on the passenger list with the same emotions as mine. I was desperately hoping he hadn't guessed the reason for my flop. His question about Miles had sounded diffident, merely exploring. He shut up and passed on to his car.

Coming in from lunch I found Estrella's note. The concierge had pushed it under the front door.

Estrella!

I was obliged to do some rapid reshuffling. Staggered tho I was to be getting word from the woman so soon after her brother's death I liked the touch about trying on my nightgown. She was a serious artist, no doubt about that. I dialed her number. Presently I heard a watchful "Allo!"

"Madame Estrella? Miss Ripley here. Are you quite sure you feel like seeing me? Your loss—" I gripped the receiver, my heart bumping uncomfortably.

Long eerie silence. Out of it the same deep, level tones, all expression stamped out of them:

"Five o'clock—if it suits you. Work must go on."

Work must go on!

I felt a sudden surge of pity for the poor lingerie maker shamed, let down by her two scoundrelly menfolk, but even in her grief stoically carrying on with her trade. I was positive that since Alixe Jourdain's disclosure of some final bit of villainy she had washed her lover right out—cut him ruthlessly adrift. She might even, not wholly without excuse, connect De Chabenil with her brother's end; but whatever the case I took off my hat to her. She was a woman with courage.

Courage enough to put poison in a rival's soup?

She might have done that very thing. I had long ceased to regard Estrella as a murderess, but her innocence was by no means certain, and that was flat.

Wavering, I looked round at the light furring of dust already beginning to collect on the handsome hall furniture. I was seeking reassurance. I saw the note with its engraved heading still lying by the telephone, and that did the trick.

"Rats! Would she go out of her way to make fitting appointments with an interested party?"

The most ordinary common sense told me she wouldn't do anything so stupid. All the same, I'd think things over and decide about keeping the appointment. There was plenty of time.

I'd brought in a newspaper and thrown a glance at the front page, just to make sure there was still no reference to myself. Now I pitched off my hat, got comfortable on the chaise longue and opened the paper up to see what was inside. Headlines stung me like a hornet:

EDWARD MANX, ENGLISH BUTLER, VANISHED!

It was a mirage. I'd misread the name. I snapped on the tall lamp, but the black print hadn't changed. Mme. Rentrew's butler, removed to the hospital in a paralyzed condition, had slipped a police cordon and melted into the blue!

Manx had been missed at four this morning. According to the ward sister he had not uttered a coherent sound since he was admitted, altho signs of partial recovery had been noticed. A description had been promptly circulated, and in view of his physical state and the fact that he had gone forth in pajamas and dressing gown his speedy arrest was a foregone conclusion.

"Suspect in poisoning case . . ."

I was out of the room, touring every corner of the apartment—locking doors, spinning panicked in all directions. The man wasn't human! He was a demon, a poltergeist . . .

Had Cousin Lou hung on to him all these years, taking his cheek, simply because in some way he had cowed her into submission?

It took nerve to enter his room. I did it in fear and trembling of what I might find. A brief glance sufficed. Comb and brush had disappeared, a suitcase examined by the inspector was gone, while the wardrobe I myself had seen locked at the crack of dawn while Horace and I were still asleep—Manx had come in, taken what he wanted, and cleared out.

I flew to the dumb-waiter. Its scrubbed interior told me nothing.

I couldn't stand it. Once more I had to get out of this place. Any telephoning I wanted to do could be done from a call box; but as it turned out there was no need to inform the police of what had happened. In the court below I came face to face with a uniformed sergeant, pacing a patrol. He looked at my white cheecks and took the words out of my mouth.

"Yes, Mademoiselle, we know."

"Does Monsieur Rentrew know?" I stammered.

"Certainly, Mademoiselle. He was here during the inspector's visit one hour ago. Calm yourself, Mademoiselle! The man cannot escape."

O, couldn't he? It was the very thing Manx had done. He'd skinned out with all the magical ease of Arsene Lupin—a character I never had believed in. Right now he was probably lying low in some hidey-hole previously prepared. I asked the sergeant if the stroke had been simply sham.

No paralysis! I must do yet another reshuffle.

As I saw it, this event put the final nail in the Borosh myth coffin. O, I quite believed Louis Borosh had known something! Only it wasn't the identity of Cousin Lou's murderer. He'd tried to bluff Horace into forking up cash—and in the same way, with all his palaver about stolen drugs, he'd wanted to work a similar game on his sister and her erstwhile lover.

After all, Horace and I hadn't actually heard the police surgeon say the stuff in Hortense's bottle was the obscure Viennese compound. Finding those Benz-Vite tablets shifted everything round.

It made me sick thru and thru to think who could have spied on Cousin Lou over in London and later on, at the critical moment, dropped Benz-Vite into her soup. Still, I felt altogether easy about going along to Estrella. That 24 hours had elapsed since the Benz-Vite bottle was discovered and Estrella remained unmolested spoke for itself.

On the shabby stairway I paused, looking behind. If any one had followed me there had been nothing to suggest it. All I heard now was the chirp of birds coming from some sequestered garden in the rear of the buildings—a tranquil sound, reminding me that Paris, so cosmopolitan, was in some ways just an overgrown country town.

November—Those in a 5 year this year may find the coming month keyed down too much for their liking. They should have had plenty of excitement lately and made some changes, but now they should be content to take time out for reënforcements—spiritual ones. This is a good moment to ask yourself, "How am I doing?" If you have been taking everything for granted, this period might pull you up with a jerk and make you look back. Don't worry, but at the same time don't push aside the serious questions and issues. Perfect your goal and your method of approaching it.

Good Morning!

"God sure works in a mysterious way!"

Said Sergt. York.

This picture is built around the real life heroic exploit of a real man—Alvin C. York, a Tennessee farmer, who didn't believe in killing, but, in 1918, single handed, killed five and captured 132 German soldiers, and was told by Marshal Foch, as the latter handed him the Medaille Militaire:

"What you did is the greatest deed accomplished by any allied soldier!"

Well—

The war is over and there he is back in Tennessee, a hero for killing—and he a conscientious objector; in possession, FOR that killing, and because of his country's gratitude for same, of house and "bottomland" he had never thought could be his. . . . The Good Book commanded—"Thou shalt not kill!" But, York had also read in the same volume the words: "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's. . . ." This last injunction, together with a lot of other things he conned in a United States history, he had mulled over long and earnestly and prayerfully on a mountain top, with only his houn' dog for company; had wrestled with the question "To go—or not to go to war?"

And had gone to war. . . . AND had "killed to prevent killing." . . . Do you perhaps recognize a bit of interventionist propaganda here?

This picture, this very long, long, picture, is by no means JUST a war movie. . . . Over half of it is devoted to Alvin C. York at home in the mountains of Tennessee before war had been declared. . . . You see him sober, drunk, courting, fighting, target shooting, getting religion, and deferring to his silent, long suffering, wise mountain mother who has—to quote somebody—"drunk from the cup of bitterness till her lips have ceased to shrink. . . ."

Alvin hadn't always been against killing, but one night when on his way to exterminate a certain human varmint a bolt of lightning strikes his gun from his hand. . . . That's good enough for Alvin. . . . He heads for church where meetin' is under way and joins with his mother, the parson, "Miss Gracie," his girl, and other Christian people in fervently singing:

"'The Old Time Religion' is good enough for me."

After which he makes the rounds making amends instead of corpses—discovering to his surprise that a friend is better than an enemy and a soft answer indeed doth often turn away wrath. . . . Then—

Comes the call for recruits. . . . And, pretty soon York is over on the battlefields showing the Boches how handy good old Yankee wit and target shooting practice can be in an emergency. . . . Then back to New York where a modest man refuses to be spoiled by adulation or to recommend breakfast foods for a price and only asks to be allowed a ride in the subway. . . .

The film ends back in Tennessee—and with York's reverent remark re the mysteriousness of God.

The first part of the production is the most satisfying. . . . The war stuff excepting the illustrious machine gun nest capture is much like that you've seen in other war movies. . . . THAT episode is one for the books!

Gary Cooper's portrayal of Sergt. York is, without doubt one of his very finest characterizations. He knew JUST what to do about a slow speaking, quick thinking, loving, fighting, down to the ground HUMAN Tennesseean. The audience adored the long, lank chap with his devastatingly sweet smile and face often so much like his own houn' dog's. . . . They loved Walter Brennan, too, as Pastor Pile. . . . I can't wait till you see and hear him singing "The Old Time Religion!" . . . Joan Leslie is wholesome and charming as "Miss Gracie" and Margaret Wycherly admirable as Mother York. . . . Brilliant cast thruout.

See you tomorrow.

WHY THOUSANDS OF DOCTORS have prescribed this for

BAD COUGHS

Famous Herbal Remedy Brings PROMPT Relief!

For years thousands upon thousands of Doctors' Prescriptions called for Pertussin to relieve coughs—bronchial, croupy, and night coughs due to colds. This is the same effective yet inexpensive Pertussin you can get today from your drugstore.

Pertussin brings quick relief because it's scientifically prepared to work internally. It acts at once to relieve your coughing spell and to increase natural secretions in the respiratory tract in order to soothe dry, irritated membranes. It improves ciliary action and loosens sticky phlegm so that it is more easily raised.

Pertussin is entirely free from opiates, chloroform, and coal tar products. It can be taken freely whenever needed and is safe for both old and young—even small children. All drugstores.

If cough persists—see your Doctor.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 26.—Sunday—Supper at James Edward Grant's. John Gallaudet, John Lee Mahin, and other theater and movie folk there, and we fall to discussing Grant's new melodrama, "Plan M," which is due for Broadway. It's a thriller about spies in London, and some of us agree that the main rôle would be right down Claude Rains' alley—Rains' or Wilfred Lawson's. But Lawson is busy in the war and can't be had. Edgar Selwyn tried to get him over for "The Wookey" and couldn't make it.

Monday—To RKO to watch some Taos Indians do a hoop dance for "Valley of the Sun," and to chat with Lucille Ball, James Craig, and Dean Jagger. High hope is held for this western, for its director is George Marshall of "Daltons" and "Texas" fame. . . . Lunch at Romanoff's with Tom Wood, and the sad fate of poor Prince Mike is touching. The place is playing to turn-away business despite jacked-up prices, and Mike, who never used to have any responsibilities, finds himself the responsibility laden boss of a going business concern. . . . Among the lunchers is pretty Mary Martin, whose baby is due in about 10 days. I ask her how hubby Dick Halliday is and she chirps, "He's home having the baby. It's been a great strain on him, but he'll come out of it all right."

Tuesday—To Paramount, for a look at some sailors rowing a dory ashore from a battleship on the tank set. The gobs include Eddie Bracken and William Holden. Dorothy Lamour, dagnabbit, isn't on the set, but Veronica Lake drops in for a visit, looking so tiny in a big raincoat. . . . O, yes. The rains have commenced. . . . I encounter Roark Bradford, here for a visit, and he says he may do some movie work soon.

Wednesday—It's pants-on-chair, two-fingers-on-typewriter day, but in the evening my lady and I break away for our first visit to Earl Carroll's eat-and-goggle emporium. Funny how you can be in a place so long and miss one of the sights. It's like New Yorkers not going to the Statue of Liberty . . . anyhow, the Carroll show is a Carroll show, and the powder they use on bare skins must run to tons . . . We talk with one of the head men about the sad fate of John Murray Anderson's new place, which recently folded. Two conclusions were reached: At Billy Rose's in New York the show, starring old screen stars, was an affair for sentiment; out here among the new screen stars it's the rattling of skeletons. And Anderson had two separate shows per night, whereas Hollywood is not a "turnover" town. You just can't get two audiences in one evening here because people only go one place at a time.

Thursday—To 20th-Fox, to ask Samuel Spiegel about Boris Morros and his production of "Tales of Manhattan." Spiegel, a man with considerable culture and a pale, sensitive face, has been considering changing his name to S. P. Eagle. One chap, having heard of this, called Morros to ask if this were true and Boris said it was. "How," came the query, "is he going to spell it?" Said Morros: "S. P. E-A-G-L-E as in iggle." . . . On Claudette Colbert's "Remember the Day" set for a moment, and Miss C. says that on account of delays in the picture she won't be able to make a planned for jaunt to Sun Valley.

Friday—To Metro, for visits with Victor Fleming and Jack Conway and to see what's what. . . . Remember my recent comment that there are few second generation Hollywoodians of the female sex? Well, now there's another. June Millard, daughter of June Caprice, makes her screen debut Monday in Norma Shearer's "We Were Dancing." . . . Alexander Hall, ace Columbia director who made "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," will do a film for MGM. . . . On the set of "Mr. and Mrs. North" it's like old home week to a Broadwayite. . . . Legitimate theater folk on hand include Director Bob Sinclair, William Post Jr., Millard Mitchell, and Boyd Crawford.

Saturday—Desk work. Here's the lineup on the remake of "Rio Rita": John Carroll and Kathryn Grayson in the John Bowles-Bebe Daniels parts; Abbott and Costello batting for Wheeler and Woolsey.

Veloz-Yolanda and Ballet to Give 4 Shows

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Col. Wasily de Basil's Ballet Russe will return to the Civic Opera house for four performances this week and will divide each bill with the renowned dance team of Veloz and Yolanda and their company. This was announced last Saturday at the close of an engagement notable for the number of capacity audiences it drew.

Next Thursday night the ballet will present "Les Sylphides" and "Aurora's Wedding." Veloz and Yolanda, and the guitarist, Vicente Gomez, will appear in a program of their own either between the ballets or at the end of the evening.

Friday the ballet promises "Francesca da Rimini" and "Blue Danube"; Saturday afternoon "Aurora's Wedding" and "Graduation Ball", and Saturday night "Les Presages" and "Graduation Ball." The Veloz and Yolanda program will be the same at all four performances. Tickets already sold for any Veloz and Yolanda performance will be honored for the double bill.

The company waited until last Saturday to put on its first 1941 performances here of the Fokine-Schumann "Carnaval" and the Massine-Brahms "Choreartium."

The former was like a smile in its good humor and spontaneity. Against the bright settings and in the gay costumes designed by Leon Bakst, the goings-on of Harlequin and Columbine, Pierrot and Papillon were merrily reënacted by a cast that included Tatiana Riabouchinska, Anna Volkova, and Leon Danielian.

Even repeated experiences with "Choreartium" do not convince one that Massine has succeeded completely in his Herculean task of translating so unpictorial a musical work as the Brahms Fourth symphony into terms of motion and posture. The truth probably is that the content of the symphony cannot be expressed in any terms but those of music.

But "Choreartium" remains a great show, if not a particularly unified or convincing one. In Saturday's performance the leading parts were taken by Nana Gollner, David Lichine, and Tamara Grigorieva.

Green lima beans are among the vegetables which usually don't taste good warmed over. Leftover limas are best used in salads, or may be scalloped in cream sauce with other vegetables.

Freshly cooked limas are a delicacy. Served with salt, pepper, and butter or cream, they are as good as lima beans can be, unless you cast your vote for one of these variations, which are tasty.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SERVING LIMA BEANS.

1. Cook 2 cups lima beans in salted water, drain, and add a creamed mixture of 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, and 1 teaspoon minced parsley. Shake pan gently to mix, and serve hot.

2. Add a small amount of chopped green pepper and chopped pimiento to creamed or buttered lima beans before serving.

3. Season with a little onion juice, minced onion, or chopped chives, in addition to butter or cream, salt and pepper.

4. Put hot boiled limas into a serving dish and pour over them a medium white sauce seasoned with 2 tablespoons catsup and 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese to the cup of sauce.

5. Leftover beans are good this way: Put them into a casserole with tomato sauce and sliced boiled onions, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake until brown.

Frozen lima beans are a joy. There they are in the package, all the same size, all tender and delightfully fresh. All you need to do is drop the frozen block of them into a little boiling, salted water, and cook until tender.

Fresh limas are a nuisance to shell and, when bought ready shelled, must be very fresh, for they wither upon standing without their green pods as protection.

Canned green limas, altho they do not have the flavor of the fresh or frozen ones, are fine for salads and casserole dishes. They're good in succotash [lima beans and corn], too, as are the fresh and frozen vegetables.

Luncheon for Dr. De Lee to Be at Congress Hotel

The Mothers' Service club luncheon observing the 72d birthday of Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, obstetrician, will be held at noon today in the Congress hotel, not in the Stevens hotel, as was stated incorrectly in the homemakers' section of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Fashionable Middy Dress

MISS' MIDDY STYLE DRESS.

Slim young things are enthusiastic this autumn season over the middy dress, with its brief and snapping skirt and its long, overdraped blouse, in lines exactly like the middies we wore to school, remember? Crêpe, jersey, lightweight woolen, and velvet are suitable fabrics.

Style No. 3249 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for skirt; 1½ yards of 39 inch fabric for short sleeved blouse; 1¾ yards for ¾ length sleeve blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly. The fall and winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

Mary Meade to Pay Cash for Recipes

If you like to cook, then you must have collected quite a number of good recipes. Perhaps, among them, is one which is a special favorite with you. Maybe it's worth $5.

Send it to the Mary Meade Recipe Contest in care of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, just to see. Beginning next Monday there'll be a daily $5 award for a good "favorite" recipe, and yours may be just the kind to win a prize.

It doesn't have to be a fancy recipe. It may be very simple. For example, it may be an economical oven dish which your family likes.

Some of the kinds of recipes we'll be interested in are these: A recipe which has been used for many years in your family; one which your friends like you to use when they come for supper; an economical dish which is particularly good.

It may be a recipe for a bread, cake, or pie, for cookies, meat, fish or fowl, vegetables, a sauce, soup, pudding, salad, or salad dressing.

There are only a few rules to be observed:

1. Type or write the recipe legibly, in standard recipe form.

2. Put your name and address on each sheet of paper you use, and send in only one recipe at a time. You may send one recipe, or more than one, a week, but only one for each day's contest.

3. Level measurements must be used in the recipes. No "heaping tablespoons" or "scant cups" will be acceptable.

4. Give approximate number of servings. In the case of a pie or cake, mention the size of the pan. For cookies, suggest the approximate number which the recipe will make.

5. State directions clearly and, when necessary, give oven temperatures, and approximate time for baking.

No recipes will be returned. Men cooks, as well as women, are eligible. Employés of THE TRIBUNE and their families are barred, but otherwise there are no restrictions regarding who may submit favorite recipes.

Colorful Lapel Flowers

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Gay, wooly flowers for the lapel are either large, single blooms, or groups of odd numbered little blossoms. This luscious yellow chrysanthemum is a half hour crochet job, and the pompons require about 15 minutes apiece. There is no more attractive gift than either, or both, of these flowers, and they provide an excellent means of earning pin money, since one ounce of wool will make three chrysanthemums and half a dozen pompons.

For instructions in crocheting the chrysanthemums and pompons, No. 356, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

3,000 Pay Tribute to Leader of Metropolitan Church Chorus

Three thousand persons were seated and hundreds stood around the lower and gallery floors of the Metropolitan Community church, located at 41st street and South Park way, last night to pay tribute to the 21st annual fall concert of the church choir, under the leadership of J. Wesley Jones. This noted Negro musician directs 1,000 singers each summer at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual Chicagoland Festival in Soldiers' field. Famous leaders, both while and colored, were in the audience last night. Among them were Dr. Arthur Compton, Nobel prize winning physicist, of the University of Chicago, and John T. McCutcheon, dean of TRIBUNE cartoonists.

Maurice Cooper, tenor, sang "Every Valley" from "The Messiah," Foster's "I Dream of Jeanie," and "I Hear You Calling Me." Cooper has a velvety quality of tone and his diction is excellent.

Among the choral numbers best received by the audience were "In the Hollow of His Hand," a traditional song, and "Shout the Glad Tidings," by Wagner. Dr. Joseph M. Evans, pastor, spoke on the "Technique of Giving."

It's Natural for a Child to Fear Masks

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON REVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

"It is surprising to me," said my friend, "how few mothers realize how frightening Halloween antics are for a great many little children. I remember when Nancy was 4 and my sister, who adored her, was visiting me. There were no children near by, so we thought that we would fix up a little Halloween frolic for Nancy just among ourselves. I bought a big pumpkin and Bill made it into a wonderful jack-o'-lantern. In addition we obtained other little jack-o'-lanterns and a false face that we thought was just plain funny for one of us to wear. This was to be in reserve, not to be sprung upon Nancy.

"As dusk came on we drew down the shades and led Nancy into the living room where, in the center of the mantelpiece, stood the great jack-o'-lantern lighted and all the other little ones tucked around the room in corners winking, as we thought, merrily.

"I was the one who had Nancy by the hand and as we got into the center of the room I suddenly felt her begin to tremble. The next thing I knew she was crying, with her eyes completely buried in my skirt and her arms clutching me around the knees.

"Of course we immediately turned on the lights and blew out all the candles and tried to get her to feel comfortable with our decorations. The false faces we wisely left until the next day. But even in bright daylight, and actually seeing me hold it up before my face, she was frightened."

Your child may not be like this child. One never does know just how different children are going to react to the same thing. However, it is very wise to bear in mind, in connection with Halloween, that many children are terrified by the grotesque, in whatever form it may appear, so it is well to be very tentative in introducing masks and jack-o'-lanterns, especially in the dark, to young children.

Sister in Love with a Trifler, She Is Worried

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Rose's sister, 25, is to be married around Christmas time. Her trousseau is ready, some of the furnishings for her new home have been purchased, and the sister has been madly in love with the man for three years.

Rose thinks her sister is one of the most beautiful and grandest girls who ever existed. She has everything, brains, beauty, and the disposition of an angel, but Rose thinks her beloved sister is not doing right by herself in marrying this particular man.

"I know he is a trifler," Rose confides. "He has even made advances toward me, the sister of the girl he is going to marry! I have seen him out with other girls, too, altho professing his undying love for my sister. I didn't tell her what I knew about her man. I didn't tell of my own experience with him. She is so mad about him, it wouldn't make any difference anyway. Should I tell her what I know?"

Nothing, we'd say, could or should be done if sister's mind is made up that the man is the one and only for her. It may be the truth, you know, Rose. She may be aware of his faults, but love often takes no recognition of human weaknesses. Whether you believe it or not, your sister may be the one true love in the man's life, even tho he trifles. Certain men are that way.

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Question I.: Rubber bridge, both sides vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	?

You are South and hold:
♠ K J 5 4 2 ♥ A Q 10 9 7 ♦ 6 3 ♣ 5

What call do you make?

Answer: Three spades. This hand, opposite an opening no trump, must produce game, and there is a chance for a slam. You should show your major suits in normal order, first jumping in spades, then if partner answers with three no trump, bidding four hearts. A mere two spade bid is not nearly strong enough, nor is there any point in first taking out to hearts because of the superiority of the heart spots. [Fifteen points demerit for two spades or three hearts; 20 points demerit for two hearts; 25 points demerit for two or three no trump; 35 points demerit for any other call.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 11: You are west, declarer at a six spade contract. Opponents made no bids. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

Declarer. [West.]	Dummy. [East.]
♠ A K Q J 10 9	♠ 7 5 4 3 2
♥ 7 4 2	♥ A Q 10
♦ 6	♦ A 5
♣ A K Q	♣ 8 4 3

North leads diamond king. Presumably, you win with dummy's ace. What is your play at the second trick, and why? [Twenty word explanation will suffice.]

TODAY'S HAND.

NORTH
♥ 7 3
♦ A Q 10 8 7
♣ J 10 3 2

WEST	EAST
♠ K 8 5 2	♠ 10 6 4 3
♥ J 10 8 6 3	♥ K 9 5
♦ 5 4	♦ K 2
♣ Q 6	♣ K 9 8 4

SOUTH
♥ A Q 4
♦ J 9 6 3
♣ A 7 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the heart jack, East played the king, and declarer ducked. Hearts were continued, and declarer, in with the ace, considered his best plan of play. He could count four diamond tricks, even if the king was offside. These, with two hearts and one club, totaled seven. Obviously two spade tricks would complete the quota. Considering that two spades were in plain sight, it looked like clear sailing. But declarer had forgotten that vital matter, tempo! He led the diamond jack and finessed. East won and returned his third heart, clearing West's suit. After the diamonds were run, the spade finesse was tried, but this, too, lost, and West gobbled up his 10 and eight of hearts, for the setting trick.

Declarer had overlooked the vital point. He should have seen that if West held a five card heart suit, and both the diamond and spade finessees were "wrong," it would be vital to knock out West's entry first. The diamond king, if held by West, could not be an entry; the spade king could be. Thus, South should have ignored the so-called natural and persuasive immediate diamond play in order to lead a spade away from the A-J toward the queen. Only after assuring himself of two spade tricks should he have gone about clearing the diamond suit. Obviously, this correct plan would have resulted in a fulfilled contract.

Smith College Alumnae to Plan Theater Benefit

The benefit committee of the Chicago Smith college club will hold its second meeting today at the College club to discuss further plans for a performance of "Hay Fever." The play will be given on Nov. 25 at the Goodman theater. Proceeds will go toward sending Chicago girls to Smith college. One of the club's scholarship winners, Miss Marcia Williams of Hinsdale, is now president of the junior class at Smith.

CHICAGO NEGRO CLAIMS SHARE IN SEVEN MILLIONS

Asserts He's Widower of Rich Indian Woman.

A Chicago Negro yesterday asserted he was the husband and a rightful heir of Lete Kolvin, Creek Indian whose estate of $7,413,286 in cash plus oil producing properties was awarded by an Oklahoma court Friday to her half sister and two nephews of her supposed husband, now dead.

Mitchell Knighten.

The claimant is Mitchell Knighten, 54 years old, a quiet spoken man proud of the fact that he owns his home at 4232 Calumet avenue. He has been a roofing contractor here for 15 years.

"I just didn't ever have the money to get my rights," Knighten said. "In 1930 I raised $100 and went to Oklahoma and gave it to a lawyer, but he told me to go home and wait. Nothing happened. Last year I got another lawyer in Tulsa, Okla.

Advised to Await Decision.

He displayed a letter he received last year from the second attorney, stating that it was too late to intervene in the 20-year-old case then on trial, and advising him to await a decision before going into court.

Knighten told his new representatives, Attorney George C. Adams and Investigator Sheridan Bruseaux, that he can lay his hands on documentary evidence of his marriage, of his wife's previous divorce from an Indian, and of a grazing lease to prove it was her land which has been producing oil since 1915.

"In 1912 I went to Louisiana, where my brother had his death sickness. I got letters from her and in 1915 she wrote me to come home because she had oil land and a lot of money."

An Indian who was friendly with Lete killed her with Knighten's own shotgun upon hearing of the husband's return, the claimant said. He said that the killer was convicted and sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary at McAlester by a court at Okmulgee in 1917.

Has 20 Witnesses, He Says.

"I was at the trial," Knighten said. "This Indian was paroled in 1924, but is in again for another killing. He is only one of the 20 witnesses I could find who knew that I was Lete's husband."

District Judge C. O. Beavers held that one-half of the estate should go to Lete's half sister, Mrs. Ozora Alexander Lee, and one-fourth each to two nephews of Lete's supposed husband, Joe Stevens, a Negro.

"I never heard of Joe Stevens," Knighten said bitterly. "I sure was Lete's husband, as legal as anything can be."

BARTENDER UNION DEMANDS CUT IN RECEIVER COSTS

Hits $33,907 Allowances in Appellate Court.

Circuit Judge Robert J. Dunne is accused, in a brief filed with the Appellate court, of many errors in allowing $33,907 in payments from the Bartenders' union treasury to persons connected with the six months receivership he imposed upon the union, it was disclosed yesterday.

The appeal seeks reversal of Judge Dunne's orders and either return of the $33,907 to the union or a new hearing on the matter of fees. It was filed on behalf of the union by Attorney Harold L. Levy.

As receiver, Roy D. Keehn received $18,400. Judge Dunne also allowed $10,000 to the attorney for the receiver, Charles F. McGuire; $2,500 to A. C. Lewis, attorney for union officers who sought an accounting; $2,500 to Raymond F. Hayes, attorney for union members who intervened in the suit, and $507 to a court stenographer.

$36,000 a Year to Receiver.

"The receiver here was allowed $18,400 for six months, or, on an annual basis, more than $36,000 per year," the appeal states. "This is compensation greater than that provided by statute for any judge or other officer of any state or of the United States, excepting alone the President."

In similar vein Attorney Levy assailed the fees allowed to Attorney McGuire.

The brief asserted that Keehn's disbursements as receiver were $99,790 and that compensation on the basis approved by the Supreme court would have been 10 per cent, or about half the amount approved by Judge Dunne. Another contention was that Keehn had been allowed compensation as receiver during a period of four months after his appointment as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and that the law forbids that official to hold any other position of profit.

Nitti Domination Charged.

Judge Dunne ordered the receivership after charges that Louis Romano, then union president, and other officials were the tools of Frank Nitti, No. 2 man at present in the criminal syndicate which operates gambling. The court supervised an election which resulted in the choice of James Crowley as union president.

300 COLORED MEN AND WOMEN TOLD TO TRAIN FOR JOB

More than 300 colored men and women were told yesterday by Paul F. Mertz, district representative of Training with Industry, Office of Production Management, that to take their place in industry they must first take advantage of training such as offered by the board of education's vocational and technical schools and at the WPA training centers.

Mertz spoke at a meeting sponsored by the industrial committees of the Chicago Urban league and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

INSANE PATIENT STRANGLED.

But Gophers Loom as Stumbling Block.

Injuries Hit Rivals

MINNESOTA and Northwestern begin drills today for their Big Nine championship game Saturday in Minneapolis handicapped by injuries to key men. Capt. Bruce Smith of the Gophers has a twisted leg. Herman Frickey, who scored the touchdown that whipped Michigan, has a damaged knee. Helge Pukema, veteran guard, is under observation in an Ann Arbor hospital because of a kidney injury received when he tackled Tom Kuzma.

Tony Samarzia, Northwestern's sophomore tackle, injured his leg severely in the game at Ohio State. All except Pukema are expected to be ready to play Saturday.

Northwestern officials announced yesterday that their block of tickets for the game has been exhausted. Minnesota previously had announced a sellout.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

By their victory over Ohio State, and particularly by completely dominating the second half of the game, Northwestern's Wildcats deserve their opportunity this Saturday to go into the lead in the Western conference football race. There can be no question, however, that Minnesota's undefeated defending champions will be a unanimous favorite over the Wildcats for their battle in Minneapolis.

Minnesota must win in order to retain its title hopes, since the Gophers play only five conference games. So does Michigan. Northwestern, with a six game schedule, can win the title by whipping Minnesota and by subsequent victories over Indiana and Illinois.

Northwestern's improvement, as evidenced at Ohio State, was a combination of a better pass defense and an aroused spirit that permitted no leisurely play in the early minutes. The Buckeyes could not score by passing—Michigan's passes beat Northwestern a week ago—but they did complete a thirty yard pass in their sixty-four yard drive that tied the score in the second period.

Steady Improvement.

The Wildcat line, in general, has steadily improved and, in particular, so has the performance of Tony Samarzia, sophomore right tackle. Defensively, the Northwestern linemen will match any group in the conference. On attack, however, they have not reached their peak. On that falls the principal blame for the many wasted scoring opportunities.

Northwestern made its first touchdown on its third scoring opportunity. In the second half, after going into the lead, 14 to 7, Northwestern failed on three excellent chances, once losing the ball on downs after getting within a foot of the Buckeye goal.

Minnesota's defense will not permit this number of scoring opportunities. Failure to capitalize on the first chance in Minneapolis may defeat the Wildcats this week.

N. U. Always a Threat.

Northwestern, however, is a threat from any part of the field. Otto Graham and Bill De Correvont certainly match Minnesota's Bruce Smith and Bob Higgins, or Herman Frickey, in passing and running. Graham swept around Ohio State's right end in the first period [against a defensively weak player [Charley Anderson] for gains of ten and fourteen yards, respectively. His return of kicks was splendid.

De Correvont had five runs at Ohio that totaled one hundred and three yards. From a kick formation on second down on Northwestern's 17 yard line, he ran thirty-nine yards around the Buckeye right end in the second period. Later he ran fourteen yards. In the third quarter he ran eleven yards after faking a pass, and in the final period, Bill led the last Wildcat assault with consecutive runs of nineteen and twenty yards.

Graham sparked Northwestern's passing attack. He completed seven in 12 attempts. Four of them were caught by Dick Erdlitz. Two of Graham's passes, to Clarence Hasse and Bob Motl, scored touchdowns. Northwestern's passing record against Ohio State follows:

	*Att.	Com.	Yds.	Int.	Inc.
Graham	12	7	113	3	2
De Correvont	5	0	0	1	4
Chambers	1	0	0	0	1

Another pass by Graham in the second period was caught by Hal Colberg at the goal line, but the field judge, Perry Graves, ruled that Colberg had interfered with Fisher, the defending back, as he grabbed the ball when it bounded in the air after both had tried to get it. The ball was returned to the point where it had been put in play—Ohio's 31 yard line—and Northwestern was penalized fifteen yards and the loss of the down. Since it was a third down pass, the next play was fourth and

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Art Jones, Pittsburgh Steeler back, gains five yards and comes to a halt against determined resistance by the Bears' George McAfee in first quarter of yesterday's game in Wrigley field. The Bears rolled on to their fifth straight National league victory, 34 to 7, altho the Steelers furnished stronger opposition than the score would indicate. The Chicagoans raised their point total for five league games to 209.

200 SEE PLUNGE BEAT WILMAN IN BOWLING PREVIEW

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The more hardy of Chicago's bowling fans, those who will turn out—of all times—at 11 o'clock on a Sunday morning, yesterday were given a preview of the All-Star eliminations and match game championship tournament to be held Dec. 7 thru 14 in the Coliseum.

But whereas they will see 60 of the nation's best bowlers in action plus the 40 game block for the individual match game championship in the Coliseum, they saw just the start of the training program for two of the entrants in yesterday's match at the Dearborn-Jackson recreation center.

200 Watch Match.

More than 200, all who could crowd behind the two alleys in play and behind three or four lanes on either side, saw Adam Plunge, a star of the Walter C. Eden Insurance team, defeat Joe Wilman, captain of the Budweisers, 24.18 to 22.08, using the Petersen system as the scoring basis. Plunge rolled 1,068 pins in the five games to Wilman's 1,008. Plunge won the first two games, Wilman the third and fourth, and Plunge the fifth.

The men fired under the same conditions that will prevail in the Coliseum in the show to be sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America. They bowled on newly polished alleys against new 3 pound 6 ounce pins.

Plunge Wins First.

Plunge won the first game, 245 to 212, opening with four strikes, then sparing, adding three strikes, sparing twice, and getting a full count on his last ball. Under the Petersen system, which gives 1 point for every 50 pins and 1 for a game won, he earned 5.45 points to Wilman's 4.12. The total of pins being cumulative in determining the point scoring for pins knocked down, a 232 second game and victory ran Plunge's total to 11.27 points.

Wilman rolled 193 and moved his point total to 8.05. Wilman won the third game, 216 to 173, to reduce Plunge's point margin to 15 to 13.21. A 203 to 193 victory in the fourth game gave Wilman 18.24 points to Plunge's 18.43.

Split Blasts Hopes.

Plunge then came back to spill 225 pins to Wilman's 184 in the final game. Wilman drew an 8-10 split in the eighth frame to eliminate himself.

Wilman's scores have been posted at Dearborn-Jackson and will remain there for a week. Any entrant in the tournament who wishes to do so may shoot against them during this week. Next Sunday Wilman is to bowl Charlie Daw of Milwaukee, former match game champion, under the same conditions, and his scores then again will be posted for a week. On Nov. 9 Wilman meets Sykes Thoma.

Cards' Rally Falls Short by 5 Yards; Eagles Win, 21-14

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26 [Special].—A great last half comeback by the Chicago Cardinals fell five yards shy of the tying touchdown this afternoon and the Philadelphia Eagles won their second National Football league game, 21 to 14.

A crowd of 12,683 watched Johnny Clement, Cardinal rookie from Southern Methodist university, pitch Chicago back into the ball game from a 21 to 0 deficit late in the third quarter. After Frank Balazs recovered Wes McAfee's fumble on the Eagles' 39, Clement lost twelve yards on a sweep, but he made up for it by passing twenty-one yards to Lou Zontini.

Balazs hit center for first down on the 25, then caught a pass on the 20. Clement threw again, a fast one down the middle, which Bill Dewell caught in the end zone. Zontini kicked the extra point.

Fourth Down Pass Fails.

The Cards marched seventy-two yards for their second touchdown as the fourth quarter opened. Three Clement passes to Frank Ivy moved the Cards to the Eagles' 24. Clement squirmed thru right tackle to the 9, then plunged six more yards to the 3. Marshall Goldberg took over and scored on two smashes at center. Bill Daddio added the 14th point.

With five minutes remaining, the Cards drove fifty-five yards to the Eagles' 9, where a fourth down Clement pass intended for Goldberg was grounded in the end zone. Len Barnum then punted the Cards back to midfield and Clement's final pass was intercepted by Norman Feibish as the game ended.

Three Card Drives Stall.

Until Clement found the range the game belonged exclusively to Philadelphia. The Eagles turned back three Chicago threats which reached the 13, 17, and 21 yard lines in the first half. While this was going on the Eagles put over two touchdowns of their own.

Jim Castiglia, just up from Georgetown university, scored at the beginning of the second quarter on a four yard plunge which terminated a forty-three yard drive. Four minutes later the Eagles had touchdown No. 2. Tommy Thompson threw five passes during the fifty-seven yard advance, the last one to Wes McAfee being good for twelve yards and the touchdown.

Lyle Graham grabbed a Cardinal pass and ran twenty-two yards to the Chicago 20 as the second half got under way. Thompson's two passes to Dick Humbert put the ball on the three yard line. Castiglia then ran right end for the touchdown.

PACKERS DEFEAT LIONS AS HUTSON BREAKS RECORD

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26 (AP).—The Green Bay Packers achieved their sixth National Football league victory today by turning the Detroit Lions' mistakes into touchdowns while winning, 24 to 7, before 30,269 spectators.

Don Hutson caught two passes for touchdowns, the 50th and 51st of his seven year career, to break the National league record of 50 touchdowns established by Vern Lewellen of Green Bay from 1924 to 1932.

Three fumbles by Byron [Whizzer] White and a blocked punt set up Green Bay's scoring which consisted of three touchdown passes by Cecil Isbell and a field goal by Clark Hinkle. Isbell now has thrown nine touchdown passes this season, connecting at least once in every game.

Score on Punt Return.

The Packers jumped in front midway in the first period. Andy Uram recovered White's fumble on the Detroit 24 and three plays brought it to the 12. Isbell and Hutson entered the game and clicked on a pass for a touchdown.

Another Pass, Another Score.

Early in the second period Hinkle booted a field goal for Green Bay from Detroit's 25. Later in the period Isbell again connected by air, shooting a pass to Carl Mulleneaux for the score.

EUGENE [SCRAP IRON] YOUNG, Notre Dame trainer, has been party to a victorious Irish homecoming or two, but ranks as all time tops the arrival of the team in Chicago's La Salle Street station after its 1930 victory over Southern California, Rockne's last game for Notre Dame. . . . While in a playful mood during last spring's training junket, Tom Turner, White Sox catcher, presented a visiting soldier boy with a catcher's glove. . . . Imagine the surprise of Jim Wilson, Cub manager, when he learned it was his glove Turner had so generously given away. . . . Jack Blackburne will leave today for a two weeks' vacation in Mexico, his first since he became Joe Louis' trainer shortly after the heavyweight champion won the Chicago Golden Gloves title in 1934. . . . The Purdue and Notre Dame football squads will live together at the Westchester-Biltmore Country club in Rye, N. Y., this week-end. . . . The Boilermakers will be preparing to even the series with Fordham, which stands at three victories for the Rams, two for Purdue, and one tie. . . . The Irish will hold their final workout at Rye before engaging the Army at Yankee stadium. . . . Dr. Max Rose, Champaign, Ill., dentist, is the most enthusiastic Michigan alumnus in his home town. . . . Despite constant ribbing by Illini supporters, the doctor has carried his loyalty to the point of decorating one room in his home with Wolverine colors, the monogram "M" occupying one entire wall. . . . Add football's descriptive names: Ripmaster of Michigan State and Lively, a San Francisco prep player. . . . George Varoff, once king of pole vaulters, is still flying high. . . . He's in the army air corps at Randolph field. . . . Yesterday's game between the Bears and Steelers was the best officiated contest this department has seen this season. . . .

There's an outside chance that Charley Root, recently released by the Cubs, may blossom out as manager of the Los Angeles club. . . . Wisconsin fans still think the Green Bay Packers are a great ball club, but in Milwaukee they're asking 9 points against the Bears in Sunday's game at Wrigley field. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons has taken a 21 year lease on a bowling establishment in Brooklyn. . . . Mexico City is making a serious effort to get a major league team to train there next spring. . . . Add facial resemblances: Jimmy Conzelman, Chicago Cardinals' coach, and Bill Knight of Rockford, Western conference official.

Milkweed bursting thru,
Gossamer in the air
And sky a brilliant blue.

Pumpkins rat and gold
And warming in the sun
Look most half asleep.

With heads up in the air
Turkeys strut around,
Unaware that soon
Will end that blatant sound.

In vivid colors rare;
Poplars almost bare.

A brilliant panorama
Of loveliness to see;
Autumn's retinue is
On a jubilee.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Two minutes to play. . . . First down for the Bears on the Pittsburgh Steelers' 5 yard line. . . . Four plays later the National Football league champions hurled back seven yards.

It was that kind of a game, but despite a resistance which at times was desperate, the Steelers went the way of all the other teams yesterday in Wrigley field. The final score of 34 to 7 will fool many when they thumb thru the record books a few years hence. That score should carry an asterisk, and a subsequent note that figures do lie in this instance.

The Bears had to fight and use all their guile for every yard of progress. They had to hustle their ace quarter back, Sid Luckman, back into the battle when the attack bogged down in the second quarter with the score still 7 to 0. This maneuver led to a touchdown in three plays, the third one being by George [One Play] McAfee.

Gets Away Only Once.

It was a thirty-three yard sprint, including all the fancy stuff the golden boy from Duke throws in with each touchdown. McAfee ran thru the Steelers' right tackle, picking up momentum as he passed the line of scrimmage. He dodged, sidestepped, and somehow managed to spin away from two Steelers who fervently tried to cut him down. There were other occasions when the One Play Kid picked up steam and brought an electric thrill to a crowd held to 17,217 by rain, but this was the only time he got away.

The five touchdowns, spaced equally by quarters except in the second when the Bears made two, one of them on as daffy a play as will be seen all season, were divided among five Bears. Bill Osmanski made the first one, followed by six point performances from McAfee, Ken Kavanaugh, Hampton Pool, and Hugh Gallarneau. Three others, Bob Snyder, Lee Artoe, and Joe Maniaci picked up points after touchdowns.

Average 42 Points Per Game.

Since the New York Giants were stopped by Brooklyn yesterday after five straight victories the Bears became the only undefeated team in the league. Green Bay's victory in Detroit over the Lions makes it imperative, tho, for the Bears to win or at least get a tie next Sunday against the Packers or relinquish their Western division lead. The Packers have now won six out of seven to the Bears' five straight.

The Bears raised their point total for the five league games to 209 against 52, for an average of 42.

Against the Bears the Steelers came up with the most diversified attack the Bears have faced all season. The easterners slammed thru for gains in reverses, and mixed these up with Henry [Babe] Baranowski, Leo High's midget quarter back, who is being hailed as Chicago's prep player of the year, yesterday found rain and mud more difficult to conquer than heavyweight tacklers in attempting to produce his customary one-man show. However, the 155 pound star showed 7,000 spectators that the weather man also can be whipped as he and his Lion teammates scored a 21 to 0 victory over St. George of Evanston in Shewbridge field.

Scores One Touchdown.

Baranowski scored one of Leo's three touchdowns on a plunge from the 1 foot line in the second period, boosting his total for the season to 11. The victory was placed in Catholic league records as Leo's third, but to the Lions' followers it meant the south section championship, altho they have three games remaining on their schedule against opponents considered by the south siders as good second division elevens.

Fenwick of Oak Park, which is expected to meet the Lions in the league championship game, routed De Paul academy, 1940 north section champion, 39 to 6, for its third consecutive triumph. Angelo Provenzano starred in the suburban eleven's triumph, scoring four touchdowns and three extra points. Two of Provenzano's scores were made on runs of 40 and 50 yards.

St. Mel Triumphs.

Two touchdowns by Ed Saccamano gave St. Mel a 20 to 6 victory over St. Patrick in Key Branch stadium. It was St. Mel's third triumph in four north division games. Saccamano's touchdowns were accomplished on seven yard runs in the first and second quarters. Mt. Carmel suffered its second defeat in the south zone, losing to St. Rita, 20 to 0, in St. Rita field. In another league game De La Salle triumphed over St. Philip, 7 to 0. Lineup:

SMILIN' JACK—"AXING" FOR TROUBLE

Mr. Brodsky Is Wiser, but Not Altogether Sad

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Brad Brodsky, the Philadelphia woolen merchant who recently launched a career on the race tracks as a gentleman sportsman, has come to Chicago and has gone home again after wresting himself clear of the fell clutch of circumstance. The Illinois racing board will continue its inquiry into the Rapid Bone ringer case tomorrow, but Brodsky, who testified on Friday, will not be there to liven up the proceedings.

Brodsky soared to sudden notoriety as the registered owner of Hasty Notion, a horse which won recently at Hawthorne under the name of Rapid Bone. Following Brodsky's testimony at the hearing, some observers remarked that he may have been the victim of three circumstances:

[3] Reliance upon the legal acumen of a trainer who was more adept at bandaging a horse's legs than at fulfilling the technical clerical requirements of the authorities.

Why His Life Is Complicated.

[C] On Aug. 18 the Jockey Club of New York issued a certificate for a horse named Rapid Bone with the identical markings of Hasty Notion.

Those are the kind of things that happen to Brodsky. Apparently out of all the horses in the United States the ringer gang had singled out his —even before buying him.

Then came the matter of the sale of Hasty Notion to William Rafferty of Philadelphia. Here coincidence joined forces with Brodsky's natural desire to realize a quick turnover of his investment at a profit of $4,000. He had claimed the horse for $5,500, and about seven weeks later Rafferty walked into his office, according to Brodsky's testimony, and asked if he'd sell the horse now. Brodsky, who professed to have been irritated by Rafferty's previous offers, decided to get rid of him by naming an exorbitant price. The gist of his statement follows:

"It's $9,500 to you," he said.

Whips Out $9,500 Just Like That.

"Make out a bill of sale," replied Rafferty, whipping out $9,500 just like that and slapping it down on the desk.

The deal was made. Brodsky took the $9,500, and here again coincidence added to his troubles. Most persons who had $9,500 handed to them in spot cash would run for the bank, but Brodsky, being both a big business man and a gentleman sportsman, thought nothing of pitching $9,500 into the cash drawer at his office. As a result no record of the financial end of the transaction was preserved.

Then came the third circumstance which plagued Brodsky—his reliance on his trainer, Harry Baker, to take care of the technical end of the transaction. He told Baker to inform the proper authorities of the sale—but neither the Jockey Club of New York nor the race track authorities were apprised of it. As Baker said at the hearing, "I've been buying and selling horses for 25 years and I've never told no officials about it."

Papers Not Always Up to Date.

To those who move in the stern field of ordinary business endeavor, this all may sound very irregular and suspicious. But to those who spend their daily life in the wonderland of the turf, these circumstances are not remarkable.

A bank roll of $9,500 is not particularly large for a gentleman sportsman to fling about without a trace—and as for failure to register the new ownership of the horse, that also is not unusual.

There are hundreds of horses racing today without up to date papers. A movement has been started in some states to keep a horse and his certificate together, but it is by no means nation-wide. A 2 year old begins his career with credentials, but after he has been claimed five or six times his papers may still be in an old pants pocket of his second or third owner.

Wiser Tho Not Sadder.

Many men handling horses today are survivals of the days when trainers signed their name with an "X." Some of them couldn't read a horse's papers if they had them. This, of course, is sometimes regarded as an unfortunate situation to prevail where so much public money is involved.

After making it clear that he doesn't feel he is to blame for all of these circumstances, Brodsky has gone back home a wiser, tho fortunately not a sadder, man.

N. U. Retains a Chance to Win Big Nine Title

Graves ruled another Northwestern pass illegal in the fourth period. Graham caught Fisher's punt and when he was tackled on the Ohio State 40 yard line he lateraled the ball to George Zorich, who continued more than 10 yards. Graves ruled that the pass was forward and not lateral. Since the team which does not put the ball in play [Ohio State had put it in play by kicking] is not permitted to throw a forward pass, Northwestern was penalized fifteen yards and took possession on its own 45 yard line.

There was one more unusual play in this game. One cost the Wildcats a touchdown. On third down from Ohio's 1 yard line, Graham slashed off the Buckeye right tackle, found the path clogged by his interference and the tackle, and Otto's body rolled over them and into the end zone. It was ruled, however, that when Graham landed, his elbow struck the ground six inches from the goal line. In college football the ball carrier is down when any portion of his body, except hands and feet, touches the ground.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP).—Ace Parker looked like the old Ace Parker today for the first time this year, and as a result the Brooklyn Dodgers downed the New York Giants, 16 to 13, to hand the New Yorkers their first defeat of the National Football league campaign.

Parker, hampered up till now by an ailing leg, passed for one touchdown, pitched and ran thirty-five yards to put the ball in position for an important field goal, and finally dashed sixty yards to set up the winning tally for the entertainment of a highly partisan crowd of 28,675.

Condit Kicks Field Goal.

Merlyn Condit, the ex-Carnegie Tech ball carrier, kicked the Brooklyn field goal and picked up valuable yardage when it counted, and Frank Reagan, the 1940 Penn star, bowed out of football, at least temporarily, with a brilliant display of running and passing for the Giants. He joins the marines tomorrow.

In upsetting the Giants, who were so highly favored local bookmakers were giving 13 points in the pregame betting, the Dodgers turned in their second victory over the New Yorkers in 11 years.

Bears Defeat Steelers, 34-7; Fifth Straight

passes, three of 19 being complete.

After making a false start the first time they got the ball when a pass interception by Dick Riffle stopped them on the Steelers' 19, the Bears made good on their next attempt. They started rolling when Bob Swisher returned a punt to his own 38.

Gallarneau started it with a 20 yard off-tackle run. Osmanski hit Pitt's left side for nine and Gallarneau came back for nine, but the first of eight penalties, which cost the Bears 80 yards in all, set them back five yards to the Steelers' 39. Gallarneau, on another quick opening, shot over guard for nine yards. After three small running gains, Luckman passed to John Siegal on the Steelers' 13. On the next play Osmanski swept wide and deep, faked Art Jones out of his path and ran down the sidelines for the score. Snyder kicked the point.

Bears Are Stopped Twice.

Tricky formations moved the Steelers from their 27 yard line after the kickoff to the Bears' 27 when the first quarter ended. There a passing attack drive failed and the champions took the ball. Twice the Bears' offense was stopped. Then Luckman returned, with the Bears needing two yards on fourth down. He sent Maniaci thru six yards on a plunge to the Steelers' 36. A pass to Siegal netted three yards, and McAfee went into motion for his touchdown. Snyder again kicked the extra point.

Luckman next drove the champions forward from the Steelers' 40 yard line. McAfee raced wide around his own left end for thirteen yards. Siegal took Luckman's pitch on the 17 and ran seven yards, but the Bears drew a fifteen yard penalty for pushing and instead of being ten yards from their objective were back on Pittsburgh's 45.

Kavanaugh Strolls Over.

Then Luckman pitched a long pass. Both Siegal and Alan Donelli grabbed the ball and as they fought for possession, it suddenly squirted into the air. Kavanaugh, on the 5 yard line, caught it and strolled over. Maniaci made it 21 to 0.

The Steelers then showed they weren't downhearted. Riffle took the kickoff, ran thru a pack of Bears on his own 40, and finally was collared after running twenty more yards, or fifty-six in all. Joe Hoague and Riffle made thirteen yards in two thrusts, and Donelli sprinted around his own left end for five yards to the Bears' 20. Riffle picked up two yards, then the Steelers tried a double flanker, with two men on the right. Riffle took the ball and lateraled to his left to Hoague, who spun out of Al Forte's clutch on the 12 yard line and went over. Armand Niccolai made the seventh point.

Another threatening gesture by Pittsburgh was stopped early in the third quarter. The Bears took the ball on their 31 yard line, where a punt rolled dead, and went all the way without losing the ball, tho the Steelers put up a magnificent fight. A fourteen yard dash thru center by Swisher was the big item until Luckman passed from his own 44 yard line. Pool took it on the Steelers' 32 yard line, faked his way past Frank Zopetti, then outsped Boyd Brumbaugh across the goal.

A Touchdown in Nine Plays.

Shortly after the final period opened the Steelers kicked out on the Bears' 15 yard line and nine plays later the fifth and final touchdown was racked up. Maniaci powered his way thru tackle for twelve yards. Gallarneau spurted twenty-one yards off his own right tackle.

After Harry Clark and Maniaci were held to short gains, Snyder passed to Gallarneau, who ran to the Steelers' 23 yard line. Clark drove over the Steelers' left side for eighteen yards to the 5. Gallarneau went to the 2 yard line and Maniaci missed his scoring chance by two feet. Then Gallarneau plunged over.

A Prep Friendship Marches On for Badger Football Team

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—One of these days Dave Schreiner and Mark Hoskins, two members of the current Wisconsin football edition, may become separated and if that happens it will be headline news. So far they have walked together since prehigh school days, and the partnership is going to continue at least to the end of their college days. When that time arrives they probably will have figured ways and means to carry on together.

The two boys—both now rated stars in the Badger football combination—grew up in nearby Lancaster. They played high school football together, Schreiner as a full back, a position he deserted for an end job, and Hoskins as a half. Schreiner was one year ahead of his pal in high school, but upon graduation didn't hie away to Madison. He waited a year for Hoskins to be graduated so that they could skip off to college as a pair.

Now they are fraternity brothers and roommates. They even work together in the summer. Last summer it was as members of a road construction gang.

Schreiner a Standout End.

Before the present season closes Schreiner undoubtedly will be mentioned as one of the standout ends of the Big Nine, which is almost the same as saying in the nation. Who did the Minnesota coaches pick as one of their all-conference ends at the close of last season? They named Schreiner—and with reason. He gave the powerful Gophers the shock of their lives in the season ending game when he snared a pass and weaved his way half the length of the gridiron to score a touchdown. In addition he blocked and tackled in a way that stunned the national champions.

Who was it the New York writers singled out for praise after the game the Badgers lost to Columbia? They didn't think much of the Wisconsin eleven as a whole, but they poured out quantities of lavish words in behalf of the tall, shifty fellow for his defensive work, and his catch of a touchdown pass which registered the Badgers' only points. Earlier in the season he had wrought havoc with the Marquette team, assisted in this instance by his pal Hoskins.

Who was it that touched off a bomb under the Wildcats early in the battle of Oct. 11? The Badgers finally were smothered, 41 to 14, but the margin wasn't sufficient to erase Schreiner's catch of a pass from Quarter Back Tom Farris to send the Badgers off to a 7 to 0 lead. A week later he helped to wreck an Iowa team that figured the Badgers would be a soft touch. It was Schreiner who raced down the field, fell on the opening kickoff and thus provided the Badgers with a break which they pressed until they had piled up 23 points.

WAILING WALL TO SEE MINNESOTA GAME IN FILMS

The story in pictures of Minnesota's 7 to 0 triumph over Michigan before 85,753 football fans in Ann Arbor Saturday will be told at today's Wailing Wall session for college alumni in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel. The luncheon will start at 12:30.

Frank McCormick, Minnesota athletic director, will comment on the films before a group in which Minnesota alumni are expected to be well represented. A second feature of the session will be the appearance of Douglas Mills, recently named athletic director at Illinois. Mills, who retains a back field coaching post under Bob Zuppke, is expected to comment on the Notre Dame-Illinois game.

The double attraction is expected to bring more than 500 college alumni to the luncheon.

Monarchs Are Outscored, but Win 2 Games

Washington Shirts did the heaviest scoring in last night's bowling in the Sunday division of the Classic league—2,997, but could win only the second game from the Monarch Beers. The Washingtons totaled 1,058 in this game, which they won by more than 100 pins. This was the highest game in the league, which bowled at Steinbrecher's recreation.

The Story of the Big, Bad Bears.

This Explains Why Champions Have So Few All-Americans in the Lineup

BY EDWARD PRELL.

GEORGE HALAS and his associates of the gridiron have been summoned to the witness stand. They are there to give their reasons for the dominance of the Chicago Bears in professional football. They prove to be coöperative witnesses.

"All right, you, Mr. Halas, what do you look for in a player for your club?"

"We look for some one who is outstanding in doing a particular thing," is his ready answer. "He has to be more than just a good, steady player. He must excel either as a passer, a runner, or kicker. Likewise, the linemen must not only be big and strong, but smart and willing."

"It is our contention," continued the witness, "that the player who is a big shot on a big college team is more or less thru after taking the hard knocks for three years. He absorbs a beating every Saturday. All the team's rivals are laying for him."

"That's right, George," broke in Heartley [Hunk] Anderson, the line coach. "Remember this Grenny Lansdell fellow from Southern California a few years ago? Looked like the best college back coming into pro football. But he couldn't make it with the Giants. Check back and you'll find he carried the ball nine out of every 10 times for Southern Cal."

Witness Driscoll Supports His Mate's Testimony.

"There are only so many years a man can play good, hard football," was Paddy Driscoll's contribution from a seat near the witness stand.

Then they offered some examples. There are Bob Swisher and George Wilson, for instance, two fellows who had ordinary careers at Northwestern. They saw comparatively little action with the Wildcats. When they came to the Bears, they still had fire and dash. In the Bears' system they developed into stars, yet no team drafted them after they finished school.

These are the kind of fellows the Bears like to get. Smart and willing and unmarked by pitiless glare of the intercollegiate sports limelight.

There was a lot of talk last summer about whether Tom Harmon of Michigan would come to terms with the Bears. It perhaps was a bit exaggerated, but one fellow close to the Bears made this astounding statement: "Halas is getting worried. He's afraid Harmon is going to sign!"

Halas continued with his testimony. "Of course, we don't hold it against a boy if he has been an All-American—if it's not too firmly embedded in his mind."

"And if it is," added Hunk, with a menacing expression [he can look tougher than a drill sergeant], "we have a pretty good cure for that." We leave this to the imagination of the All-Americans, if any, who will be on future Bear teams.

The roster of Halas' elevens, past and present, are dotted with players from small schools. On this 1941 aggregation, for instance, are such fellows as George McLean from little St. Anselm's in New England; Bulldog Turner from Hardin-Simmons, down in Texas; Ray Bray from Kalamazoo Teachers, George Musso from Millikin, and John L. Federovitch. John L. had never been in a Pullman, eaten in a diner, or appeared on the radio until he came to the Bears from Davis and Elkins.

And some of those Bears of bygone seasons: Keith Molesworth of Monmouth, George Corbett of Millikin, Bill Senn of Knox, Joe Kopcha, Chattanooga university.

As in major league baseball, the bottom teams in the National Football league get first pick from the college crop. But in past years, Halas, tho his team perennially was one-two at the finish, managed to come up with the men his scouts had spotted. This was accomplished by the Bears feeding players during the season to the weaker clubs. In payment for this, the latter would draft the man Halas wanted and turn him over to the Bears.

George McAfee, for instance, was drafted by Philadelphia in 1939. The Eagles were indebted to the Bears, so they turned over McAfee and Joe Mihal for Russ Thompson and Milt Trost, two tackles. Likewise, Sid Luckman was drafted by Pittsburgh in 1938 and transferred to the Bears in payment for Edgar [Eggs] Manske who, during the preceding season, had been sent to Pittsburgh by Halas.

A new rule written into the books requires that the top two men drafted by each league club must play at least one season before being traded or sold to another team, thus blocking Halas' pet move.

Bear Alumni Scout Campuses for Pro Recruits.

Former Bears keep close watch over collegiate fields each season. They know the types of players the Bears want and they deserve a share of credit for having helped build up this wonder team. Among those keeping an eye out for future Bears are Link Lyman, Ed Healy, Beattie Feathers, Carl Brumbaugh, Ray Richards, Bernie Masterson, Bert Pearson, Walt Holmer, and Billy Patterson.

In brief, the Bears keep a jump or two ahead of the opposition. Halas has a well-knit organization, conducted in a business-like fashion the year around. The Bears were first to play in a big league baseball park, first to hold daily practices, first to scout with a movie camera, and first to make movie shorts.

Before wearily climbing off the witness stand, Halas admitted, under strong pressure, that perhaps the Bears were five years ahead of the field in football strategy and methods. He has reduced pro football, on the field and off the field, to an exact science.

OLIVER SHANK TO TEST JOE MAXIN IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Light Heavyweights Top Program Tonight.

Oliver Shank, 1936 Canadian Olympic light heavyweight representative, is expected to give Joe Maxin his hardest test as a money fighter in a 10 round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

The 22 year old Shank will be making his Chicago debut, but his reputation as a competent boxer and terrific hitter has preceded him. Oliver was given recognition as No. 1 contender for the heavyweight championship of Canada after scoring a two round knockout over Larry Bouchard in Montreal on April 22.

May End Streak.

If Shank performs against Maxin as he did in a workout in Trafton's gymnasium Saturday, Joe's chain of six victories will be broken. Maxin, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, has not suffered a defeat since Orlando Trotter scored a split decision over him in the Marigold arena Feb. 17. In subsequent fights he beat Bob Berry, Tony Paoli, Johnny Trotter, Lee Oma, Nate Bolden, and Bill Petersen. Oma and Petersen are 200 pounders; the others are light heavyweights.

George Nyberg, Port Arthur, Ont., welterweight, who has performed with better than average success in this section during the last two years, will face a formidable opponent in Pete Spotti of Pittsburgh in an eight round semi-windup. Last summer Pete beat Georgie Toy in Cleveland, Bob Hess in Johnstown, Pa., and Al Sayers in Weirton, W. Va.

Christie Meets Root.

Ted Christie, clever, hard punching New York junior lightweight, whose correct name is Miltiades Theodoros Christides, will make his second Chicago appearance in a six round event against Bobby Root, also of Cleveland. Ted sent Joe Law to the floor for the count in one round in an earlier bout in the north side club a week ago.

Other contests will bring together George Feltes, sailor middleweight from Milwaukee, and Johnny O'Brien of Calumet City, and Johnny Abbott, still another fighter from Cleveland, and Isadore Miner, south side 150 pounder. These are set for four rounds.

Tickets for the Bob Pastor-Booker Beckwith 10 round fight in Chicago Stadium on Friday night, Nov. 7, go on sale today at the Stadium box offices and Promoter Bill Rand has set a $5 top, tax included, for the show. Other prices at $1.10, $2.20, and $3.30.

BEARS TO PLACE 8,000 TICKETS ON SALE FOR SUNDAY

The biggest crowd in Chicago's professional football history will watch the Chicago Bears battle the Green Bay Packers Sunday afternoon in Wrigley field. Already, 38,000 tickets are sold.

Tomorrow morning, 3,000 standing room tickets at $1.65 each will go on sale at the Hub.

At 10 o'clock Sunday morning, 5,000 bleacher seats at $1, including tax, will be placed on sale at Wrigley field. This was decided upon last night at the behest of the regular bleacher patrons, who told club officials it would work a hardship on them to go into the loop for tickets.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, said last night that a few hundred more than 46,000 tickets will be sold. The record attendance for a Chicago pro game is 44,500, this number having watched the Bears and Packers play last year.

Peru, Ill., Oct. 26 [Special].—Scoring three times in the final period on a water soaked field today, the St. Bede academy football team defeated Loras academy of Dubuque, Ia., 27 to 0.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

CREDIT CONCERN TO BUY ASSETS OF NAT'L BOND

Nearly 75 Million Dollars Involved.

The Commercial Credit company, Baltimore, will buy the assets of National Bond and Investment company, Chicago, for approximately 75 million dollars cash, it was announced yesterday by board chairmen Lee Frank of National Bond and A. E. Duncan of Commercial Credit.

Lee Frank.

National Bond was organized in 1908 and specialized in automobile financing in 19 states of the east, south, and middle west. In recent years it has engaged in the small loan business. Commercial is engaged in the same field on a larger basis.

Purchase at Book Value.

The chairmen said National's assets will be purchased at book value. This, on June 30, totaled $74,459,000 exclusive of $10,848,000 cash on hand. On the same date, Commercial's resources were $389,729,000.

New subsidiaries of Commercial, to be operated under names similar to those used under National, will follow the plans and policies of the old company, Duncan said. Headquarters will be in Chicago. Frank said the deal would provide a broader financing service for customers of National.

In the nine months ended Sept. 30, National had net income after federal income and excess profits taxes of $1,119,526 compared with $1,323,938 in the corresponding period of 1940.

Commercial Credit Earns More.

Commercial Credit, during the nine months showed a profit of $6,743,657 on the same basis, compared with $5,918,965 in the first nine months of 1940.

Stock market action of National's stocks last week indicated unusual developments. The common advanced from 11¾ to 17½ and the 5 per cent cumulative preferred, which is entitled to $100 per share in liquidation, climbed 14 points to 93.

PROPOSES SLASH IN DIVIDENDS OF TOBACCO FIRM

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco company, today recommended a slash in the company's common stock dividends after citing an increase in taxes of "over 35 per cent of last year's earnings per common share."

Hill said in a letter to stockholders he would recommend a dividend of 75 cents a share on the common and common "B" stock payable Dec. 1, in place of the usual dividend of $1.25 per share.

The letter estimated 1941 sales volume at $334,328,000 compared with $285,752,878 in 1940. Under 1940 tax rates, Hill said, net income this year was $32,550,000 against $28,311,782 in 1940. Excess profits tax and the increase in federal taxes over 1940, however, amounted to $8,892,000, which would cut 1941 earnings to $23,658,000 or $4.53 a share compared with $5.55 a share earnings in 1940.

OPM Priorities Division Opens 4 New Field Offices

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—The priorities division of the OPM announced today the opening of four new field offices to assist business men in problems resulting from application of the priorities system. The offices, and the managers in charge are: Dayton, O., Harold B. Doty; Tulsa, Okla., Alfred E. Ballin; Milwaukee, Wis., Frank J. Tharinger; and Hartford, Conn., Edwin L. Howard.

Production of Textiles 40 Pct. Above Year Ago

New York, Oct. 26 [Special].—American textile production in the first three quarters of 1941 was 40 per cent above that for the like period of 1940, the Textile World announced today.

Big Shipyard and Aluminum Strikes Voted

New York, Oct. 26 [Special].—A strike of 6,000 employés of the Robins Drydock and Repair company in Brooklyn which holds armament and British ship repair contracts has been called for 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

More than 4,000 employés of the shipyard attended the meeting at which the strike was voted, police estimated. It was a closed meeting. Afterward it was announced that the strike vote was unanimous. The walkout was ordered by members of local 39 of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America [CIO]. They voted after hearing addresses on grievances by John Green, international president, and by Joseph Burge, New York regional director of the union.

Dispute Over Wages.

The company had been paying wages at rates below the scale established by the union at other yards, union officials said. Two months ago, they asserted, the officials of the concern agreed to meet the scale, but later they changed their minds.

The walkout will tie up work on 14 ships, many of them figures in the battle of the Atlantic. The ships now in the drydock include an Egyptian freighter, several British merchantmen, several ships of Indian registry, and others of American ownership and Panamanian registry.

STRIKE 'IF NECESSARY'

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Workers at the Aluminum Company of America plants in Maryville, Tenn., and Badin, N. C., voted to strike if necessary to back their demand for elimination of a north-south wage differential amounting to approximately 20 cents an hour it was learned yesterday. About 8,600 workers are involved at the two plants.

At Washington, mediation board spokesmen said an investigation would be completed in the aluminum case and the board would make its report by Nov. 15.

A dispute between an AFL metal

Two Unions Fight.

trades council and a welders' union in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., shipyards headed for a showdown today. The trades council announced it would begin replacing welders who do not return to their jobs today. The welders wish to work under their own charter.

At Toledo about 400 street car men and bus drivers for the Toledo Community Traction company have voted to strike at midnight tomorrow unless their wage increase demands are met, Walter Morgan, business agent for the AFL-Street Car and Bus Men's union, announced.

At St. Louis a strike of 7,000 AFL machinists employed on armament jobs, which had been set for tomorrow morning, was postponed "to give the OPM opportunity to settle it."

BUILDERS FEAR FUTURE LOSSES THRU ARMS PLAN

Private construction contractors are becoming increasingly concerned over large scale government acquisition of construction equipment thru the so-called "recapture clause" of cost plus fixed fee rearmament contracts, Taylor G. Soaper, executive secretary of the Illinois Road Builders' association, said yesterday.

The contractors believe, he said, that after the rearmament program is ended the large number of machines being acquired will be used in some vast new public works construction program in competition with private enterprise.

Their immediate concern, Soaper said, is the loss of equipment as a contractor leaves a rearmament construction job. Unless the contractor has a high priority rating he may find it impossible to get additional equipment, at least without long delay. The equipment losses mean his activities must be curtailed or, in some cases, suspended.

Butter and Fresh Pork Added to Food Stamp List

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—The agriculture department today added butter and fresh pork to the list of items obtainable under the food stamp plan of the Surplus Marketing administration. Officials explained that increased production, partly as a response to pleas to increase food supplies, had resulted in some temporary surplus of the two items.

Union Carbide's Earnings Dip; Equipment Firm Reports Gain

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported yesterday net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30 was $10,916,770, equal to $1.18 a share, compared with $11,004,553, or $1.19 a share in the September quarter of 1940.

Earnings before taxes were $16,471,436 in the 1941 quarter against $14,403,473 in 1940. Reserves for estimated depreciation and other charges were increased to $5,360,120 from $3,106,528, accounting for the small decline in net income.

Railway Equipment Gains.

Chicago Railway Equipment company had net profit of $128,271 in the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with $31,652 in the corresponding 1940 period. The company's provision for estimated federal taxes was $125,000, including increases not covered in first and second quarter provisions. The tax provision in last year's quarter was $15,000.

Minnesota and Ontario Paper company and its subsidiaries in United States and Canada had combined net income of $1,163,442 for the third quarter. Neta sales totaled $6,012,252.

Otis Steel company's third quarter net profit was $345,711 after all deductions including provision for estimated federal taxes, compared with $464,665 [before excess profits tax] in 1940's third quarter.

New Haven Nets Million.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad's September net income was $1,007,998, an increase of $781,994 over the same month last year. For the first nine months of the year the road's net income was $4,853,949, compared with a $3,765,069 deficit in 1940.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway system reported net railway operating income of $29,878,286 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, against $14,097,695 in the corresponding 1940 period. September net operating income was $4,259,370, against $2,411,054.

URGE GUARDING OF MISSISSIPPI VALLEY RIGHTS

Delegates to Study Area's Problems.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—Problems affecting the great Mississippi river valley—the heart of America—were discussed here tonight as some 500 delegates from cities and towns thruout the area began assembling for the 23d annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association which opens tomorrow morning.

Lachlan MacLeay.

Among the numerous subjects to be studied are how to aid the thousands of small businesses whose existence is being threatened by lack of materials, the need for safeguards against inflation as government expenditures soar, and corrections for the acute labor situation.

States Alms of Valley.

"We in the Mississippi valley, which embraces the entire midcontinent area, must stand together to protect our interests as other sections of the nation seek to benefit themselves at our expense," declared Lachlan MacLeay, president of the association. "We want to make this association the voice of the middle west."

MacLeay said nearly all the delegates are united in opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway and Florida ship canal.

"I find that the consensus is that all would prefer to see river and harbor legislation thrown out if any attempt is made to include the St. Lawrence and Florida projects in an omnibus measure," he asserted. "The valley prefers to sacrifice its own moderate demands rather than see these costly and unneeded enterprises go thru."

Chicago Plan Supported.

Support for Chicago's effort to increase diversion from Lake Michigan thru the drainage canal came from the St. Paul-Minneapolis area when A. D. Strong, secretary of the Upper Mississippi Waterway association, Minneapolis, urged Chicago and the Twin Cities to coöperate in attacking this problem.

"Chicago and the Twin Cities as well as the other towns and cities in states along the Mississippi should work together to bring about greater diversion from Lake Michigan," he said. "We would like to see the flow from Lake Michigan increased from the present rate of 1,500 cubic feet a second to 5,000. This would help assure a sufficient flow in the 'chain of rocks' section of the river [about seven miles north of St. Louis] to make navigation safe. And Chicago would benefit, too."

RAIL AND AIR LINE FORM EASTERN TRANSPORT UNIT

Joint establishment of a new air line corporation by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and the New Haven railroad has been authorized in United States District court at New Haven, Conn., TWA announced yesterday.

The corporation, to be known as TWA-New England, Inc., with TWA owning 55 per cent of the stock, will apply to the civil aeronautics board for the right to operate air service to cities thruout southern New England, including New York and Boston.

T. B. Wilson, chairman of TWA, said: "The linking of these two big transportation interests should be a marked forward step in transportation."

People and Events

Arthur L. Olson, assistant vice president of the Federal Reserve bank, will speak before the Chicago Forum on Defense Production Problems at 176 West Washington street tomorrow at 8 p. m. The forum is sponsored by the Chicago Commission on National Defense and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric company, announced the election of five new vice presidents: Walter R. G. Baker, Chester H. Lang, David C. Prince, Elmer D. Spicer, and Harry A. Winne.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and other Washington officials will speak before the 23d annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago Dec. 8-11. Among others will be Sen. John H. Bankhead, Rep. Clarence Cannon, and Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general.

Nazi Bankers 'Take Over' in Occupied Land

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP).—German bankers are rapidly spreading their influence over Europe behind German forces of occupation.

The German financial publication, Bank-Archive, drew attention today to the expansion of German banks into six cities of France and other occupied lands, as well as to the great strides in building a new economy for the "new Europe."

The Bank Der Deutschen Luftfahrt, it said, has founded a new banking company in Paris called the Aero-Bank. It has a capital of 200,000,000 francs, half that of Credit Lyonnais, one of France's largest bahks.

"Conclusion Is Plain."

"The size of the capital permits a plain conclusion as regards the intended rôle in Paris banking and therefore in France," it was said. "Hence it follows that French industry will be drawn in increasing measure into the entire continent's production."

It was observed that the Aero-Bank is doing "pioneer work in preparing the ground for practical coöperation of German and French credit and economy and for resultant great possibilities by regularly hitting it off together in the economic field."

Germany's financial giant, the Deutsche bank, has concluded a "friendship agreement" with the National Bank of Greece at Athens, and the Dresdner bank with the Bank of Athens.

"Economy Being Reformed."

The Dresdner bank and the Bank of Athens supplemented their understanding by founding a new company called the Greek-German Financial society, with a capital of 35,000,000 drachmas, each assuming a half interest. Dresdner bank also took over Jugo-Slav bank in Zagreb, Croatia.

The same trend is developing in eastern Europe. In Riga the Dresdner bank already has founded a new institution called Handels und Kredit bank. The Commerz bank opened branches at Riga and Tallinn and the Bank der Deutschen is represented at Cracow and Riga.

Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, held that the expansion of the German banks is significant because it is "occurring at a time when European economy is being fundamentally reformed."

HOME FURNISHING SALES GAIN OVER YEAR AGO IS CUT

Excessive "protective buying" in the wholesale home furnishings industry began slowing up in September, according to a survey of 1,984 lines represented in the Merchandise Mart, Percy Wilson, managing director, said yesterday.

September sales were only 32.1 per cent larger than in September, 1940. This gain was 10 to 15 per cent smaller than in most months this year. September sales were 18.3 per cent above August.

Houseware manufacturers, hard hit by priorities, reported their September business was only 7.1 per cent above that of a year earlier despite a constantly increasing demand for merchandise.

Car Loading Forecasts in 1940 Nearly Perfect

The 1940 car loading forecasts of the 13 regional shippers advisory boards were within 0.01 per cent accurate for the nation as a whole, the American Association of Railroads reported yesterday. The boards' combined estimates for 29 basic commodities was 23,334,103 cars, and the actual figure was 23,302,603 cars.

ROOFING PRODUCTS.

Please send me information regarding the Flintkote company and its stock.—C. F. L.

Answer: The Flintkote company and its subsidiaries manufacture various asphalt and asbestos-cement roofing and siding products, insulation boards, felts, rubber compounds, boxboards, containers, and allied materials. About 95 per cent of its business is domestic and sales offices are in many large cities of the United States. Flintkote, incorporated in 1917 as successor to a company founded in 1901, has expanded its operations thru acquisition of other manufacturing units and construction of new facilities. Plants are in New Jersey, California, Illinois, Michigan, Mississippi, Georgia, Ohio, New York, and Louisiana.

There are 686,196 shares of no par common and 40,000 shares of no par $4.50 cumulative preferred stock, the latter issued in June this year. The common and preferred are listed on the New York Stock exchange. There is no funded debt. At the end of 1940 total assets were more than $15,000,000.

Flintkote's sales have been increasing and operations have been profitable since losses in 1931 and 1932.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Dividends.
1940	$19,897,748	$1,436,550	$1.00
1939	17,164,148	1,432,383	1.00
1938	15,147,709	811,818	.60
1937	15,163,867	1,005,423	1.00
1936	13,076,258	1,171,034	1.50

Quarterly dividends of $1.12½ each were paid on the new preferred in June and September. Three 25 cent payments have been made on the common this year. For the 52 weeks ended Oct. 4 net income was $1,643,234, compared with $1,472,629 in the corresponding 1940 period. Net sales in the respective periods were $25,104,227 and $19,005,294.

PARTICIPATING BONDS.

What is a participating bond?—R. O.

RESERVE BOARD CHANGES TIME PAYMENT RULES

Closes 'Loopholes'; Eases Others.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP).—The Federal Reserve board today revised its instalment credit regulations, effective Dec. 1, in order, it said, to close some loopholes and ease some restrictions. The major changes:

1. Increase the maximum amount of instalment loans covered by the regulations from $1,000 to $1,500.

2. Direct that instalment lenders require borrowers [beginning Jan. 2] to sign a statement as to the purpose of the loan.

3. Exempt from regulation business loans and loans for the purchase or construction of an entire building.

Gives Farmers More Leeway.

4. Give farmers greater leeway in payment of instalment loans.

5. Eliminate any requirement for a down payment if it would be no more than $2.

6. Permit an optional arrangement in the case of "add ons"—that is, additional credit added to any original credit—under which the new credit may be treated separately or the combined credit may be paid up in 15 months.

The requirement of a statement as to the purpose of an instalment loan, the board said, "closes the loophole whereby—altho dealers in listed articles were required to obtain down payments—cash lenders were free to lend the full price unless the article was given as security for the loan."

Explains Farm Provision.

The change with respect to borrowing by farmers was planned to accord with the "seasonal nature of their income," the board said. It will permit any schedule of instalment loan payments by farmers, so long as the down payment and 18 months maturity requirements are met, and provided that one-half of the balance is paid within one-half of the maximum maturity.

The board announced that it had eliminated its proposed $5 minimum monthly instalment requirement, which was to have become effective Jan. 1. At the same time it prohibited the extension of an instalment loan for the purpose of making a down payment on one of the 24 articles listed in the regulations.

The original instalment credit regulations were announced in August and became effective in September. In general, they limited such credit to 18 months and fixed a schedule of down payments for certain articles, ranging from 33⅓ per cent on automobiles to 10 per cent on furniture.

ALLOCATE HIGH PRIORITY STEEL, SURVEY ADVISES

Cleveland, O., Oct. 26 (AP).—High priority steel must be allocated to bring about efficient distribution, the magazine Steel said today.

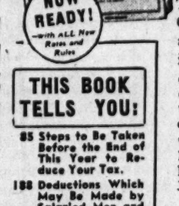
Steelmakers are paying more attention to dates when high priority steel actually is to be used in order to give deliveries to best advantage. However, the burden of top priority orders has become so heavy that schedules are difficult to formulate unless it is known which orders are needed earliest, the review said.

"The situation has developed to the point where priorities mean relatively little," it declared.

Labor strife at Detroit, which reduced steel production there 36 points to 32 per cent of capacity, caused a one point drop in the national rate to 95½ per cent last week.

WARNING ON INCOME TAX PAYMENTS

New Tax Law—Just Passed By Congress — Calls for Highest Rates in U. S. History!



If you are SINGLE and Earn $15 a week or more, MARRIED and Earn $30 a week or more, YOU are NOW subject to the Income Tax and MUST file a Return!

UNDER the NEW Income Tax Law most individuals must pay from TWO to THREE AND ONE-HALF times as much as last year, because of rising Defense costs. Everyone wants to share his rightful part. Good citizens are willing to pay their full share of taxes. However, the Government expects no one to overpay his tax. Furthermore, an incorrect return—whether resulting in *under*payment OR *over*payment—hinders the tax program, costs the Government needless adjustment expenses.

This NEW edition of Your Income Tax is now ready—completely up-to-the-minute, containing every requirement of the new tax bill plus important tax decisions of the past year which may affect you.

THIS BOOK TELLS YOU:

85 Steps to Be Taken Before the End of This Year to Reduce Your Tax.
188 Deductions Which May Be Made by Salaried Men and Women.
173 Items Which You May Exclude from Your Gross Income.
48 Different Taxes Deductible by an Individual.
190 Items That Are NOT Deductible.
242 Deductions Which May Be Made If You Are Engaged in a Trade, Business or Profession.
45 Recommendations as to Security Transactions.
 Special Sections for Those in the Army and Navy—for Draftees—for Farmers.

Why You Should Buy This Book at Once

Each year, thousands unknowingly pay the Government more than they should. In many cases the Government has no indication of such overpayment. The money is not refunded. Each year, other thousands are heavily penalized for underpayment caused by honestly mistaken ideas about exemptions and deductions. It is up to you to find out your legal deductions, and how to make out your correct return. And this book has shown 500,000 taxpayers how.

YOUR INCOME TAX

1. Tells EACH and EVERY deduction to which you are justly entitled—many of which your tax blank does not tell you about, and on some of which action must be taken before the end of this year.

2. Tells how to prepare your income tax return QUICKLY AND CORRECTLY . . . thus saving time, money and avoiding future assessments, penalties and interest charges.

The Tribune herewith presents sheet No. 3 of the Guzik-Nitti gang's financial statement for July showing day by day income and outgo on gambling houses in Cook county outside Chicago. The statement covers numerous houses. Two exceptionally profitable days—July 7 and 11—are recorded in the dice column. Blank spaces in the "horses" column are for Sundays. The net profits of $139,304 for the month were split three ways. For explanation see story on page 1.
